A summer White House for the President of the United States is all right, although Mr. Hoover already has a flock of them, but we fear that when the bill to provide a $500,000 mansion for the Vice President comes out of conference it'll contain an amendment authorizing a palace for the Speaker, a Senatorial Row on Sixteenth street, and a bungalow for every Congressman.

COUNSEL OPENS CAPTAIN'S CASE; PALMIST READY

Mrs. Blalock Will Appear When She Is Needed, Bride Asserts.

BURLINGAME'S TRIAL MAPPED AT SESSION

Prosecutor Meets Collins and Blanton; Refuses to Give Details.

TEXAN PLEDGES HELP, OFFICIAL ANNOUNCES

Two Other Accused Captains Refuse to Comment on Charges of Gratt.

Mrs. Helen F. Bialock, the palmist, whose friendship with police Capt. Guy E. Burlingame was brought to a sensational climax by a series of charges which have rocked not only the entire Police Department but the District government as well, will appear when she is needed to push the charges against the suspended police captain.

That was the prediction made confidently yesterday by William W. Bride, corporation counsel, to whom the District Commissioners have turned over the task of investigating and prosecuting the charges against Burlingame.

Coupled with his expression of confidence in the intention of Mrs. Bialock to appear at the psychological moment, Bride declared that, while he did not know what specific charges would be preferred against Burlingame, he was confident that he would have more than a good chance to prove those which were preferred.

Immediately he sought to rob this statement of something of its sensational character by adding that he did not intend to prefer and charges against the accused and suspended police official simply as a grand-stand play.

Statement Follows Conference.

He does not intend, Bride said, to fire at Burlingame with a blunderbuss loaded with all possible charges in the hope that some of them will stick.

Bride's statement was made at the Distric Building following conferences held at the Capitol with Representative Blanton, of Texas, friend and supporter of Mrs. Bialock, and later, in the District Building with Assistant United States District Attorney William H. Collins, who has been intrusted by United States District Attorney Leo A. Rover with the investigation of the possible criminal aspects of the charges against Burlingame.

Both Collins and Blanton refused to discuss their conferences with Bride, declaring that any discussion of the matter would have to come from Bride.

Blanton Promises Cooperation.

Blanton promised him his heartiest cooperation in pushing the affair to a definite and final conclusion, Bride said. He said he had gone to see the Texas representative to ask for his cooperation and to tell him that District officials were as anxious as Blanton to get to the bottom of the situation and take appropriate action.

Answering specific questions from newspaper reporters, Bride said that Blanton did not give him any new evidence which might help prove charges already made or extend his inquiry, although he said that he asked Blanton to give him everything he had or

Passenger Dump Valve In Airplane Successful

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—They have long had dump valves in airplanes for gasoline, but now they've got one for passengers. Floyd Smith demonstrated the new device at Mercer airport, tilting the passenger seat with a lever and letting a 180-pound dummy passenger hurtle down from a height of 1,500 feet. The dummy's parachute opened in 1 4-5 seconds and dummy floated safely to earth.

The election of Gen. Higgins, heretofore a commissioner of the army and chief of staff, marks a new phase in the long struggle to release the organization, with its property assets, from control by members of the Booth

CRUISER FUND FIGHT LOOMING IN SENATE

Foes of Bill Coolidge Signs Likely to Attack Supply Act Amendment.

ACTION FACES DEFEAT

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Coolidge signed the cruiser bill yesterday, as forecast in The Washington Post, and paved the way for the final consummation of the national defense program. But there is apparently to be one last flicker of anti-Navy opposition in connection with appropriating the first money to begin construction of the ships.

The first funds to be used in carrying out the $274,000,000 building program, involving the fifteen cruisers and one airplane carrier, will come to the Senate from the Bureau of the Budget in the shape of estimates today.

The naval affairs committee plans to include these estimates in an amendment to the naval supply bill now before the committee. After hearings on the estimates, the committee will report the bill to the Senate. It has been expected that the bill would reach the floor today or tomorrow.

According to present indications, there will be a last effort to eliminate

VIRGINIA SITE URGED AS SUMMER CAPITAL

Coolidge Asks Congress to Vote $48,000 to Repair Mount Weather.

HOME SOUGHT FOR CURTIS

Establishment of a summer White House at Mount Weather, Va., was recommended to Congress yesterday by President Coolidge. The President asked that $48,000 be appropriated to put the property in shape.

Mount Weather, a tract of 184 acres in Loudoun and Clarke Counties, is owned by the United States Government, and at present is being used by the Weather Bureau.

President Coolidge recommended that the propertj be transferred from the Department of Agriculture to Lieut Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks.

The establishment of a summer home for the President near the National Capital was suggested by Mr. Coolidge in an article he wrote for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Since then a dozen or more States have offered sites for the proposed home.

Shortly before the President's recommendations were received at the Capitol yesterday, Representative Ernest W. Gibson (Republican), Vermont, introduced a bill providing for a home here for the Vice President.

The bill proposes the creation of a commission made up of the Vice President, the Speaker of the House and the architect of the Capitol. This commission would be authorized to acquire by "gift or purchase" a home here for the use of the Vice President.

It is specified that the cost of the home, if one is purchased, shall not exceed $500,000.

Mrs. John B. Henderson once offered the Government a magnificent house on Sixteenth street for the use

Mother of Lindbergh Will Remarry, Report

New York, Thursday, Feb. 14 (A.P.). Beneath a photograph of the couple, the New York Times today prints the following:

"A report current in New York yesterday, but unverified, was that Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, would soon announce her engagement to wed Capt. F. E. Anderson, of the S. S. President Wilson."

HOOVER'S FARM HELP PROGRAM HAS FIVE PARTS

Jardine's Quitting Post Brings Out Purported Plan in Detail.

BACKS M'NARY BILL WITH ITS BIG FUND

A. J. Glover Said to Lead Fifteen Men for Agriculture Office.

President-elect Hoover is prepared to submit to the extra session of Congress a five-fold plan of farm relief, including the new McNary bill. Coincident with Secretary Jardine's announcement yesterday that he will return to private life March 4, as counsel for the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, the Hoover farm relief plan was disclosed from a source so close to the President-elect as to give it the stamp of authority.

The plan, comprising one outstanding feature about which farm leaders themselves are not in agreement, is as follows:

1—Enactment of the revised McNary bill creating a "stabilization board" and making available a fund of between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000 with which the board can operate to prevent prices in any commodity from dropping below a "safe" level.

Cooperative Marketing Loans.

2—Financial aid to existing cooperative marketing associations through loans.

3—Machinery and financial assistance for federating the cooperative associations in order to bring them into one organization, centrally controlled so far as marketing products will allow.

4—Upward revision of the tariff in all schedules of and relating to farm commodities.

Glover May Get Post.

In connection with the Agriculture Secretaryship, definitely left to Hoover's action through the Jardine statement, quarters close to the President-elect divulged that A. J. Glover, Fort Atkinson, Wis., president of the American Dairy Federation, is being seriously considered for the post.

Glover, a man in the early fifties, is editor of Hoard's Dairyman, a nationally known journal, and is well and favorably known to cooperative marketing associations. He was selected by the dairy federation to serve on a committee to nominate a chief for Bureau of Animal Industry of the Agriculture Department and on the committee's recommendation O. E. Reed was appointed.

Glover has been recommended to Hoover in the highest terms and is reliably reported to rank high among the sixteen men the President-elect has been asked to consider for the Cabinet place. Louis J. Tabor, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, also is understood to be under consideration.

McNary Bill Indorsed.

Further indorsement of the McNary bill was contained in Jardine's statement announcing his return to private life an announcement that again brought to the fore the perplexing agricultural problems confronting the new administration.

"During the past four years," Jardine said, "I have consistently held that the stabilization of agricultural production and prices is our most urgent economic problem; that sound cooperative marketing associations and stabilizing corporations must be the basis of aid extended by the Federal Government; that we should greatly increase our agricultural research, and that we must keep the domestic market for the American farmer."

Has Fought for Principles.

"I have fought for these principles. Even those who have differed with me on the fundamentals of the farm problem know I have been sincere, consistent and determined in my stand. I believe that the bill introduced in Congress by Senator McNary will serve as a basis for solving many of the ills which have confronted the farmers of the nation since the war."

Although prepared to support the five-fold Hoover plan, farm leaders are even better prepared to point out to the President-elect what they hold to be the dangers of the outstanding feature of the proposal: the federating of existing cooperative associations.

Significant of the wide divergence among the farmers is the fact that representatives of Southern organizations urged the President-elect during his recent stay in Washington to call a conference on the farm problem. Hoover is understood to have declined, and these leaders pressed their views on Secretary Jardine and demanded that such a conference be held.

Would Organize Themselves.

Their position, and the position held generally among officials of farm organizations, is that the work of organizing the farmer must be left to

FLOOD OF TELEGRAMS AMAZES BRIDE-ELECT

Parents Refuse to Allow Interview With Her at Embassy.

YOUNG PAIR EXPECTED TO MAKE HOME HERE

Capital Residence Likely If Lindbergh Is Member of "Little Cabinet."

Mexico City, Feb. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, whose engagement to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was announced yesterday, retired into seclusion today at the American embassy as the flood of publicity began to beat more fiercely than ever on the Morrow family. Anne kept indoors and wondered how she would ever be able to see it through.

Frankly bewildered by the hundreds of telegrams that have poured into her home within the last 24 hours, Anne is still unable to explain, even to herself, why so many persons can be interested in her engagement. Ambassador and Mrs. Morrow have refused all requests for interviews with their daughter.

It has not been announced from the embassy when the wedding is to take place. Friends close to the Morrows say that Miss Anne and her fiancee would themselves fix the date and place. It may be remembered that last year the Morrow family went north in May in order that the Ambassador might receive degrees from Harvard, Brown and Williams and for Miss Anne's graduation from Smith College. It was indicated today that no plans have been made yet for a trip this year. Nor has there been a denial that the wedding would take place in Mexico City in June.

Friends close to the Morrows explained that Anne is very shy and reserved and that an interview "would frighten her to death." Anne is essentially a home girl and her life has been passed chiefly in her home and at school and college. She was president of her class at Miss Chapin's school in New York and at Smith she went in for the college publications.

Anne's Poem Wins.

Always a good student, she early turned to literature and in this bent was encouraged by her mother. Mother and daughter often wrote poetry in competition and it was only last winter that they both contributed poems to a poetry society in New York. Anne's poem was voted the best and it was published last spring in Scribner's Magazine. Here is the poem:

HEIGHT.

By Anne Spencer Morrow.

When I was young I felt so small
And frightened, for the world was tall.
And even grasses seemed to me
A forest of immensity.
Until I learned that I could grow,
A glance would leave them far below.
Spanning a tree height with my eyes
Suddenly I soared as high.
And fixing on a star, I grew
I pushed my head against the blue!
Still like a singing lark, I find
Rapture to leave the grass behind.
And sometimes standing in a crowd
My lips are cool against a cloud.

Won Research Prize.

Last year Miss Anne won the Mary Augusta Jordan prize at Smith for the most original research work done by any member of the senior class. It was learned from her acquaintances that she is an omnivorous reader, with especial preference for literature, both English and French, of the eighteenth century.

Poetry, however, is her greatest literary love. Her taste, her friends say, is varied and she has no real favorites among poets. Anne does not go out much socially and is seen rarely at par-

CONFERENCES CALL HOOVER BACK EARLY

Plans to Arrive in Capital Next Week; Will Confer With Party Leaders.

MAY WORK ON CABINET

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 13—With his wonted impulsiveness, President-elect Hoover today decided to leave for Washington either Monday or Tuesday. In so doing he threw aside the pressure of some of his advisers that he should remain away until the eve of his inauguration, but he fulfills the promise he made to senators and members of the House that he would be back in plenty of time to talk with them again before making any commitments.

It was the argument of those who wanted him to stay away that he would be bound to become involved in matters pending before the present Congress if he returned. His sudden decision to leave early next week and other happenings indicate that instead of letting this argument frighten him he purposely wants to be close by.

There is the question of what is to be done about the national origins clause of the immigration act, for one thing. If the Congress adjourns without repealing it, Mr. Hoover, as President, will have to proclaim it to be in effect July 1, unless, of course, the special session should act. He does not want to do this. As the leader of his party in the recent campaign he declared for the repeal of the clause. In the first place it is impossible to apply the provisions of the clause, he declared. His stand, in his acceptance address and in other speeches during the campaign was inevitably accepted as a party declaration.

Reports here are to the effect that the House is overwhelmingly in favor of repeal and it is represented that a majority for repeal exists in the Senate. But a group led by Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, is gainst repeal and the senator has said in so

SLAIN DETECTIVE'S WIDOW KILLS SELF

Woman Ends Life Soon After Testifying at Inquest in Husband's Death.

MYSTERY MARKS SLAYING

Willimantic, Conn., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Mrs. William E. Jackson, widow of County Detective Jackson, who was slain by a bullet in the kitchen of his home on January 29, shot and killed herself with a rifle late today. She and her daughter, Juanita, were witnesses today at the coroner's inquest into the death of Jackson. Two days ago at Putnam a special grand jury indicted Trenor A. Rice, deputy sheriff, and intimate friend of the Jackson family, for murder of the detective.

Mrs. Jackson testified for 70 minutes at the inquest and her daughter for 50 minutes, but what either said was not made known by the coroner. It was noticed, however, by those outside the courtroom that Mrs. Jackson appeared greatly worried as she left the place. Both went immediately to their farm home.

Shortly after 4 o'clock, Mrs. Jackson went upstairs and a few minutes later those downstairs heard the thud of a falling body. They say they heard no shot. Rushing upstairs they found Mrs. Jackson dead in the bathroom, with a wound in her side. A .22-caliber rifle was by her side.

Among those downstairs in the house at the time of the suicide was a policeman who had been assigned to protect Mrs. Jackson from unwelcome visitors.

The slaying of Jackson was surrounded by mystery. Reports are that Rice and the slain man had had an argument over Rice's attentions to Juanita, shortly before the detective's death. It also is known that Mrs. Jackson sent for Rice to look after the farm immediately after her husband was killed and that he became a self-appointed guard for several days.

At today's inquest two schoolgirl witnesses testified they had seen two

Daughter Charges Mother Is Slayer of Eight Infants

Saw Her Child Strangled to Death, She Says; Parent, She Adds, Killed Four of Her Own and Three Other Grandchildren; Women and Mates Held.

St. Joseph, Mich., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Sheriff Fred G. Bryant said tonight that Mrs. Okel Gorham, 38 years old, had confessed she was present Sunday morning when her mother, Mrs. Ethel Lewis, 49, poisoned and strangled the infant son of the younger woman, and had formally charged her mother killed three other grandchildren and four children of her own.

The young mother, whose home is in Dowagiac, Mich., and who charged earlier in the day that her mother had killed five infant children, in a signed statement tonight increased that number to eight.

"Ma put dope in the milk and choked him," Mrs. Gorham said when questioned about the death of the boy, Clarence Wesley, 17 months old, who died early Sunday morning.

"I saw her choke him with her hand."

She had asserted previously that her mother gave the child poisoned milk Saturday night and said the boy died in her arms after crying throughout the night.

Mrs. Lewis, Sheriff Bryant said, admitted placing poison in the child's milk but denied choking him or caus-

Two Fugitives in Car Battle Officer in Dash to Escape

Policemen's Machine Is Run Over in Wild Race Through Cemetery and Mud Road; Men Are Overpowered; One Nearly Tears Off Jailer's Finger.

The tale of a chase that would have been a thriller as a Northwest Mounted story is told in prosaic terms in the report of Maryland State Policeman C. Dillinger, of Leonardtown, to Sergt. C. E. Duckworth, in charge of the Laurel Substation of the Maryland State Police.

Dillinger's report tells of desperate battles which occurred Sunday in the pursuit of two Washington men which led through graveyards, mud roads, private property and then a trip to the office of a justice of the peace, finally ending with a jailer nearly losing a finger at the hands of one of the prisoners.

According to the report, Dillinger saw an automobile speed past him in Mechanicsville, where he was standing beside his motor cycle. He started in pursuit. The chase led down the State road toward Leonardtown about a mile, then veered into a side road, which was little less than a mud puddle, then around a house and back toward Mechanicsville.

As they came around the house, Dillinger had jumped from his motor in an effort to stop the two men in the car. The fugitives ran over the policeman's motor cycle causing slight dam-tics. Always in good health, she is not what might be termed the athletic type. She did, however, play hockey at Miss Chapin's school, but at Smith devoted herself to her studies and her literary work. By temperament Anne is shy and reserved.

Her first visit to Mexico was made last year at Christmas, when she came here for her holidays. She first met Lindbergh at that time. From that time their names were often coupled. Lindbergh was too busy with his official duties to have much time for courting.

Congratulations Are Numerous.

However, on his visit here last November he was with Miss Anne constantly and there was no mistaking his attentions. This time he was here for a serious purpose and wherever Mrs. Morrow and Anne went, Lindbergh went along, too.

The telegrams that came today congratulating Miss Morrow were from all parts of the world. The majority were from her former classmates at Miss Chapin's school and Smith College. There were also pleasant salutations for Ambassador Morrow when he cabled at the foreign office or encountered friends elsewhere. Since, however, betrothal announcements in Mexico take another form—betrothal ceremony in Mexico is both civil and religious and proceedings are rigidly prescribed—recognition of the engagement failed to call for formal felicitations. Nevertheless, many diplomatic acquaintances of the Morrows dropped cards at the Embassy and scores of bouquets were sent to Miss Anne.

May Make Home Here.

Announcement that Col. Charles Lindbergh is to wed Anne Morrow, daughter of Dwight W. Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, has revived the report in the Capital that the "Lone Eagle" will enter the "Little Cabinet" as Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of aviation.

Those familiar with the plans of Col. Lindbergh believe that he is ready to curtail some of his flying activities and make his home in the Capital, which would be essential if he should take the Federal post.

President-elect Hoover's work in behalf of commercial aviation has been outstanding and he virtually fathered the plans for the aviation activities now centered in the Department of Commerce. At the same time, it is known that he is cognizant of the fact that Lindbergh has done possibly more than any other man to stimulate flying in the United States. Moreover, he is a great admirer of the first man to conquer the Atlantic on a non-stop flight.

The engagement announcement is being pointed to as giving additional strength to the report that Lindbergh is ready to assume a directive rather than an active part in the world of flying. Washington, to a certain extent, is really home to the flying colonel as he went to school in this city while his father served in Congress. Since his trans-Atlantic flight he has been a constant visitor for numerous conferences on aviation progress and is known to be greatly impressed with the capital as a home city.

TWO RESCUE FLIGHTS MADE BY LINDBERGH

Colonel Prepares to Join in New Hunt This Morning for Rogers' Plane.

WASHINGTON FLIER FOUND

Miami, Fla., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who today completed the last leg of his round-trip to Central America, inaugurating airmail service to the Canal Zone, twice took the air after his return to search for fellow pilots forced down in the Florida Keys.

After making a 4½-hour flight over the keys in search of a plane from which two persons were rescued by a ferryboat, the flying colonel, accompanied by Col. John A. Hambleton, vice president of the Pan-American Airways, Inc., roared away into the dusk to seek the pilot of one of the planes that joined the search today, returning several hours later without having sighted the lost flier.

Rescued by Ferryboat.

Search for the first plane, in which R. I. Dunten, operations manager of the Pan-American, and Lieut. Steven Callaway, of Washington, were forced down yesterday, was already under way when Col. Lindbergh arrived, but a short time later he took the air, and fifteen minutes after he took off word of their rescue by a ferryboat was received at the field.

When a check-up of planes engaged in the search was made late today, Harry Rogers, Miami pilot, was listed as missing and a short time later Col. Lindbergh, accompanied by Col. Hambleton, took off to look for him and after zig-zagging over the keys to Key West, returned and announced that the search would be continued at dawn tomorrow.

A squadron of seven or eight planes will join the Flying Colonel in search for Rogers who, Pan-American officials said, apparently flew over a wider range than anticipated in the search for Dunten and Callaway and probably was forced down by exhaustion of fuel.

Capt. McNeilly in Charge.

The search tomorrow will be under the direction of Capt. R. W. McNeilly, commandant of the Key West Naval Station. Five Government vessels from the Key West base were searching the seas tonight for Rogers.

Rogers is an experienced pilot and familiar with the keys, over which he has made numerous flight in recent years. He has made several long distance flights, the most notable being the first nonstop flight from New York to Miami in January, 1928, on which he was accompanied by Miss Ruth Nichols, of Rye, N. Y.

When he took off from Miami at 5:58 a. m., in search of the Hoyt plane, he was accompanied by Ralph Dalstrom, assistant pilot, Floyd S. Whalton and J. Angus, mechanics.

Two Fliers Killed When Plane Falls in Ravine

Fairfax, Okla., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—H. L. Helton, Fairfax Garage owner and student pilot, and Joe Boone, pilot, Cushing, Okla., were killed when a plane piloted by Helton crashed 1,000 feet into a deep ravine, five miles west of here late today.

The men had been in the air for some time before the crash occurred and Helton, who had about four flying hours to his credit, was at the controls. Osage County officials were unable to determine what had caused the plane to fall. The plane plunged into underbrush a short distance from the Fairfax-Ponca City highway. Both men were dead when motorists, who saw the crash, reached them.

Prospectors' Trio Dies As Fire Consumes Cabin

Sioux Lookout, Man., Feb. 13 (A.P.). Trapped by flames in their tiny cabin at Narrow Woman Lake, Portage, three prospectors were burned to death. Four dogs, chained to the outside of the building, also perished.

News of the tragedy was brought here by airplane. The barks of the terrified dogs roused R. F. Dynes, sleeping in a shack some distance away, but because of the flames he was unable to rescue either the men or the dogs. The victims were Tony Tyrrell and men named Gougan and Voigt.

Flier's Romance Recalls Father as Morrow's Foe

Elder Lindbergh Long Warred on "Money Trust," With House of Morgan and Its Members as Targets for Shafts; Young Lovers Erase Past.

(United Press.)

There is grim irony behind the romance of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Anne Spencer Morrow.

The flying colonel, in seeking the hand of the daughter of the former partner of J. P. Morgan, cast aside the heritage of political hatred from his father, the late anti-Wall street representative from Minnesota, avowed enemy of big banking and the instigator of the 1911 "money trust" investigation.

The story is old. It has been sung by wandering minstrels. Shakespeare told it in his "Romeo and Juliet" when the enmity of the houses of Montague and Capulet failed to keep the lovers apart. It has been retold many, many times with slight variations.

Now, with the announcement of the engagement of the daughter of Dwight Morrow, Ambassador to Mexico, multimillionaire and former Wall street banker, to the son of the late Representative Charles A. Lindbergh, nonpartisan free-thinker and enemy of the house of Morgan, fiction becomes a reality.

Lindbergh's father never missed an opportunity to sink oratorical barbs into Wall street, big bankers and the house of Morgan.

In speeches on the floor of the House in 1917 and in a book published in 1918 he charged the firm of J. P. Morgan with responsibility for this country's participation in the World War.

Anne Morrow was born to the royal purple of finance and society. Lindbergh was born the son of a man who set himself up as the congressional champion of the people against Wall street.

Miss Morrow lived a cloistered life as a student in select schools. Lindbergh passed a great part of his boyhood traveling with his father, whom he worshiped, and listening to attacks on the people Miss Morrow knew and respected.

"In many respects money is the strangest of all human creatures," the elder Lindbergh wrote in his book on "The Money Trust." "On the one hand it has civilized the world and on the other has commercialized and in a manner criminalized the people.

"But that is not because the purpose of money is erroneous. It is because the office of true money has been usurped by false money, which has served as a false God, and the worship of this false God has caused the degradation of the soul of humanity."

Lindbergh, sr., included the film of J. P. Morgan, of which Dwight Morrow was until recently an active partner, in the "Money Trust." It is "A man-made God that controls the social and industrial system that governs us," he wrote.

Lindbergh, sr., advocated the necessity of teaching children the truth about "money domination" in this country. In 1923 he wrote the "Economic Pinch," a book dealing further with the "Money Trust" and Wall street banking houses.

In that book he wrote a sentence which yesterday turned out to be an ironic prophecy:

"Give children the facts and they will correct things when it comes their time."

CONGRESS CERTIFIES REPUBLICAN VICTORY

Houses Hold Joint Session to Formally Proclaim Hoover's Election.

MEETING GOOD-NATURED

(United Press.)

The solemn ceremony of Congress certifying the election of Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis was turned into a joyful affair yesterday when the Senate and House met jointly.

Democrats yelled "Whoopee" when tellers announced States that went for Alfred E. Smith while Republicans retaliated by giving a "rebel yell" when the returns from Texas and Virginia were formally announced.

Vice President Dawes presided at the joint session and warned against demonstrations. This did not deter members from laughing at the returns, making good-natured remarks and applauding vigorously.

One teller had a ministerial voice but it failed to take effect. He read the ballots in a solemn low tone and members enjoyed the recitation so well they demanded he speak louder.

Several times the tellers made an error by reading a State for Smith and shouts of "How come?" were hurled from the floor.

When the final vote was tabulated, giving Hoover 444 and Smith 87 ballots, there were cheers for the Hoover announcement but silence when the Democratic figure was read.

The ceremony began with majestic splendor. Members of the Senate, preceded by Vice President Dawes and two sergeants-at-arms wearing white gloves, paraded across the Capitol corridors and entered the House chamber at 1 o'clock.

Dawes took the Speaker's chair and Speaker Longworth sat at his left. Two pages, Milton McCarty, Eastland, Tex., and John Cardon, Logan, Utah, grandson of Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, entered carrying the valuable ballot boxes.

The session was called to order and four tellers began tolling off the count—Alabama 12 for Smith and 12 for Robinson and ending with Wyoming 3 for Hoover and 3 for Curtis.

During the reading the election was virtually "fought over." Republicans jibed the Democrats with good-natured remarks. Minority members were heard to say, "Wait till next time."

Housewife Finds $700 Diamond in Lard Bucket

Huntington, W. Va., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—A bucket of lard purchased in a Huntington grocery has enriched Mrs. E. O. Young by some $700.

While making a cake she found a shiny object in the lard. Today she took it to a jeweler, who identified it as a diamond valued at approximately $700.

Police in 4 States Hunt Kidnaped Girl

Nancy Ellen Keys, 4, Stolen by Couple in Auto, Is Widely Sought.

Hillsboro, Ohio, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Nancy Ellen Keys, 4-year-old Hillsboro girl, who was kidnaped yesterday, was the object of a search by the police of four States tonight.

Custody of the child recently was awarded to her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Keys, of this city, following the death of her mother, Mrs. Ella Hammon, in a hotel at Dayton, Ohio. A man giving the name of Orval Overholser, with whom the girl was living when her mother died, protested.

A woman known as Mrs. Edith Bowman, who moved to Hillsboro a week ago, enticed Nancy Ellen and her aunt, Miss Lillian Keys, 17, into an automobile yesterday. Later a man, whom Mrs. Bowman introduced as her husband, got into the car and took the wheel. Driving to Cincinnati he pushed the 17-year-old girl out of the machine and drove off with Nancy Ellen.

Police of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia have been asked to search for the child. Overholser is sought for questioning.

Queens Grand Jury Votes Bribery Bills

"Two or More" Indicted for Alleged Offer Made to Borough President.

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The Queens County grand jury tonight returned an indictment charging two or more persons with attempting to bribe George U. Harvey, Queens Borough president. Warrants for the arrest of the indicted persons, whose names were kept secret, were issued immediately.

Action by the grand jury followed testimony earlier in the day that Harvey had been offered $200,000 if he would favor certain builders in borough sewer contracts.

District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe last week received from Harvey the names of four men whom the borough president identified with the bribe effort. Today Harvey added that Frank H. Berg, a private detective, was a visitor at his summer home the day the bribe was made. An immediate denial that any bribe was offered was made by Berg.

ITALY TO INSTITUTE CLEAN-UP IN ROME

Moral Crusade in Eternal City Is Provided For in Pact With Vatican.

SHORT SKIRTS MUST GO

Rome, Feb. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Rome will shortly become the cleanest capital in the world from a moral standpoint as a direct consequence of the signing of the accord between the Vatican and Italy.

Clerical circles, commenting upon such points of the concordat as have been published, foresee many changes. Great stress is placed upon the purification of the Eternal City by virtue of the fact that the pontiff's spiritual supremacy over Roman and Italian life is implicit in the settlement.

"In consideration of the sacred character of Rome, the Episcopal see of the supreme pontiff and the center of the Catholic world, the Italian government will take care to prevent all that which may interfere with this character," one clause of the concordat states.

Paris Modes Not to Rule.

Clericals outline the following consequences of this clause:

Rome will see no more scantily clad young women engaged in athletic contests nor short-skirted ones meeting for rifle competitions. Women's dress will be controlled in harmony with the Pope's own desires for modesty rather than by Paris modes.

In the movement to uplift and uphold Rome's character, chorus girls will not be allowed to appear on its stages without proper covering.

It is predicted that next Lent dancing will be prohibited in public places as it has always been taboo in Catholic drawing rooms.

The police will forbid gambling in the cafes with renewed zeal and the city's night clubs, frowned upon already, will disappear for good and all.

Production of the works of Gabriel D'Annunzio, poet, soldier and air ace, now on the index expurgata (the list of writings condemned by the Holy See), was protested against last winter in vain, but his plays will never be given here again.

Objectionable literature and sensational newspapers and pictures will be condemned with redoubled zeal and strict censorship of motion pictures maintained. In this respect Pope Pius XI and Premier Mussolini have always seen eye to eye.

Labor Day Is Shifted.

Methodist and Y. M. C. A. activities will be tolerated, as will other religious sects, including the Greek Orthodox and Jewish, but it will no longer be possible for them to carry on religious propaganda in Italy. In this point, too, the Vatican and Fascism have long been at one. The Protestant Waldensian sect will be bidden to cease spreading its propaganda.

September 20, hitherto a national holiday, and Fascist Labor Day, will no longer be observed. Labor Day will be transferred to Rome's birthday, April 21. King Victor Emanuel III has chosen that date to sign the pact of conciliation between the Vatican and the Italian state. Thus the day which the Vatican for 60 years has observed as one of mourning and the Italian state as one of rejoicing will be like any other working day—plain September 20.

Championship Won By Seppala's Dogs

Sled Race Is Easy Victory When One of St. Goddard's Animals Goes Lame.

Laconia, N. H., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Leonhard Seppala, Alaskan musher, won the New England championship dog sled race today by beating out Emil St. Godard, of The Pas, Manitoba, in the last 15 miles of the race and finishing 12 minutes and 17 seconds ahead of St. Godard for the three-day run. It was Seppala's third straight victory.

St. Godard, starting today's lap more than 8 minutes behind Seppala, staged a great spurt during the first half of the run and at West Alton, 15 miles from the finish, was only 33 seconds behind Seppala. The spurt ended, however, when one of St. Godard's four dogs became lame and St. Godard was forced to cut him out of harness and finish with three dogs.

Seppala's time for the total run of 128 miles was 11 hours 53 minutes and 12 seconds, while St. Godard's was 12 hours 5 minutes and 29 seconds. H. I. Mason, of Tamworth, N. H., clinched third place, with La Pointe fourth and Tom Dabney, of Boston, last.

Plans for his prosecution were dropped upon the jury's recommendation that he be sent to an asylum.

NATIONAL ORIGINS DELAY VOTED DOWN

TO BE EFFECTIVE JULY 1

(Associated Press.)

Another postponement in putting into operation the national origins provisions of the 1924 immigration act was turned down yesterday by the Senate Immigration committee, 7 to 4.

Senator Nye (Republican), North Dakota, was author of the resolution for postponement. With the session drawing to a close, opponents of the national origins clause were endeavoring last night to formulate another plan to win some kind of delay. Unless a postponement is ordered by Congress the new quota basis would go into effect next July 1.

The national origins provisions would limit the total annual immigration to about 150,000, compared with the 164,000 now allowed. The quotas would be based on the percentage of nationalities represented in this country in the 1790 census instead of 2 per cent of the nationalities in the 1890 census.

Herbert Hoover in his speech of acceptance declared for repeal of the national origins provision. And Senator Nye said last night he was doubtful if the law made it mandatory upon the President to order the new quota basis.

Those on the committee voting against postponement of the national origins provision were Keyes, New Hampshire; Reed, Pennsylvania; Watson, Indiana, and Gould, Maine (Republicans), and Harris, Georgia; Blease, South Carolina, and Stephens, Mississippi (Democrats). Those for the Nye resolution were Johnson, California, and Nye (Republicans; Copeland, New York, and King, Utah (Democrats).

Senator Reed led the fight for retention of the national origins provision, despite the position of President-elect Hoover. Reed was supported throughout the hearings on the Nye resolution by the American Legion.

Flames From Manhole Burn Six Pedestrians

Pittsburgh, Feb 13 (A.P.).—Six persons were burned today by flames which shot out of a manhole following a series of subterranean explosions in the downtown district.

The injured all passersby, were burned about the hands and face. Their condition was not considered serious. The blasts followed snapping of a 4,000-volt cable. The tongue of flame darted out through the manhole when a fire extinguisher was played on the broken power line.

TEXAS LEGISLATORS DEFY "PICKET" MOB

SPEAKER ISSUES WARNING

Austin, Tex., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The house of representatives tonight refused to budge from its previous position in voting to seat W. R. Montgomery, of Hidalgo County, as a member, and a crowd variously estimated at from 200 to 500 citizens of that county who came here to "picket" the legislature and ask that it reopen the case, was undecided on its next course of action.

The demonstrators are friends of E. M. Smith, of Edinburg, who had contested Montgomery's seat. They sat in the gallery during the proceedings and listened to nearly four hours of debates upon parliamentary procedure at times applauding ardently remarks of some friendly legislator on the floor.

At one time Speaker W. S. Barron warned the spectators that "if there is any further applause the galleries will have to be cleared."

Protest Is Turned Down.

The protest was turned down on a point of order by Keller, of Dallas, that the subject dealt with matters heretofore considered by the legislature, and that a motion to reconsider and table had carried, precluding its being reopened. The vote on the point of order was 74 to 55.

Although he was fortified by two parliamentarians, an extra one having been imported into the house especially for the occasion, Speaker Barron submitted each of the many points of order to the house membership for disposal.

Never before in the history of Texas, it is said, has a demonstration similar to the one made before the legislature today by Hidalgo County been witnessed at the State Capitol.

Representative Hints Threat.

Interest in the demonstration was increased when Gordon Griffin, advance representative of the delegation, declared early today that the "picketers" would demand admittance to the floor of the legislature to present a petition and if it was refused admittance, "nature would be allowed to take its course."

Their audience having been granted, however, by the legislators, the invaders tonight showed no tendency toward attempting to create disorder. Even after the house had refused tonight to change its course in the election matter, the protesters remained peaceable. They milled about considerably and held caucuses to discuss further action.

Venezuelan Ruler Escapes in Attack

Attempt to Assassinate the President Reported in Frontier Town.

Bogota, Colombia, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—A circumstantial account of an attempt to assassinate President Juan Vicente Gomez of Venezuela was telegraphed here today by a newspaper correspondent at San Jose de Cucuta, a Venezuelan frontier town.

The story said that the president escaped harm.

The story related that President Gomez, accompanied by an escort, was riding in his automobile in the environs of Maracay, a suburb of Caracas, the capital of Venezuela, when six men opened fire on the car. The escort returned the shots and all the conspirators were killed in the fight.

Texas Doctor's Slayer To Die in Electric Chair

Georgetown, Tex., Feb. 13 (A.P.). Harry J. Leahy, slayer of Dr. J. A. Ramsey, physician, today was sentenced to be electrocuted April 12.

Dr. Ramsey was lured from his home at Mathis, Tex., at night and his body was found in a shallow grave two months later. A Mexican testified Leahy had killed the doctor and buried him. Leahy and Dr. Ramsey had had a disagreement over ownership of a ranch.

Corruption Charge Brings Denial by 3

Wisconsin Officials Say That Report on Election Expense Is in Error.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Recommendations made by Arthur Barry, special district attorney to the Superior Court of Dane County, that seven members of the progressive wing of the State Republican party be prosecuted for violations of the corrupt practices act during the 1928 primary campaign today invoked a denial of charges from three State officers involved.

The report "contains so many flagrant, clear and obvious errors that the malicious and deliberate intention of the author to mislead is conclusive," a statement signed by Henry A. Huber, lieutenant governor; Theodore Dammann, secretary of state, and John W. Reynolds, attorney general, said.

These three officers, in addition to a defeated candidate for governor, and three campaign workers, were charged with expending more than $131,000 in the furtherance of their candidacies. The amount exceeds that which is permitted by law.

Refined Sugar Price Reduced Fifth of Cent

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—All sugar refiners today reduced the price of refined sugar one-fifth of a cent, to 4.90 cents a pound, the lowest price since March 8, 1926, when it sold on a basis of 5 cents.

Young Farmer Is Charged With "Murder on Margin"

Held Policy, Secured by Notes, on Life of Neighbor, Supposedly Shot While Hunting, State Asserts; Declared Unable to Meet Premium.

Greeley, Nebr., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Accusations amounting to a charge of "murder on margin" are involved in the case of A. W. Emery, 22, farmer, held in connection with the alleged slaying of Fred Helser, 59, near here February 4.

Helser was fatally wounded while on a hunting trip with Emery and the latter, who operated a small farm adjoining one owned by Helser, reported the man had accidentally shot himself.

Police, investigating the case, learned that Emery had taken out a $20,000 insurance on Helser, naming himself beneficiary. The policy was taken out December 4. Although Emery arranged for the policy Helser signed his application and took a medical examination, it was learned. Emery gave two notes totaling $1,851 for the initial premium on the policy and one for himself. The notes ran 30 days, and at the end of that time Emery gave a check for the amount. He told the insurance agent, it was related, that he had not at that time sufficient funds to cover the check and asked that the time be extended.

A provision in the policy, however, stated that if payment was not made within 60 days of the time the policy was issued it should be void. Thus the policy would have expired at midnight February 4, four hours after Helser's death.

Emery had rented 30 acres of Helser's land. Each lived alone, Helser in a dugout. Helser's land was heavily encumbered and was being foreclosed, officers said. Neither man, it was said, had enough money to pay even a small part of the insurance premium.

County Attorney T. J. Howard, in charge of the investigation, filed a charge of first degree murder against Emery and the young man's father filed an insanity complaint against him. The insanity complaint, however, was withdrawn.

Questioned today Emery continued to maintain Helser was accidentally shot. No attempt has been made to collect on the insurance policy.

DEBT EXPERTS QUIZ BERLIN SPOKESMAN

S. Parker Gilbert's Report Is Basis of Discussion in Session at Paris.

SCHACHT ADMITS FIGURES

Paris, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The reparations committee after a hard day's work examining the economic condition of Germany, tonight had made appreciable progress. It engaged in a general discussion of the German view of the reich's economic situation, as compared with the conclusions drawn in the recent report of S. Parker Gilbert, the agent-general

Dr. Kjalmar Schacht, president of the reichsbank, continued his explanation of Germany's condition answering the questions put by the different experts. It was the first time the agent-general's report had been mentioned by name. Dr. Schacht complimented the report and said that he differed with Mr. Gilbert, not so much in the figures themselves as in the conclusions to be drawn from them.

Among the subjects brought up by the various delegates were the living standards in Germany, certain features of the national budget, the yield of industries and the trade balance.

While it was insisted strongly that the discussion is still in the tentative stage, the exchanges of views have been proceeding much more rapidly than had been expected. The controversial period is still to come, if, as is supposed in some quarters, it does come with the first suggestions as to the final total of reparations and the amounts of the annuities.

The delegates have dwelt so much on the extreme harmony prevailing in the committee, the impression is gaining ground that the work of the delegates is likely to be of the most simple sort. It is expected that the experts will agree on a report without much difficulty, but that the rub will come when the report goes before the governments for approval.

The French attitude appears to be that it is for the Germans to ask for what they want and for the other experts to wait until then and then take a decided issue on the question. A studied effort apparently is being made in official circles to hold aloof from the proceedings of the committee, leaving it the independence which it was agreed to give when the terms of the conference were adopted.

The only French press comment thus far is that the German tactics appear to be an endeavor to impress the committee with the idea "of a poor Germany" unable to go on paying reparations at the present rate or for any length of time.

Former Wrestler Held On Mail Swindle Charge

San Francisco, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Bernard Bernard, 38, who is just 5 feet 1 inch tall, was arrested today by postal inspectors, who charged him with using the mails to defraud in the sale of a device which he represented would increase the height of his clients.

Postal Inspector L. E. Miller, who made the arrest, said Bernard's scheme included a cradle and pulley to be attached to the ceiling and a rope to the client on the floor, which he claimed would "lengthen the bones of the spine." The indictment returned against Bernard, a former wrestler, alleges he swindled Albert C. Maddix, of Ceylon, Minn. He is said to have made $10,000 by the device during 1928.

PROPOSED SUMMER WHITE HOUSE of the Vice President, but her offer was not accepted. The house subsequently was sold to the Spanish Embassy.

Mount Weather, the site of the proposed summer White House, is located on a lofty summit of one of the ranges of the Blue Ridge Mountains, and is about 2 miles from Bluemont, Va. The latter place is approximately 50 miles northwest of Washington.

The fact that the property already was owned by the Government and could be put in shape at a nominal cost early prejudiced President Coolidge in its favor.

TWO IN CAR BATTLE POLICE IN MAD RACE

age, but not enough to stop him from pursuing them.

They then returned to Mechanicsville, where a tire on their car became flat. Driving into the yard in the rear of the home of T. Mudd the men started changing the tire. Dillinger saw the machine, which he learned was the property of the Hertz Drive-It-Yourself Co., and started toward the two men, who fled in the direction of a nearby woods. The policeman ran down Ohia M. Cain, of 827 Fifth street northwest, with his motorcycle. The motorcycle then collided with a pump and was nearly demolished.

Cain started to run again and was tripped by Dillinger. As Dillinger started for the home of a justice of the peace, he was set upon by George Quade, also of 827 Fifth street. Dillinger picked up Cain and threw him at Quade, knocking both to the ground. The officer then took both men, partially stunned, before Justice of the Peace Robert L. Burroughs, at Mechanicsville.

Overpowered by Officer.

As they entered the office, the two men again started a fight with the policeman but were overpowered by the officer, who was obliged to use his club. Dillinger was badly beaten in the fray. Both prisoners were then taken to the Leonardtown Jail. As they were being placed in a cell one of them nearly amputated the jailer's finger.

Judge Burroughs the next day sentenced Cain to 14 months in the Maryland House of Correction on charges of resisting an officer and assaulting an officer and fined him $150 for operating an automobile while intoxicated and $50 for reckless driving. Quade was sentenced to 18 months for resisting an officer and assault. Both men had been badly injured in the several fights, and were treated by Dr. Camalier, of Leonardtown, who also treated Policeman Dillinger.

ing the deaths of the seven other children.

"It's a lie. They're all lies," Mrs. Lewis shouted. "The girl must be crazy."

The younger woman asserted in her confession that she also witnessed the poisoning of another daughter, Isabelle Gorham, but said she was not a witness to the deaths of the others.

The children, Mrs. Gorham charges, were strangled and poisoned by her mother, besides Clarence Wesley and Isabelle, were Louise Jane Gorham, 18 months old, who died in February, 1923; Mary Jane Gorham, 18 months old, died in November, 1926; two twin daughters of the elder woman, born of a former marriage to Henry Ford, a farmer living near Big Rapids, Mich., and two other infants, children of the older woman, whose names she "could not remember."

All died at the home of Mrs. Lewis at Eau Claire, Mich., and a former home at Indian Lake, Mich., Mrs. Gorham said.

"She killed them because she did not like me to visit her" was the only motive for the alleged slayings the younger woman gave.

Wallace Lewis, Eau Claire junk dealer, husband of Mrs. Lewis, and Herbert Gorham, Dowagiac iron worker, husband of Mrs. Gorham, were held but denied knowledge of the alleged slayings.

Formal charges against the two women probably will be withheld, authorities said tonight, pending a mental examination.

Investigation began Tuesday when Berrien County officials were requested by the undertaker who conducted the funeral of the child who died Sunday, to look into the case. Marks on the body, he said, led him to believe the child had been choked. Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Gorham were arrested and the daughter's charges followed.

Mexicans Discuss Curbs Upon Rebels

Police Guard Leading Men, Although Toral Unrest Quiets Down.

Mexico City, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The special congressional committee now functioning during the legislative recess met today and discussed means of combating enemies of the government.

The excitement and restlessness which followed upon the execution of Toral appears to have ended. Aside from a dispatch to La Prensa from Guadalajara saying rebels had sacked and burned the railroad station at Palo Verde, Jalisco, no violence was reported today. There were no casualties at Palo Verde.

Police still guard homes of prominent political figures who have received threatening letters. Precautionary measures are everywhere in evidence. Three men arrested in connection with the dynamiting of the presidential train on Sunday are being brought to Mexico City. Press reports say that one has confessed.

The farming population of Jalisco is rapidly being evacuated by government order.

HERRIN CITY HEADS TRIED ON DRY LAW

Witness Links Mayor With Birger Bang; Says Gun Was Loaned Leader.

ONE MAN PLEADS GUILTY

East St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 13 A.P.).—Testimony linking Mayor Marshall McCormack, of Herrin, Ill., scene of gang rioting, with the Charlie Birger gang of southern Illinois gunmen, was given today in his trial with his brother Elmer and Police Chief John Stamm on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

The trial opened after Alvin Misker, water superintendent of Herrin, indicted with the other three, had pleaded guilty, before Federal Judge Wham. Ralph Lessemann, assistant United States district attorney, said Misker would testify for the Government.

Art Newman, former lieutenant of Charlie Birger, testified that Mayor McCormack had loaned Birger a machine gun belonging to the Herrin police department, and that it was never returned. He said that on another occasion McCormick had asked Birger to help defeat Oren Coleman for sheriff by intimidating Williamson County voters. Coleman later was elected.

McCormack was elected mayor in 1925 and was holding that office during the Herrin election riot, in which six persons were killed.

George Griffin, Herrin chief of police from May 1925, until December, 1926, testified he had instituted the alleged system of extorting money from bootleggers at the suggestion of McCormack.

His testimony was that late in 1925 the mayor told him "some of the boys are willing to pay off" and that "if you can collect anything, go to it." He said he collected $25 a month from a dozen or more bootleggers, gave half of it to the mayor and split his share with Elmer McCormack, a Herrin policeman. He testified that later Stamm, his successor, took over the "collecting."

Ed Rokassi and John Garvagli, confessed former bootleggers, testified that they had paid "protection" money to the city officials.

The charges against the Herrin solons are similar to those on which Arlie O. Boswell, former State's attorney of Williamson County, in which Herrin is located, was convicted with three other defendants recently. Boswell and former Coroner George Bell now are serving prison terms. Newman, who is under several life imprisonment sentences, also testified against Boswell and his codefendants.

RESCUE SHIP SAVES 25 ON MEIYO MARU

Illinois Arrives at Side of Japanese Steamer Off the Alaskan Coast.

BREECHES BUOY IS RIGGED

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Pulled through the pounding surf that was starting to break up their ship on the small Aleutian Island, the crew of 25 was taken from the Japanese freighter Meiyo Maru late today by the steamers Illinois and Nanoh Maru.

In the absence of details in messages that brought the first word of rescue, it was assured that the Japanese sailors and their officers were taken off without mishap.

A Lyle gun was brought into action when the seas continued to be too mountainous to permit the launching of life boats.

A breeches buoy that dipped the men into the roaring surf carried them to safety after they had battled the storm for two days and two nights.

Meanwhile, Capt. Richard J. Healy, of the freighter Montauk, had taken 39 members of the crew of the abandoned steamer Alloway to Dutch Harbor, after a heroic rescue yesterday.

The crew of the Alloway, with the exception of one man, an oiler named Poley, who refused to leave his ship, escaped in lifeboats and were picked up by Capt. Healy when the tow line with which the Montauk was bringing the Alloway to safety at Dutch Harbor snapped as the two ships were maneuvering the entrance to Unimak Pass. Today the radio station at Dutch Harbor was advised the Alloway was still holding her anchors, but her stern was swinging perilously close to the rocks and the ship was expected to go ashore at any moment.

Proposed Transfer Of Pupils Scored

Park View Citizens Will Oppose the Changing of School Areas.

Changing of the dividing line between the Monroe and Parkview Schools, so that pupils at the latter school may be transferred to the former, was again brought up at a meeting of the Park View Citizens Association last night, and met with decided disfavor by members of the association.

W. J. Kanof, speaking on behalf of the Monroe School, said that colored people are rapidly invading the territory in which the Monroe School is situated, and that if enrollment of the Monroe School continues to decrease, as it has been doing, the school will probably be converted into a colored institution.

Parents of pupils at the Park View School present at last night's meeting described the Monroe School as an undesirable one for their children. Sentiment of the association favored the transferring of children in the Monroe School community to the Park View School. They could be accommodated in coming months, it was pointed out, because of additions that have been provided for the Park View School through the District school appropriation which has passed the Senate.

Park Citizens Ask Higher Apartments

Seek Five Story Structures on Massachusetts Avenue; Plan Petitions.

The American University Park Citizens Association last night voted to continue efforts of its special committee to secure a hearing before the District Zoning Commission on the association's proposal to reclassify property along Massachusetts avenue from Nebraska to Western avenues northwest as "A-60" property, upon which apartments 60 feet, or five stories high, may be erected.

The association had previously presented to the commission a resolution indorsing the proposal, and may circulate a petition to secure indorsements of 50 per cent of the property owners concerned at the request of the commission.

The meeting last night was held at the Hurst Hall at American University, Massachusetts and Nebraska avenues northwest, and was devoted to social entertainment of people of the neighborhood. Mrs. Patrick H. Loughran headed the reception committee, and Mrs. William R. Manning arranged the musical program.

The president, Thomas E. Lodge, presided at the business meeting.

Man Informs Policeman He Is Parole Violator

Archer, police said, told them that he had served part of a sixteen months' sentence at Huntington Penitentiary, in Pennsylvania, after being convicted for the theft of an automobile. Frye took him to the Sixth Precinct station, while police communicated with Pennsylvania authorities.

BRIDE EXPECTING TO PROVE POLICE CHARGES BY WOMAN

might get which would help and Blanton promised to do so.

Bride did not ask Blanton specifically if he knew where Mrs. Blalock is now or where she would be at any specific time so that she might be reached for questioning. Blanton did not volunteer the information. He has given assurance to his fellow representatives that he did not know the woman's present whereabouts.

Upon what he based his optimistic statement that Mrs. Blalock would bob up at the most appropriate moment Bride would not say. He said he "believed" Crandall Mackey, who is a friend of Blanton, was Mrs. Blalock's attorney, although she has had several attorneys in the last year or two. Bride said he had not talked to Mackey about the charges and did not intend to at this time.

Ready in About Week.

Bride told reporters that it may be a week or ten days before he is ready to prefer charges against Burlingame, and reiterated that he did not intend to be rushed into doing something for the sake of doing something whether that something was right or wrong.

The corporation counsel apologized to reporters for his reticence, declaring that he would like nothing better than to discuss the matter in detail and disclose each minute development, but that he was constrained from doing so.

He could not afford, he said, to "tell the other side his case," the other side obviously being Burlingame and his legal advisers.

Martin J. McNamara, who is associated with William F. Leahy, will act as counsel for Burlingame, it was reported. Leahy accompanied Burlingame to the District Building Monday when he submitted his demand to Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, that he be immediately suspended and tried on the charges which had been broadcast against him. At that time Leahy said he was not Burlingame's counsel.

McNamara, regarded as no mean attorney, will not have to stand on his own feet in the defense of Burlingame, it is said, for there have been many other prominent attorneys who have volunteered their services and aid to the police captain.

A partial report of the investigation which has been under way for several days by the Department of Justice was submitted to Collins yesterday.

Asks Justice Agents' Aid.

Bride also has asked the Department of Justice to place operatives on the case to check up all evidence and run down whatever new evidence they can. But he does not expect a separate report from the department. It is expected that the department will submit a report to District Attorney Rover, a Federal officer, and Collins will turn a copy of the report over to Bride.

The investigation of the Justice Department agents so far, it is said, identifies the typewriting used in writing the "Heartsore Daddy" and other letters to Mrs. Blalock as one which was officially signed to and still is in use in the Second Police Precinct station, which Burlingame commanded until he asked to be suspended and tried.

The report also is said to confirm reports that Justice agents have ascertained that Burlingame in person cashed the checks which were drawn to his order by Mrs. Blalock, and which constitute part of the documentary evidence in support of the palmist's charges.

Collins refused to discuss the contents of the report or to make it public, declaring that it would be improper to do so, but he said that Bride would be furnished with a copy of it and all other reports he received bearing on the case.

Trial Board in Doubt.

The personnel of the trial board which is to try Burlingame on whatever charges are preferred against him still is to be determined. Col. William B. Ladue, Engineer Commissioner, was confined to his home yesterday by a slight illness. Commissioners Proctor L. Dougherty and Sidney F. Taliaferro conferred briefly yesterday, but inasmuch as there was no pressure for immediate decision did not make any decision, but reiterated that they intend to decide the question calmly.

Neither Commissioner would offer comment on the specific accusations of graft made on the floor of the House Tuesday by Representative Blanton. Nor would Maj. Hesse. Hesse said he had not called on the captains of any of the precincts involved in Blanton's specific charges for an explanation, had not assigned any inspector to investigate the Texan's charges, and did not intend to do so.

Capt. Reilly, commander of the Sixth Precinct, and Capt. Bean, of the First Precinct, were emphatic, however, in conversations with reporters in denouncing what were termed such "unfounded and baseless" charges of graft in their precincts.

Seek No Blanton Argument.

Blanton said that the proprietor of one speak-easy paid $30 a day to the First Precinct, which is commanded by Bean. The so-called speak-easy mentioned by Blanton, however, is located in the Sixth Precinct.

Neither captain wanted to get into any public argument with Blanton, however, for they felt that Blanton, speaking from the eminence of the House of Representatives, would be able to beat them in any public argument.

Senator Caraway, so far as is known, did nothing to advance his charges of graft and vice condition in Washington which would rival Philadelphia.

The Arkansas senator was busy on the floor of the Senate with the cotton futures bill, which affects large numbers of voters in his State, and did not have time to bother with the District of Columbia, which, he said earlier, demanded national attention.

Representative Gibson, too, was busy with other matters, including those considered at a full meeting of the House District committee, called by Representative Zihlman, chairman. Consequently neither Caraway nor Gibson got together, and so far Caraway's charges rest on the basis of a speech in the Senate and a subsequent statement without definite development since.

Burlingame Painted Black.

The full police record of Capt. Burlingame, which was the subject of a speech by Blanton in the House Tuesday, was made public yesterday. The full record shows that Blanton left out of what he read to the House everything complimentary to the police captain and cited only those things which would seem to paint Burlingame as a black character.

Burlingame's full record, in police headquarters files, showed 66 notations, 25 of which are highly commendatory. The record shows that Burlingame twice was injured in the performance of his duty. There were nineteen complaints against him concerning which no action was taken. Three times he was before the Trial Board, in two of which cases he was convicted and fined $10; three times he was reprimanded and once he was presented with a pipe by his subordinates; there are thirteen notations on his record concerning transfers or promotions.

District officials received yesterday a declaration of support from the Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association's executive committee. The committee transmitted a resolution "reaffirming confidence" in the Board of Commissioners in view of the "unwarranted attacks" upon them.

The resolutions comprised one of the few formal comments received by District officials since the police situation was skyrocketed into the public attention by the attackers of Burlingame, but it is only one of many individual messages which have been received by the Commissioners, Maj. Hesse and other officials.

The president of one of the largest banks in the District is said to have given his personal assurance to Maj. Hesse that he had complete confidence in him, and would support him against what were said to be unjustified attacks. Hesse refused to discuss this message, as did the Commissioners refuse to discuss other assurances of support which they have received.

WOMEN NEGLECTED BY A.F.L., IS CHARGE

Maud Williams Declares Body Is Chiefly Interested in Protecting Men's Jobs.

VICE PRESIDENT REPLIES

Boston, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The American Federation of Labor was charged today with neglecting the interests of women workers in its efforts to protect jobs for men, by Miss Maude Williams, of New York, a member of the industrial committee of the National Women's Party, and of Typographical Union, No. 6, New York. The charge was made during a hearing before the legislative committee on labor and industries on a bill to prohibit night work for women in all branches of manufacturing.

Miss Williams opposed the bill on grounds that it deprived women who desired to work nights in manufacturing plants of an opportunity to do so.

She charged the A. F. of L., of which she is a member, was "chiefly interested in protecting jobs for men without regard for women." She also charged that labor leaders became interested in the health of women in manufacturing only when the women became efficient in performing jobs usually held by men.

After the hearing, Charles L. Reed, vice president of the Massachusetts branch of the A. F. of L. and a proponent of the bill, who had been unable to reply during the session to the charge of Miss Williams, said of the National Women's Party:

"This organization goes about the country attempting to tear down existing legislation protecting women wage earners. Last year a representative of this group appeared in the statehouse in favor of destroying the present 48-hour law. Today they advocate the same thing."

40 Princes of India Back British Crown

Rulers Deprecate Advocacy of Dominion Status in Voicing Loyalty.

New Delhi, India, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Ruling princes of 40 Indian States today expressed unswerving loyalty to the British crown and deprecated the attitude of native leaders of British India who have been advocating a dominion status for the country, with complete independence in the background. The princes adopted a resolution setting forth that any negotiations between themselves and British India must proceed on a basis of loyalty to Great Britain.

Lord Irwin, Viceroy of India, presided over the conference, which constituted the chamber of princes. The resolution was moved by the Maharajah of Patiala, and was seconded by the Maharajah of Kashmir.

Gov. Sampson Orders Plane for Official Use

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Gov. Flem D. Sampson, of Kentucky, a visitor at the New York aviation show, today declared that Kentucky had become so air-minded that it already had ordered a plane for official use.

Gov. Sampson said he had ordered a plane for himself and that in a few weeks he hoped to become "one of the most flying governors of the Nation." The governor told of a special commission organized in Kentucky to promote aviation in various cities and said members will travel about in planes to demonstrate the importance of flying.

Art Commission Plans To Remove Bridge Road

Elimination of the diagonal road from Twenty-third and B streets and the Erickson Memorial leading to the Arlington Memorial Bridge plaza, near Lincoln Memorial, was decided yesterday by the Commission of Fine Arts.

A simplified plan of pavement for the road under the eastern end of the bridge, where the road crosses in front of a projected water gate, was also approved. This water gate will consist of a series of steps leading down to the Potomac River from the bridge terminal, for the landing of small craft.

NEW MAJOR GENERAL NAMED BY COOLIDGE

Brig. Gen. Frank Parker Is Promoted; C. D. Roberts Chosen as Successor.

NOMINATIONS IN SENATE

Brig. Gen. Frank Parker, assistant chief of staff, operations and training division, War Department general staff, was promoted to a major-generalcy yesterday, filling the vacancy in this grade caused by retirement of Maj. Gen Charles D. Rhodes February 10, and Col Charles D. Roberts, senior member of the infantry board, Fort Benning, Ga. to brigadier general succeeding Brig Gen. Parker. President Coolidge forwarded their nominations to the Senate.

Maj. Gen. Parker was born in Georgetown, S. C., in 1872, and was graduated from West Point in 1894, seeing service in Porto Rico during the Spanish-American War. He was an instructor of modern languages at West Point; studied at the French Cavalry School, Saumur, and was a military attache at Caracas, Venezuela and Buenos Aires. After service in the Army of Cuban Pacification in 1906, he instructed the Cuban cavalry and rural guards, and later studied at the French War School.

During the World War, he was chief of the liaison group between A. E. F. headquarters and the French Armies of the North and Northeast, later commanding the 18th Infantry in the Toul and Catigny sectors, and the Aisne-Marne offensive; the First Infantry Brigade at St. Mihiel, and in the Meuse-Argonne, and the First Division in the latter phases of the Argonne conflict. He commanded the First Brigade in Germany, and again continued his studies at the French Superior War School and High Military Studies Center.

Returning to the United States in 1921, he was detailed to the historical branch of the Army War College; was an instructor at the General Service School, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and a director at the Army War College, becoming a permanent brigadier general in 1924, at Madison Barracks, N. Y. He returned to Washington in 1927. He wears the distinguished service medal, Cuban, French and Belgian decorations, and has two World War citations for gallantry in action.

Col. Roberts was born at the Cheyenne Indian Agency in Dakota Territory in 1873, and was graduated from West Point in 1897. He was awarded the medal of honor for bravery at El Caney, Cuba, in the Spanish-American War, and was captured by insurgents in 1900 in the insurrection in the Philippines.

Later he was acting judge advocate for the former Texas department of the Army, and the Department of Luzon and was chief of staff of the Eighty-first Division in the St. Die and Meuse-Argonne fighting, receiving the Distinguished Service Medal.

Following the war, he was a student at the Army War College, was on duty in the office of the chief of Infantry, commanded various Infantry regiments, was attached to Culver Military Academy, Ind., and chief of staff of the First Corps Area at Boston.

Cramton Urges His Park Building Bill

Declares Proposed Measure Is Widely Indorsed; Figures Given.

Appearing before the House committee on buildings and grounds yesterday to urge favorable action on his park development bill, Representative Cramton (Republican), of Michigan, declared that the measure has been more widely indorsed than any that has come under his observation.

The bill provides for a comprehensive parkway development for the National Capital, and its environs, at an estimated cost of $23,000,000. The Federal Government would lend the District $16,000,000 for the purchase of land, this to be paid back by the District at the rate of $1,000,000 a year for 16 years.

The outstanding feature of the bill, Cramton told the committee, was the provision for a $7,000,000 George Washington Memorial Parkway. This would tie in with the Mount Vernon Memorial Boulevard, and would give the Government control of both banks of the Potomac River, from Mount Vernon and Fort Washington to Great Falls.

family. Four members of the Booth family were included in the five minority votes cast against the act depriving Gen. Booth of office. They were Mrs. Bramwell Booth, her two daughters, Catherine and Mary; Mrs. Lucy Booth-Hellburg, Commissioner Allister Smith made the fifth.

61 Present at Meeting.

The high council numbered 61 during the vote on deposition. Four refrained from voting, one of whom was known to be Commissioner Albin Peyron, father-in-law of Gen. Booth's son, Wycliffe. Other members who are thought to have abstained from voting are Commissioners Cunningham, Laurie and Kitching.

The council's action puts the next move up to Gen. Booth. He has already filed proceedings questioning the legality of the 1904 deed poll, under which the council functions.

Commissioner Evangeline Booth, although prominently mentioned as a possible successor to her brother, Gen. Bramwell Booth, received only 17 votes against 43 for Commissioner Higgins.

The election ballots were cast in secret, whereas the earlier vote removing Gen. Booth from command was entirely public. The council made a special point of emphasizing that the latter action was due entirely to Gen. Booth's ill health. The high council, having concluded the business for which it was called, was automatically dissolved.

Booth Family Is Silent

Members of the Booth household at Hadley Wood refused to comment on the swift events of the day which have brought the affairs of the Salvation Army to the new climax. It is considered significant that none would admit defeat.

Gen. Higgins, who will retain his title if no further restraining orders are issued by the courts, has engaged in Salvation Army activities in the Far East, the United States and the West Indies. He has paid two visits to China and Korea, and as assistant foreign secretary has had several years of training with the inner cabinet of the international headquarters in London.

Gen. Higgins said in an interview after his election:

"The army's future policy is to maintain its vigor, to follow the banner unfurled by the founder with increased life and spirit and to reach the unchurched masses in all parts of the world."

Will Fight if Need Be.

He was asked whether he expected further legal difficulties and he replied that he hoped not, adding:

"But certainly it will be my duty to protect the trust imposed in me. If the deed poll of 1904 is attacked I must defend it, but I have no idea that such a fight is coming."

The Press Association quotes an unnamed official of the American delegation as saying that "the army in the United States will rally loyally to the new general, as it has always said it would, having complete confidence in the choice of the high council."

The international headquarters in London tonight issued a communique briefly summarizing the council's action against Gen. Booth. It said in part:

"When the formal resolution adjudicating Gen. Bramwell Booth unfit for office and removing him therefrom had been proposed and seconded the council had placed before it evidence in support thereof, consisting mainly of medical reports, letters written by the general and the report of a deputation which had visited him on November 1. The attorney, Mr. Jowitt, attended on behalf of the general and tendered evidence of a number of witnesses."

JANET COON VIEWS OCEAN FROM MOUNT

Post Screen Prize Winner Sees Pacific at Sunset, After Busy Day.

GUEST AT THEATER PARTY

Special to The Washington Post.

Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 13.—Like Balboa, Janet Coon, Washington Post winner, who is visiting Mary Pickford in Hollywood, yesterday saw the Pacific Ocean for the first time from the top of a California mountain. This view was obtained from the top of Mount Lowe, 4,000 feet high.

The view of the Pacific was the climax of an exciting day for the Washington girl, which included breakfast at the famous Hollywood Breakfast Club, when she met Edna May Hoover, the girl aviator who will accompany Art Goebel on his nonstop flight around the world, then seeing Mary Pickford off on an airplane flight to Mexico with Douglas Fairbanks, from which she will return tomorrow, the entertainment of the whole party by the Chamber of Commerce of Pasadena at the Huntington Hotel in that city, the visit to Mount Lowe and finally a theater party by the Henry Duffy Players at the El Capitan Theater.

Sir Henry Jap, famous British engineer, was one of the distinguished speakers at the Breakfast Club and he told its members and the Mary Pickford girls, as all Hollywood is calling them, that the only obstacle to a perfect peace between Great Britain and the United States is the question of the freedom of the seas, about which he declared there had been a conspiracy of silence.

He praised the work of the English Speaking Union and said that its promotion would do much to bring about world peace.

Today the party will be guests of honor of the Beverly Hills Chamber of Commerce and will then motor to the shores of the Pacific Ocean.

In the evening they will be honor guests at a dinner dance at the Cocoanut Grove of the Ambassador Hotel.

Flu Is Decreasing, But Still Menaces

Dr. Cumming Warns That 16,612 New Cases Are in Latest Report.

(Associated Press.)

Surgeon General Cumming, of the Public Health Service, said yesterday that while influenza prevalence and mortality in the United States are still decreasing, there is as yet no indication that the predicted second and more severe wave of the disease will not materialize.

Reports from 41 States, the District of Columbia and New York City yesterday showed a total of 16,612 new cases during the week ended February 9, compared with 35,129 in the same territory during the preceding week.

"This is a substantial decrease," Dr. Cumming said, "but with more than 16,000 cases reported in one week, it is impossible to believe the epidemic has subsided to near normal conditions."

You're missing something if you don't hear "FORHAN'S SONG SHOP" Thursday night at 7, Sta. WRC.

Have you all of your own teeth?

Unless you take preventive measures now, the day is coming when you may know, to your sorrow, that the true meaning of the phrase "artificial denture" is often the extravagant price of self-neglect—false teeth. Here's the reason and the way to help safeguard health against the coming of this day.

Teeth are only as healthy as the gums. And gums, undernourished and under-exercised, soon surrender to dread diseases that ravage health and often destroy teeth. To prevent this, avail yourself of the best care that modern dentistry offers. Place yourself in the hands of your dentist at least twice a year. And brush your gums when you brush your teeth, every morning and night.

But for this purpose—use Forhan's for the Gums . . . the dentifrice designed to help firm gums and keep them sound, thus protecting them from the attack of disease.

Use Forhan's regularly. You'll be delighted with the way it makes your gums look and feel. In addition, you'll notice that it effectively and safely cleans teeth and helps to protect them from decay. Get a tube of Forhan's—today!

LIME is one of the constituents of MILK, the perfect food. That is one of the reasons why growing children and babies, particularly, need all of the milk they can assimilate, for when soft little bones and teeth are growing they need lots of nourishment. One glass of milk furnishes as much lime as 9 eggs, 16 onions, 25 shredded wheat biscuits, 101 prunes or 3 loaves of white bread. It is your most valuable food. That is why it is so important to have the best milk. Records of the Health Department over a period of years show the superiority of Chestnut Farms Milk.

FINANCIAL TROUBLE BLAMED FOR SUICIDE

Prominent Chicago Broker Ends Life by Shot in Milwaukee Hotel.

HAD SUED FOR DIVORCE

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Seymour Morris, 40, member of a well-known Chicago family, shot and killed himself in a hotel room today.

He registered February 5 under the assumed name of K. Mather. Coroner's deputies and police sought to piece together numerous items in his effects to establish a motive.

It is known that the wife of the dead man, Mrs. Margaret Armour Morris, went to Los Angeles in 1923 and started suit for divorce. He countered with an action in Chicago courts, charging desertion.

Notes found in the room also indicated there was some trouble over the custody of their children, Seymour Morris 3d, who is 12, and Barbara Armour Morris, 11. Both of them are now with a grandmother in Salem, Ohio.

The marriage of Mr. Morris and Margaret Armour, daughter of M. Cochrane Armour, steel operator, was one of the outstanding events of Chicago's social season in 1915.

Chicago, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Seymour Morris, of Chicago, who committed suicide in Milwaukee today, was the son of the late Seymour Morris, who was trustee for estates here totaling many millions, including the Levi Z. Leiter estate, and was the estranged husband of Mrs. Margaret Armour Morris, of Winnetka.

He was in the brokerage business here. Five years ago he filed suit for divorce against Mrs. Morris, the daughter of M. Cochran Armour, wealthy iron manufacturer, of Evanston, charging desertion and asking custody of two children. Mrs. Morris, then in Pasadena, Calif., revealed she had filed suit six months earlier on similar charges.

Morris registered at a Milwaukee hotel under the name of K. Mather In his room was found a $10,000 war risk insurance policy made out to Mrs. Morris. He had signed a check with the name of Mather, which today was returned as worthless and killed himself when the manager of the hotel went to his room to inquire about it. Chicago friends expressed the opinion that financial reverses had caused him to end his life.

Change Is Planned For State Building

Exterior Is to Have Facades to Conform With United States Treasury.

Plans to remodel the exterior of the State, War and Navy Building with column facades to conform with the Treasury Building architecture are under consideration of the Treasury Department.

The architecture of the building has long been considered out of keeping with the classic style of the Treasury Building, which will characterize that of the projected Federal buildings in the Pennsylvania avenue, B, Fifteenth and Third street triangle.

The tentative plan has not yet been submitted to the Public Buildings Commission, but preliminary sketches have been presented to Secretary of War Davis and Secretary of State Kellogg, the Navy Department having removed from the building early in 1919. Cost of the work has not yet been estimated.

5 Armed Robbers Loot Bank; Cafe Is Held Up

Chicago, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Five masked robbers today entered the lobby of the exclusive suburban Oak Park Arms Hotel and compelled four employes to lie on the floor while they rifled several safe deposit boxes, escaping with an undetermined loot.

About the same time an unmasked robber held up the cashier of a downtown restaurant and escaped with $2,500. Fifteen patrons were unaware a hold-up was in progress.

SCHOOL'S BIRTHDAY CAKE SLICED

CRUISER FOES NOW EXPECT TO KNOCK OUT FUND PLAN

the funds by striking out this amendment to the supply bill.

Senator Borah, who led the fight in the Senate against the time clause in the cruiser bill, and Senator Norris, who has opposed the cruiser program at every turn, are expected to attempt to kill the amendment.

They will have the support of that small group of anti-Navy senators, which has been most active in opposing the cruiser building legislation.

Mr. Borah is a determined fighter in legislative battles, but is not a mere obstructionist or filibusterer. He will, therefore, not give much comfort to any plan to simply delay passage of the naval supply bill, especially as it is obvious that no such plan can succeed in preventing passage of the bill.

Nothing would therefore be gained by a filibuster excepting such satisfaction as a handful of senators might derive from the inconvenience and annoyance caused to the great majority of their colleagues.

Mr. Coolidge signed the bill yesterday morning after conferring with legislative leaders at the White House. Those present were Senator Curtis, the majority leader; Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the minority leader; Senator Hale, chairman of the naval affairs committee; Speaker Longworth and Representatives Tilson and Garrett, Republican and Democratic leaders of the House, and Representative Snell, chairman of the House rules committee.

Estimates for the first expenditures on the cruisers were expected at the Capitol yesterday, but were not forthcoming. They will be sent up today. The White House on Friday referred to between $45,000,000 and $50,000,000 as the estimated expenditure during the fiscal years, 1929 and 1930.

It was later reported that the figure might be considerably less than this. The Navy Department is not much concerned about the size of the estimates, now that actual construction of the ships is virtually guaranteed by law.

Under the bill, construction on five cruisers must be begun before July 1 next, while construction on the next five must begin during the next fiscal year, and the last five will be begun during the fiscal year 1931. Construction on the airplane carrier must begin before July 1, 1931.

The amount of money required between now and July 1 next will be small in comparison to later expenditures. The economy cry in connection with appropriations for the building program will have no point, it is explained, now that the law requires that $274,000,000 be expended and that construction be begun within a definite, fixed period.

Holding back necessary funds would simply interfere with the orderly process of completing the work and thereby make it cost the Government more for value received than would otherwise be the case. In other words, delaying tactics would not be in line with any policy of economy.

EARLY RETURN TO CAPITAL DECIDED UPON BY HOOVER

many words that Mr. Hoover is barking up the wrong tree if he thinks the repeal can be brought about. If, in the end, a better working accord is not brought about by way of Hoover-Mellon-Reed the political observers will probably wax eloquent.

Up in New England, Irish-American groups are taking the stand that the national origins clause is aimed particularly at them and are raising considerable Cain about it. Just why this is so is not known, because Germans, Norwegians and other nationals admittedly are more affected.

There are other matters that are bringing Mr. Hoover back. In addition to his Cabinet there are many other appointments, the little cabinets, so-called, and still others to be made, and, regarding the big Cabinet, there is every reason to believe that Mr. Hoover has some work yet to do on it. So far as the one appointment that he is known to have made, that of Henry L. Stimson, no congressional advice, of course, was taken, and neither was any taken in the case of Mr. Mellon, which was hardly an appointment, but a growth in the popular mind, which Mr. Hoover accepted back in the campaign days.

Neither did the other man generally assumed to be slated for the Cabinet, and about whom there is reason for doubt—Col. William J. Donovan—have the assistance of any members of Congress or of any State organization. If this is to be the rule, then it is hardly likely that Mr. Hoover is returning to get the advice of senators or members of the House on his Cabinet, but even this does not dissipate the belief that there is work yet to be done on it. This belief is based largely on the known fact that no one of the members of the present Cabinet except Mr. Mellon knows his future status.

Wilbur's Status Uncertain.

This would not be so amazing under other circumstances, but it is when it is realized that Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, the brother of one of Mr. Hoover's closest friends, if not the closest one, does not know yet whether he will be a Federal judge, Navy Secretary or what after March 4.

One thing, his status has not been changed by the recent reports that Ray Lyman Wilbur, the brother, would go in the Cabinet, some of these reports seemingly quite definite. If Ray Lyman Wilbur does go in the Cabinet then the political readings here, admittedly weak and sometimes hardly traceable, are very wrong.

It is believed that this Wilbur is to do something for Mr. Hoover, carry out some mission for him, and about as good a guess as any is that he will head the prohibition investigation, while there has been a suggestion that he will go to the court of St. James. Unless he has more money than college presidents usually have, this latter would seems to be out of the question.

Report on Brown Doubted.

Similarly, the fiat and near-fiat Washington announcements that Walter Brown, of Ohio, is to be Postmaster General are received rather coldly here. If Brown is appointed to anything other than the Commerce Department it will be an appointment indisputably political and suggestively so if he gets in the Cabinet at all, because Brown has been politically identified for a long time.

Other Presidents have made the stereotyped announcements that they would make no political Cabinet appointments, of course, but Mr. Hoover has been represented in this wise so often that it is believed he means it.

Mr. Hoover devoted pretty much of today with his subcommittee, headed by A. W. Shaw, of Chicago, that has been studying economic changes for a year, Clarence M. Woolley and Adolph Miller, who were to join Mr. Shaw today, were delayed and were not expected to show up until late tonight.

Studies Economic Data.

Meantime Mr. Hoover and Mr. Shaw went over the exhaustive study that has been made. There was a strong suggestion that it was one of those committees that Mr. Hoover used to appoint right and left when he was Secretary of Commerce and that he had probably forgotten about it until it bobbed up just as he is getting ready to take over the Presidency, and with preparations being made for Congress to revise the tariff upward. Much water had flowed through the mill since its appointment and Mr. Hoover has long since become committed to upward tariff revision.

At any rate, Mr. Shaw's promised discussion of the committee's findings with newspaper men was postponed until tomorrow. Somehow it brings to mind the Nagle committee of which President Coolidge used to efer last year every time he was asked about farm relief. This committee, he would say, had been studying the farm problem and would report soon. It did and recommended a reduction of the tariff, whereupon it ceased to be talked about.

Of course, it would not do for the Shaw committee to do anything like that, and it won't because Mr. Hoover is chairman.

TARIFF RAISE ASKED ON PAPER SCHEDULES

D. C. Everest, of Trade Association, Points Out Need of More Protection.

OTHER EXPERTS TESTIFY

(Associated Press.)

A billion-dollar American industry, employing 135,000 workers in the production of paper and paper products, paraded a long line of witnesses before the House ways and means committee yesterday seeking higher duties on 21 of the 74 items covered in this section of the tariff law.

Speaking for the industry as a whole, D. C Everest, of the American Paper and Pulp Association, told the committee that economic changes since the 1922 act was passed and classifications which permitted wholesale evasions of the customs laws made it essential that these revisions be made in the new act.

Other witnesses spoke for their particular branches of the industry, calling attention particularly to a revolution which has taken place in the last few years in the production of fancy decorated papers, box coverings, lightweight papers for envelope lining, for fancy stationery and cover paper for radio loud speakers.

Everst made no mention of newsprint, now on the free list, and when Representative Garner (Democrat), of Texas, asked if he was not steering clear of this because of a "political fear of the newspapers of the country," he said he had not asked a duty on newsprint because he did not believe he could "get by with it."

He later modified this statement by saying he did no think the domestic industry wanted to "get by with it," because many domestic newsprint producers had met with sad experiences in this line, and had turned to other production.

He added he did not think it would be economically sound to proceed on the theory that the United States could produce enough newsprint to meet its needs. Most of the newsprint used in this country is imported from Canada.

A major change proposed by the industry was that a special definition and increased duties be given uncoated book and printing paper. These now come in under a general classification of printing paper not specially provided for and bear a duty of one-quarter of a cent a pound and 10 per cent ad valorem. A rate of one-quarter of a cent and 15 per cent was asked for uncoated book paper and 3 cents and 15 per cent on uncoated printing paper.

Everest said no attempt had been made under the present law to define printing paper or standard newsprint and consequently customs authorities have had a great deal of difficulty in determining what paper should be dutiable and what should be admitted free.

Other increases proposed at the morning session covered paperboard, pulp board, tissue, stereotype, copying, Bible, India and carbon paper.

The warrant was issued after Federal bank examiners had gone over the company's books. It is alleged that much of the money was spent in gambling.

the farmers and that any machinery set up by Congress would lead to confusion and financial loss.

These elements not only are ready to press their views but are determined to reopen the entire subject in the extra session by blocking a reported plan to shut down on hearings on the McNary bill.

Some leaders in Congress take the position that the bill is the same debated last spring, free of its outstanding objectionable feature—the equalization fee—and that further extended debate and hearings would result only in delay.

When the revised McNary bill was introduced, it was regarded as probable that Jardine would remain in the Cabinet through the extra session inasmuch as it was supposed that the bill would form the basis of congressional action on the outstanding subject it will be called to discuss.

In announcing his retirement, Jardine said he had accepted the position with the cooperative marketing organization with the understanding that he would give to it only such time as might be necessary for the conduct of its business, thus leaving him "free to participate in other agricultural activities."

SENATE COMMITTEE ENDS SHIP INQUIRY

Meets Today to Determine Position on Sale of Fleet to Bankers.

OPPOSITION IS UNLIKELY

(Associated Press.)

Inquiry into the proposed sale of the Government's North Atlantic fleet of passenger ships to Paul W. Chapman, of New York, for $16,300,000 was concluded yesterday by the Senate commerce committee It will meet today to determine its position on the deal.

The commerce committee is without legal power to halt the sale which the Shipping Board has announced it intended to consummate, but the board has said it will give "earnest consideration to any advice" the committee may offer.

There is no indication that the committee intends to interfere. When the board disposed of the Pacific fleet the committee voted not to interfere after a similar inquiry.

Protest against the Chapman sale was voiced to the committee yesterday by W. F. Gibbs, a bidder for the United States Lines. He contended the Chapman organization could not be successful because of the high price it would have to pay for the ships.

Replying to Senator McNary (Republican), Oregon, Gibbs declared if Chapman were not successful American shipping would suffer in prestige. He believed a failure by Chapman would have an effect on the Government and cost it money eventually, although the vessels would be returned to the Government in the event of failure.

Gibbs declared the proposal of Chapman to build two new ships would place against him an unfavorable differential of more than 250 per cent in unamortized value of his ships compared with that of his competitors in the North Atlantic service.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Flu

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk 60c for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonsful. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—Adv.

"The activities of a newspaper demand good physical condition. I find Lucky Strike an immeasurable aid in helping me keep trim and fit. Whenever I am tempted to eat between meals, I light up a Lucky. Toasting makes Lucky Strike the cigarette of joy and benefit."

HERBERT BAYARD SWOPE

THE modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during the year 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This confirms in no uncertain terms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

A MOVE TOWARD PEACE.

The signing of the cruiser bill by President Coolidge puts to rout the foreign and domestic propaganda that fought so desperately to prevent the United States from making suitable provision for its security. The law requires that fifteen cruisers shall be laid down by July 1, 1931. Appropriations to carry the work forward will be forthcoming.

As existing vessels become less effective the new cruisers will tend to bring the strength of the United States Navy more nearly equal to that of the strongest foreign navy. The building of additional American vessels hereafter will still further reduce the disparity between the two largest fleets.

Since substantial equality of naval strength would make war between Great Britain and the United States a mutual death struggle, it is obvious that the most effective guarantee of continued peace is naval equality. In such a situation the public opinion of both nations will put a stop to any move or any policy that tends to provoke a conflict. The two nations have mutually renounced war between themselves, and the formal treaty to that effect merely awaits Britain's ratification.

Many fine theories are spun on the strength of the commitments made by Great Britain to the League of Nations, which are conceivably such as might bring the two great navies into conflict if one nation should become a belligerent while the other remains neutral. But these theories become untenable when they assume that Great Britain would provoke war with the United States. The practices of a belligerent toward a neutral can always be regulated. It is not necessary to invoke the compulsion of international law to cause a belligerent to leave innocent shipping alone. He can always leave it alone if he cares to do so.

With the exception of the commitments referred to, there is no latent or practically conceivable cause of controversy between the United States and Great Britain. The size and composition of the two fleets are not in themselves worth discussion, if the fighting strength of the two fleets is substantially equal. The ships operate within their respective spheres without a shadow of controversy. They serve to stabilize world peace.

In Great Britain, as well as in the United States, there is a growing conviction that attempts to define limitations upon armaments do more harm than good. Each nation in the long run must provide for its own defense in its own way, and any foreign effort to induce it to restrict its defenses is hotly resented. No nation can be the judge of another's needs. Possibly the great naval powers will conclude by 1931 that the surest road to peace is to abandon attempts to limit one another's armaments, and to rely upon mutual good faith in renouncing war, while each in its own way provides for its safety.

AMATEUR BOXING.

The penal code of the United States, applying to the Territories and the District of Columbia, prohibits participation in a "pugilistic encounter" for money or other thing of value, or for any championship, or upon the result of which any money or anything of value is bet or wagered, or to which any admission fee is directly or indirectly charged. The provision was made to prevent professional prize fighting with its attendant abuses and evils; but it also acts to prohibit the staging of properly conducted amateur boxing exhibitions, such as are permitted in practically every State of the Union and in both the Army and the Navy.

For years there has been agitation for an amendment to the code to permit genuinely amateur boxing exhibitions in the District. Such organizations as the Y. M. C. A., the American Legion, and the Knights of Columbus, together with the various schools and colleges situated in the District, would like to be enabled to stage such affairs. Last May the Senate passed a measure designed to continue the present effective prohibition of professional prize fighting and at the same time legalize properly conducted and supervised amateur exhibitions.

A similar measure, known as the Updike bill, lies moldering in the subcommittee on judiciary of the House District committee. Unless it is acted upon before adjournment, the Senate action of last May will go for naught, and those interested in the matter will face the discouraging prospect of having again to engineer the measure through both houses of Congress. The Updike bill should be reported out of the committee so that the House will have an opportunity to register its opinion as to the wisdom of legalizing strictly amateur boxing in the District of Columbia.

LINDBERGH'S ROMANCE.

It may be safely asserted that the absorbing topic of conversation yesterday among at least one-half of the people of the United States was the betrothal of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Miss Anne Morrow. The glamour of romance has enveloped Col. Lindbergh ever since he arrived at Paris, dropping from the clouds "with no more baggage than a bird," to find to his astonishment that fame had traveled on even faster wings than his own. Within a day his environment was completely and forever changed, and fortune opened both hands in showering favors upon him.

Under the severest test that could be applied to a young man's character Lindbergh has remained true. The temptations that instantly surround a young, famous, wealthy and dazzlingly attractive bachelor failed to find a weak spot in his armor of modest manliness. His apparent indifference to feminine charm intensified his boyishness and encouraged secret day dreams on the part of a multitude of romantic maidens. In their eyes, as well as in the eyes of the world, he has been a "parfit gentil knight," a Prince Charming, whose casual glance could enkindle the undying flame. It seemed that he would be forever young and forever elusive.

Then came the fateful encounter between Lindbergh and the world conqueror, whose arrows fly in unexpected directions but never miss their mark. As a man and a gentleman Lindbergh makes a gallant fight; but the odds are overwhelmingly against him. Time, the occasion, and the girl are brought into conjunction. The stern little god easily defeats the conqueror of the skies and binds him captive to a lovely American girl. A happy fate, and may no worse one befall any explorer!

RANK OF RETIRED OFFICERS.

Senator Tyson, member of the military affairs committee, and a graduate of West Point in the class of 1883, introduced in the first session a measure providing as follows:

> That the President of the United States be, and he is hereby, authorized to nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to appoint any commissioned officer of the Army not above the grade of brigadier general who served in the Army of the United States during the World War, whose service during that war was creditable, and who has been, or who may hereafter be, retired according to law, to a rank on the retired list at the highest rank held by him during the World War; provided, that no increase of pay or allowances shall result from the provisions of this act.

Sponsors of the measure point out that the exclusion of regular Army officers above the grade of brigadier general is intentional, inasmuch as such officers are marked for recognition by special congressional action. Officers who would be benefited by the measure are fully entitled to the recognition contemplated. Some time ago there was passed a measure creating an emergency officers' retired list. Under it, emergency officers of the World War are retired at three-quarters of the pay of the highest grade held by them during the World War. Under existing law, regular officers are retired upon the pay of the grade to which they were demoted at the close of, or during, the war.

Officers of the regular Army ask for no increase in their retirement pay or allowances. They ask only that they be accorded in retirement the rank in which they served, and which was attained in most cases after many years of service. The Tyson bill seeks to pay fitting tribute to individuals, in addition to which it involves no additional expense to the Government. It should be enacted.

THE INDIAN INVESTIGATION.

Senator Wheeler informed the Senate on Tuesday that every time that body has undertaken to investigate the administration of the Indian Bureau something has intervened to stop it. The most recent block in the path of the committee on Indian affairs has been placed there by the committee controlling the Senate contingent fund. The investigation is throttled by withholding expense money.

If the investigation is allowed to stop now, all the efforts that have been made to get at the bottom of the Indian question will be wasted. The committee has listened to tales of abuse and to vigorous defense of the Government's present policy. The personnel of the Indian Bureau has been maligned and praised. Will the Senate salt these charges away in its archives of obsolete documents, and wait until another impassioned plea is made by self-appointed guardians of the red man's destiny? And when the charges are repeated, will it appoint a new committee to listen again to the same old tales of woe?

If it is intended that the investigation shall result in a few superficial patches to the tattered Indian policy, it is just as well that the committee be disbanded now without further expense. But if the Senate really wants to know what is the matter with the present administration of affairs on the reservations, it should supply ample funds and instruct the committee to go to the heart of the problem. That can never be done by listening to the petty complaints of former employes in the Indian service and by taking testimony from persons who wish to make a national scandal out of the Indian Bureau.

While the Senate considered continuance of the investigation, Representative Howard, of Oklahoma, made a plea in the House for an appropriation of $25,000 to be spent in his home State to find employment for the Indian wards of the Government. New legislation to improve the situation in specific localities is unwise until the Government has decided how it shall deal with this unfortunate race. There is no reason why the Indians can not be made economically independent, and any program which the Government is carrying out in their behalf should have this end in view. Until the Senate has the facts from competent investigators who know how to get to the bottom of the difficult problem, nothing can be accomplished in the way of constructive legislation.

BIRD PROTECTION.

Delay in getting legislation through Congress is generally conceded to be one of the necessary evils of representative government. But the tendency to prolong debate and to hold up measures with amendments and reconsideration is not always to the disadvantage of the public. The bill for the protection of migratory birds, which has finally been approved by the Senate, offers an example of delay justified by what was accomplished.

For years Congress has been considering this subject without being able to agree upon any measure. In the controversy the objectionable features of the bill have been eliminated and it will become a law for the preservation of wild bird life, rather than a regulatory measure for shooting grounds. Manufacturers of guns and munitions have been trying to drive through Congress a bill in the interest of hunters and not for the protection of birds. Congress has done well to substitute a plan for establishment of sanctuaries in place of a scheme to regulate slaughter of wild life.

The bill authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to acquire inviolable sanctuaries for migratory birds and to develop these areas with the cooperation of local authorities. Birds will not only be protected from hunters in these refuges, but precaution will be taken against pollution of water about breeding places and dykes will be constructed to provide suitable environment for aquatic birds. The Department of Agriculture plans to establish at least 125 sanctuaries, with at least one in every State. Expenses of this program will be met with appropriations amounting to $200,000 for 1931, $600,000 for 1932 and $1,000,000 for each of the seven succeeding years. Present plans call for completion of the preserves within ten years.

Such protection is much needed in this country. Several important species of birds which once inhabited America are now extinct, and others are seriously threatened. The movement has been supported chiefly by the lovers of birds, but its economic value to the country at large should not be overlooked. As it stands the measure justifies all delay in its enactment.

A SHIPMASTER'S VIEW.

By CAPT. J. F. McCULLOUGH.

In The Post of February 5, I note an article under the caption, "Wanted—American Seamen," written by Mr. Andrew Furuseth, president International Seamen's Union, who claims to represent the seamen of the United States.

Capt. Fried was quoted correctly by Mr. Furuseth and I believe every shipmaster will agree with Capt. Fried that "the greatest need of the American merchant marine is men—enough men and the right men." But I doubt if the shipmasters and officers on American ships will agree with Mr. Furuseth in the plan which he presents in the article appearing in your paper, wherein he argues that by abolishing the Sea Service Bureau, we can build up an efficient personnel in our merchant marine. If this service were abolished conditions on ships would again become as bad as they were prior to the organization of the bureau.

I am a shipmaster and I believe that, if the matter of abolishing the Sea Service Bureau was left to the officers of the ships, the men who are most vitally interested in the engagement of the crews, who have to go to sea with the men and who are in the best position to actually know the caliber of men needed on the ships, they would vote to continue the Sea Service Bureau in preference to returning to the old way of securing seamen. Prior to the establishment of the Sea Service Bureau we had to depend entirely on the International Seamen's Union. The system they had compelled us to take any man they sent us, as long as he was paid up in their organization, regardless of nationality or physical fitness. The only question asked was "is he a union man." They were not concerned in creating American seamen. The "due book" was the seamen's recommendation; and, if he was in arrears, he was compelled to stand aside for the man who was paid up. We shipmasters had to take the men sent to us by the organization. If we refused to do so, we knew the tactics that would be used. The delegates of the union would demand that we take any man sent, or all the men would leave the ship at the delegates' command. If the crew left the ship, it would cause extra expense and delay to the vessels. So there was only one thing to do, take the union man and make the best of it.

Mr. Furuseth claims that he has for more than twenty years advocated the employment of American seamen. If this is so, then why does he try to use his influence to have abolished the only Government bureau in existence which is attempting to Americanize the crews on ships of American registry, the only agency which makes no discrimination as to whether or not the seamen belong to a labor organization, the only agency which offers any attraction for the inexperienced young man to follow the sea for a livelihood?

Before the Sea Service Bureau was established we had 90 per cent aliens on our ships. We now have 61 per cent Americans on all our ships, and on Shipping Board ships we have 89 per cent. That is your answer as to whether or not the Sea Service Bureau is accomplishing anything.

I have never been compelled to accept any seaman sent to my ship by the Sea Service Bureau. Officers have the final approval of all seamen engaged. We can pick our men at the Sea Service Bureau if we desire, and we can refuse any man sent aboard the ship. We are satisfied that when seamen sent to the ship have been physically examined we are not going to sea with men who will lie up in the "sick bay" during the voyage. This alone means a whole lot to a ship, especially when medical attention is not so easily secured.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

One Dose Is Enough.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Europe is not moving very directly in the interest of universal peace, in the method that is being pursued to settle the reparation question. If war should come, Europe will not find the United States ready to supply it with funds, or send a million men to help. We have had our dose with dealing with Europe, and will not be willing to take another dose of the same med icine.

AMERICUS.

Objects to Indians Working.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I feel called upon to protest against the crass materialism of your article in The Post of Sunday, which sees no future for the American Indian, but that he should be haltered to the treadmill of industry and henceforth plod its ndless grind.

I call your attention to the fact that the Indian was in peaceful possession of all of America before the white man came, and that now he owns but scraps of worthless land. Were the Indian given even one-tenth of an approximation of his rights there would be no occasion for his starving in isolated wastes or being forced into industrial drudgery.

The nature of the Indian is well known. He is by instinct an artist, a dreamer, a mystic. He has a soul which rides the winds that sing through his pine trees. He gazes on his stars at night and feels an exultation that is unknown beneath the blankets of soot that hover over the smokestacks of manufacturing cities. He has his gods with whom he communes in his own way, which is not the way of the paleface, and the inner glow that is his is a sacred thing which no man has a right to destroy.

So artistic are the Pueblos of New Mexico and so excellent is the work in pottery and silver of the Indians that as a result there has developed at Santa Fe an art colony that is becoming known around the world. The blankets of the Navajo Indians, the beadwork of the Sioux, are of such quality that they can not be equaled by civilization, with all its mechanical devices.

The Indian has a right to his own civilization, to follow his own racial instincts, to hold to the religion of his fathers, to live his own life. That the Government should deny him this right, that it should condemn him instead of a life of soulless, industrial toil, that it should by force merge his identity with that of the swarms of sweatshop foreigners that have poured into industrial United States, is unthinkable. His industrialization should not be permitted. HUMANITARIAN.

Auto Speed Racing.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the editorial part of The Post dated February 10 I noted an article in regard to Maj. Seagrave, the famous automobile racer. To begin with, I hardly think that your attitude toward auto racing is quite a fair one. I wish to state that, although you may not be interested, automobile racing is a major sport, and attracts the attention of the entire world.

Motor racing is a clean sport and has been free from scandal and many of the most prominent men in the United States have been vitally interested in its progress. Naturally, any sport of this character has an element of danger and many very famous drivers have met death in a race. On the other hand, what about aviation? There have been far more aviators killed in that time than in auto racing.

After reading this far, the idea may come to you that auto racing has no value whatsoever and that it never did have. To answer this I can safely state, and give proof, that racing is playing an extremely important part in the development of the automobile, and always has. Did you know that there would not be eight-cylinder cars on the market today if it were not for the fact that racing developed this type of motor?

Many of the easy riding qualities you find in your own car have been secured from experiments made on the speedway. Tires, spark plugs, shock absorbers and many others too numerous to mention have received their present state of perfection from racing exclusively.

It is only natural that every one is not interested in the same things, and still I feel that your article on Maj. Segrave was out of place, as every one wishes him all success in his coming attempt to break the world's speed record at Daytona Beach next month; and in the event he does break it, the feat will be cabled to all parts of the world, and his name will be greater than ever. THEODORE L. CHASE.

BLINDFOLD TESTS.

Mere mention of blindfold tests calls to the mind of the average newspaper reader visions of cigarette smokers. But such tests can be used to show up more serious characteristics than a test for a certain brand of tobacco, says the New York Times. Prof. A. A. Schaeffer, of the University of Kansas, has been studying emotions of blindfolded persons as a means of interpreting temperament.

He found that without exception his subjects would "walk, run, swim, row and drive automobiles in clockspring spiral paths of greater or less regularity when attempting a straightaway." Differences of temperament were shown by the degree of consistency with which the blindfolded person pursued his spiral way.

Plodders made paths "consisting of long and regular series of spiral turns with gradually decreasing diameters and without reversal of turn." The more temperamental and erratic characters made fewer turns, frequent reversals and often went nearly straight. Further study may bring out an even clearer relation between temperamental and blindfold motion.

If such tests can be brought down to a point of sufficient accuracy, employment agencies may incorporate them in their already lengthy list of devices for spotting character. The applicant for a job would then find himself invited to a scientific game of blindman's bluff, and would be assigned to a job as filing clerk or department head, according to the curves he took.

The Caesar of the Sheep World Deserves His Bronze, Also.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

I ONCE stood in a packing house in Chicago and watched the slaughtering of animals.

Men stood on the bars of a small enclosure and knocked steers in the head with heavy hammers.

The steers fell to the floor, kicking, and were swung up by the hind legs to be dissected.

Some of them bawled when the hammers fell.

The hogs squealed incessantly.

Only the sheep were silent as they were led to the slaughter.

Because sheep are foolish enough to follow a leader without asking questions, a ram is employed to decoy them.

He marches through a narrow, enclosed lane, the witless sheep eagerly following, and comes to a revolving platform where he leaps aside to safety.

But the sheep do not understand or suspect this inequality, and when they are caught up by the hind feet and keen knives slit their throats, they make no cry of protest.

The ram I saw was named Jerry.

A few days ago he died, after ten years of service, having led seven million of his fellow sheep to their death.

No monument will be erected to him, and he will fill no pages in history.

And yet, if he had been a man, he would have been honored as one of earth's great ones.

Those he led to slaughter died in a good cause—died to make mutton chops—died that others might live.

Human sheep have been led to slaughter to render a less worthy service.

It will be argued by advocates of equality that Jerry did not play the game—that his evasion of the danger into which he led others was unsportsmanlike.

But Jerry was a General.

If his followers died by millions, other millions were found to replace them; but General Jerry was a trained leader, whose place could not be filled.

It was necessary to save him from the fate of his followers; for if there were no leaders, there could be no slaughter—and what would munitions makers do then, poor things?

General Jerry is dead and men do him no honor.

But perhaps the sheep he led to slaughter exalt his name in that other world as men exalt the names of Caesar, Alexander and Napoleon.

THE LETTERLESS AGE.

Letter writing, like currying a horse, will soon be a lost art, writes Harry Daniel in Thrift Magazine. Already signs of decay are apparent. Business men are now having their letters signed with the weary, disinterested legend: "Dictated but not read." In another five years they will let them go out as follows: "Dictated by office boy. Signed by janitor. We dare you to read it."

What we rapidly are coming to is a letterless age when people will correspond entirely by code. We shall then have simply a code number for every kind of letter imaginable. In order to prove how easily this can be done, the following brief list is submitted with the code number and the message which it signifies:

(1) Please send remittance for that old bill without further delay. Santa Claus is no longer affiliated with this business. (2) Look at price list enclosed and give us an order. If you don't we are going to just scream. (3) your prices are too high. Jesse James used a horse but you come galloping up like a Mack truck. (4) I am in receipt of your recent favor and in reply wish to advise that I love you just too much for anything. (5) Dear Dad: Please send me a check by return mail. My raccoon coat has eloped with an airedale. (6) Unless you pay your rent within a period of ten days we will be compeled to lease the place next door to a saxophone player. (7) We regret to advise that your old car has no trade-in value. Love and sweet dreams. (8) Dear Madam: We note you say the shoes are too tight. That is not a mistake. It's a compliment. (9) Come home. All is forgiven. We have shot your mother-in-law.

And, so the busy world of love, pig-iron and bankruptcy moves ever on.

Philadelphia Inquirer: The other drys in Congress must have considerable trouble competing with the Congressional Record.

Lots of Competition.

Atlanta Constitution: We can not understand how those chautauquas doing the winter circuit, can fill out their programs with Congress in session.

There Should Be.

Boston Transcript: In the reports of the meeting between President Coolidge and Capt. Fried no mention is made of an animated conversation. Even the imagination of the Washington correspondents has its limits.

Much Better.

Toledo Blade: Scientists are working to create a telephone pole that will withstand the impact of a car going 45 miles an hour. It would be much better to have poles that could jump out of the way.

Let 'Em Try It.

Philadelphia Record: "Scratch an American," says a European critic, "and you would find he is nothing more than a piece of machinery." A disappointing discovery. Still, a European who scratched some Americans would be likely to get quite a kick out of it.

Hi's Loose.

Ohio State Journal: Well, we see that the trustworthy Hiram Johnson has been doing his best to get England mad at us in his impassioned remarks on the cruiser bill, but we don't suppose the incident will be closed satisfactorily until Hiram or some other distinguished senator says something mean about Japan.

The Strongest Possible.

Topeka Daily Capital: A Chanute woman smoker writes the Tribune of that town indignantly protesting against a cosmetics tax, when women already are cigarette tax payers. Moreover she frankly admits that "this has nothing to do with ethics or morality—it is a dollars and sense proposition." And when you come down to it, a "dollars and sense" proposition makes a strong combination.

Congressional Intelligence.

Philadelphia Inquirer: Is a member of Congress more or less intelligent than the average citizen? That was the subject of an interesting debate in the House of Representatives Thursday. Mr. Kopp, of Iowa, discussing the reapportionment measure recently passed by the lower body, said that the most "untutored mind" could understand the mathematical method employed. Yet a college professor has testified that the average congressman could not understand it. "In other words," added the member, "the most untutored mind can understand it, but the average congressman can not."

We are afraid that the gentlemen who sit beneath the big dome in the District of Columbia are unduly sensitive. The truth of the matter probably is that the members of the national lawmaking body are no better or no worse than their constituents. Their very title gives a clue to their attainments. The word "Representative" means what it says. They are presumed to be typical of the voters who elect them to office. Why should we ask any more than that?

[COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES]

1 Put Crisco into cold frying pan. To cook the fish without smoke or scorching, fry slowly, using enough Crisco to partly cover it. It will not require the constant attention frying does when only a little fat is used.

2 Put frying pan over low heat. As soon as Crisco is melted put in a small piece of bread.

Crisco-fried fish—without smoke or odor

3 Wash and dry fish, dredge with salt and flour (or cornmeal). As soon as bread starts to brown, put in the fish. Cook slowly. When the fish is nearly done, then turn to brown the other side. With plenty of Crisco in the pan the fish is easily turned without breaking, if you wait until it is almost done.

4 Strain the Crisco into an empty can and use it for the next thing you want to fry. No one will know you have fried fish in it.

WHEN you come to think of it, should you ever fry in a fat you are unwilling to taste?

You taste milk. You test eggs. Now, taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Then you'll understand why Crisco's own sweet, fresh flavor so improves the taste of your cakes, pies, hot breads, cookies and fried foods.

Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

CRISCO was used in the Cooking School conducted last week by this paper

Mrs. Frances Northeross, of The Post, stressed the importance of modern cooking methods and modern ingredients. Naturally, then, she uses and recommends Crisco.

CHEWNING GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Auto Salesman Sentenced to Three and Half Years in Student's Slaying.

APPEAL WILL BE TAKEN

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Henry E. Chewning, Charlottesville automobile salesman, was today convicted of involuntary manslaughter by a jury in corporation court here and was sentenced to serve three and one-half years in the Virginia penitentiary for the killing of James E. Symmers, jr., University of Virginia student, of Rye, N. Y., last December 3.

Chewning received the verdict with bowed head, gazing fixedly at the floor. His wife, who has remained constantly by his side during the three days of the trial, sat immovable as the verdict was read by Judge A. D. Dabney.

Immediately upon the reading of the verdict Judge Dabney overruled a motion for a new trial and attorneys served notice of appeal to the Virginia Supreme Court. W. O. Fife, chief of counsel, said later that he expected to base the appeal to some extent on what he contended was the lack of opportunity to investigate the State's chief witness, John Largin, and on the absence of Miss Alice Fowler, who was with Chewning at the time of the killing. Miss Fowler was summoned by both defense and the Commonwealth in the trial, but could not be located.

Symmers was killed in the Kitch-Inn, a lunch car situated just off the University of Virginia campus, as he was eating a midnight meal.

The State sought to show the killing was deliberate while Chewning contended that it was accidental, brought about when a pistol dropped from Chewning's pocket to the floor and was accidentally discharged, the bullet fatally wounding Symmers.

In John Largin, of Dublin, Va., the Commonwealth presented a witness who testified that on the night of December 3, while in the Kitch-Inn, he saw one man deliberately shoot another. The defense sought to question the reliability of Largin's statement and brought into evidence telegrams from citizens of Dublin, Va., one of which said Largin's reputation for truth and veracity was "only fairly good," while another telegram said the sender had never known Largin to wilfully misrepresent anything but at the same time said the sender did not "know what Largin would do under existing circumstances."

The State did not seek a conviction of first degree murder, Commonwealth's Attorney Littleton Wood announcing in his argument that a second degree murder or involuntary manslaughter verdict seemed the only possible decision, as no motive for the killing had been established. Chewning, however, was tried under an indictment charging first degree murder.

The jury received the case at noon today, after the morning was spent in attorney's arguments, and returned its verdict at 3:07 o'clock this afternoon.

He was found by Policeman F. L. Rawlinson, of the Traffic Bureau, lying in the middle of the street.

The victim was garbed in working clothes and had a tin cutter and a coppersmith hammer. He is about 50 years old, with dark hair, slightly bald in the crown of his head and is about 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighing 160 pounds.

ROADS FUND FRAUD FOUND WIDESPREAD

"Key" Men Caused "System" to Collapse, Maryland Inquest Is Told.

FEW SIGNED FOR GOODS

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 13.—There was so much collusion in the wholesale pilfering of funds of the State Roads Commission that apparent safeguards set up to protect the "system" proved of little value and finally collapsed when the several "key" men themselves became involved in the irregularities, the grand inquest of the General Assembly of Maryland, investigating the scandal involving more than $876,000, was told today.

Testimony to this effect was given by C. C. Croggins, of the firm of Haskins & Sells, expert accountants, who audited the books of the roads commission. Mr. Croggins gave a detailed description of the manner in which the audit was conducted. He was interrupted frequently by members of the inquest and counsel with questions concerning various phases of the audit, much of which has been published.

Records Found Inadequate.

While touching on the subject of collusion on the part of the employes of the roads commission, Croggins also asserted that records of the commission bearing upon materials and labor were insufficient in themselves to check such items.

In the course of the examination the inquisitors had before them preliminary and final reports made by the auditors. Answering a question of Charles M. Howard, of counsel, Croggins said that the auditors undertook their work in April of last year and that the number of men employed in the investigation varied from time to time.

He described the procedure followed by the audit, saying that the men went through all receipts and disbursements in the commission's records and submitted such items as it was thought merited further inquiry.

Fifty Persons Interviewed.

He said at least 50 persons were interviewed by the auditors and that all matter pertaining to the thefts was carefully checked. The names of some persons appearing in the firm's report, he said, had no connection with any of the irregularities that were developed. These persons, h. said, had signed for articles at different times or else had made purchase through the commission without knowledge of wrongdoing.

At this point Mr. Howard asked if the irregularities of this kind could be discovered on the books themselves to which the witness replied that the case was not like that of an ordinary business and it was difficult to explain. The chief trouble, he said, was that vouchers supporting disbursements were short or over the designated amounts.

One Man Is Injured As Three Autos Crash

A collision between three automobiles on Bladensburg road near H street northeast yesterday caused injuries to Robert E. Edwards, colored, 34 years old, of 920 L street northwest, who was standing on a curb nearby at the time of the accident.

Edwards was struck by the machine of Bennie Butts, 34 years old, of Richmond, Va., which had previously collided with the automobiles of Elmer Jackson, of 410 Ridge street northwest, and Harry Bryne, of the northeast terminal of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. Butts was arrested by the police of the Ninth Precinct on a charge of reckless driving, and was released on $100 collateral. Edwards suffered a possible fracture of the shoulder.

Coat of Tan Is Ready For Congress' Skin

Ultraviolet Ray Machine Is Installed in Capitol; May Be Bought.

A winter tan while in Washington has become available to members of Congress, it was learned yesterday, with installation of an ultraviolet ray machine in a room at the Capitol.

If results are satisfactory and there is a demand for it, it was said, the machine will be purchased.

The artificial sun ray producer looks like a police patrol call box and has two small doors in the front. Patients stand in front and turn on the electricity.

The contraption is said to have a disadvantage, however, in that the person who looks into it must wear dark goggles, and this would leave white rings around the eyes on tanned faces.

FEES ARE ARGUED IN JOHNSTON TRIAL

Advance Payment to Attorney Charged Against Oklahoma's Suspended Governor.

SAYS HIS AID NOT NEEDED

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 13 (A.P.). The impeachment trial of Gov. Henry S. Johnston dragged today through prosaic technical testimony intended to show that he acted illegally in issuing deficiency certificates, involved in seven of the eleven charges voted against him by the house of representatives.

The house board of managers prosecuting the suspended governor centered its fire on a certificate issued to provide for the payment of an advance attorney fee to Kirby Fitzpatrick, who had worked actively for Johnston in the primary and general election campaigns of 1926, when Johnston was elected.

Fitzpatrick was retained as a special attorney in the State banking department and was given a fee of $3,500 before he performed any services. Edwin Dabney, attorney general, told the senate court of impeachment today that if he had been asked by the governor he would have advised that the advance fee was illegal. Dabney admitted his office had submitted the governor an opinion that a deficiency certificate could be issued for the payment of Fitzpatrick's services if an emergency existed.

Dabney said his office had not been asked to do the work for which Fitzpatrick was retained, collection of surety bonds on insolvent State banks. The attorney general testified that the governor had not asked his advice as to the legality of the issuance of six other deficiency certificates.

E. P. Hill, veteran member of the legislature who was defeated for reelection in Pittsburgh County last year because of his opposition to Johnston's administration, charged in testimony before the senate court that the governor had broken faith with the legislature in employing Fitzpatrick. Johnston appeared before the house appropriations committee, Hill said, and promised he would not use additional funds of the State banking department for employment of attorneys if they were voted by the legislature.

O. B. Mothersead, former bank commissioner, told the senate court that there was no necessity for another attorney in the banking department when Fitzpatrick was employed, and that the banking board engaged him because of the governor's insistence. Employment of E. S. Lowther, of Guthrie, as an additional attorney for the banking department also was unjustified, Mothersead said.

Mothersead was an appointee of M. E. Trapp, who preceded Johnston as governor, and was removed early in Johnston's administration in favor of Graves Shull, the present commissioner.

Two Youths Kill Third For "Little Extra Money"

Kansas City, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Two youths, Orville Trout, 19, and Walter I. Tyron, 18, who said they had "wanted a little extra money," confessed today that they slew James Reese, 18, filling station attendant, in a robbery last night. Reese was wounded fatally when he attempted to knock a revolver from Trout's hand. He died in a hospital a short time later.

A search by Trout for the revolver, which he threw away a block from the scene of the shooting, and the memory of two sharp-eyed boys, who saw him looking for it, led to the arrests. The boys, David and John Cavanaugh, noted the license number of Trout's car and reported it to police.

Prince of Wales Keeps One Faithful Jumper

London, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Just an Idea, a faithful horse, is one among all of his hunters with which the Prince of Wales can not bear to part. The catalogue of the sale at which the prince's hunters will be disposed of next month, in view of his decision to curtail his activities in the hunting field, reads: "Entire stud with exception of one old horse."

It developed that this animal was Just an Idea which the Prince of Wales had ridden for six seasons without the clever horse ever putting one foot wrong with him. The faithful jumper probably is destined to pass the rest of its life on the prince's farm at Lenton.

Tons of Plant Food Extracted From Air

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—In 1928 scientists captured nearly 1,000,000 tons of nitrogen out of thin air—a source that is inexhaustible. The process is known as the "fixing" air nitrogen, and is the basis of an industry that rapidly is developing in this country.

Dr. Firman E. Bear, of the soils department of Ohio State University, says the amount is equivalent to more than 4,000,000 tons of sulphate of ammonia, or more than 5,000,000 tons of nitrate of soda.

Closing of Indiana Bank Hits 3 More

Small Institutions Clearing Through Wells County House Shut Down.

Bluffton, Ind., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Closing of the Wells County State Bank here today precipitated the closing of three other banks in small towns in Wells County. They were the Bank of Petroleum, the State Bank of Uniondale and the Liberty Center State Bank. The Wells County State Bank had deposits of $1,250,000.

The banks in the three small communities were closed within a few hours after the Wells County State Bank here had been closed by Thomas Barr, State bank examiner. The three small banks all cleared through the local bank. Lack of ready cash prevented them from continuing business.

In each instance hope was expressed that a reorganization might be effected and officers of all institutions said there would probably be no loss to depositors. Heavy withdrawals caused the closing of the local bank.

TROTZKY PRISONER IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Troops Guard Consulate, in Which He Awaits Term of Political Exile.

ANGORA MAY BE CHOSEN

Constantinople, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—A strong guard of Russian troops barred the gateway to the Russian consulate where Leon Trotzky was sleeping tonight, a prisoner. Trotzky was brought here today on the steamer Illitch. The choice of his place of exile remains in doubt. The night train left Constantinople for Angora, but watchers found no sign of him among the passengers.

The Soviet consulate, formerly the embassy of Czarist Russia, is a huge building of 100 rooms. It has been noted in the past for its regal receptions and lavish furnishings. Throughout the day sentries have paced in front of the entrance and efforts to approach the prisoner have been futile.

The Turkish press has published nothing concerning the arrival of Trotzky. Among various conflicting rumors is one to the effect that he will be kept in Constantinople for several days pending a decision whether to send him to Angora or Broussa. If Angora is chosen as Trotzky's "St. Helena," the hot summers and prevalence of malaria conceivably might play havoc with his failing health.

There are signs that the situation has given the Turkish government moments of anxiety. It is thought that Turkish officials have offered the seclusion of healthful Broussa.

Pope Celebrates Mass For Students of Milan

Rome, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Pope Pius observed Ash Wednesday today by celebrating mass in the Consistorial Hall for the faculty and students of the Catholic University of the Sacred Heart at Milan. He personally distributed communion to all the congregation and imparted the apostilic benediction.

The Milan University delegation had come to Rome for the occasion of the Pope's jubilee year.

Disputed Belle Is Beautiful Russian Artist Tells Jury

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The Russian artist, Vadin Chernoff, took the witness stand today and contradicted Sir Joseph Duveen, art dealer, who is being sued for $500,000 by Mrs. Andree Lardoux Hahn, of Kansas City, because he said her portrait, "La Belle Ferronniere," was not by Leonardo da Vinci.

Last week, analyzing the Hahn portrain, point by point, and comparing it with another portrait in the Louvre in Paris, which he said generally is accepted by critics as a genuine Da Vinci, Sir Joseph told the jury of twelve business men why he was sure the Hahn canvas was not from the brush of Da Vinci.

Today Chernoff, who said he was thoroughly familiar with Da Vinci and other Italian painters of the day, testified that the coloring of the Hahn painting was much clearer than that of the Louvre portrait.

Last week Sir Joseph said that the neck in the Hahn picture was bad, that the skin did not look like real skin, and the hair was like "mud."

"The naturalness of the lines of the shoulder, the neck, and the breast," said Mr. Chernoff today, standing before the Hahn canvas, "is apparent to the most untrained eye. I myself can see the clear outline of the flesh and muscle beneath as it would be in life. This portrait is a beautiful thing."

S. Lawrence, Mrs. Hahn's attorney asked Chernoff if the hair looked to him like mud.

"Oh, no," replied the Russian painter "how can you say such a thing?"

4-Day Residence Limit In Wyoming Divorce Bill

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Residence of but four days in Wyoming before a divorce action could be instituted, would be required in a bill passed today by the State house of representatives.

The original bill by Representative W. C. Delaney proposed lowering the residence period from twelve to four months, but the bill was amended in committee to four days and the report was adopted today. The bill now goes to the senate.

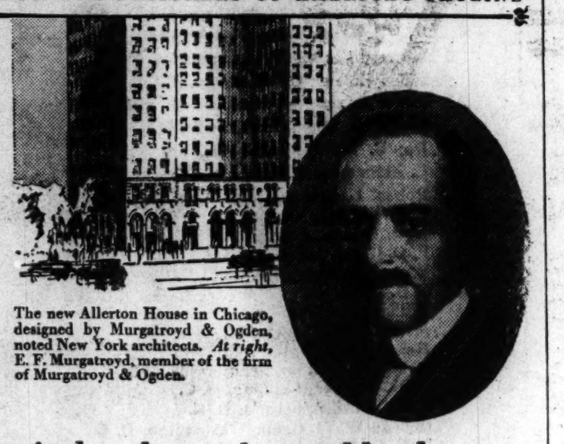
TO THE OWNERS OF AMERICA'S HOMES
FROM THE DESIGNERS OF AMERICA'S SKYLINE



The new Allerton House in Chicago, designed by Murgatroyd & Ogden, noted New York architects. At right, E. F. Murgatroyd, member of the firm of Murgatroyd & Ogden.

"—it has been thoroughly demonstrated that in the long run rust-proof home construction proves a great economy."—MURGATROYD & OGDEN

E F Murgatroyd

THERE are two important reasons why you should install Copper, Brass and Bronze materials when you build or buy.

First: Service! These rust-proof metals give unfailing, unvarying service. Once they are installed you need never give them another thought.

Second: Economy! Although Copper, Brass and Bronze cost somewhat more than rustable metals, they are far cheaper in the long run. They cannot rust. Their use obviates repairs and replacements. And they enhance the resale value of the house.

The leading architects of the country are practically unanimous in advising the use of rust-proof construction for all buildings—especially for modest priced homes. Murgatroyd & Ogden, for instance, say in the same letter from which the above quotation was taken:

"The use of Copper, Brass and Bronze in buildings today is getting more and more common and we feel that in the near future they will entirely supplant the ferrous metals wherever corrosion is to be contended with."

Write our Building Service Department for additional information. There is no obligation.

Considering their life-long service and their absolute protection against rust, Copper, Brass and Bronze are not expensive even in the construction of small homes.

Announcing

A New and Improved

FARMERS' PRODUCE MARKET

5th and K Streets N.W.

TO THE WASHINGTON PUBLIC:

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, who have in the past served our friends in Washington at the Farmers' Market at Twelfth and B Streets N.W., are pleased to announce to them that on and after Thursday, February 14, 1929, we will be prepared to give them better and more efficient service at FIFTH AND K STREETS N.W.

OUR NEW LOCATION is directly adjacent to THE CONVENTION HALL, two blocks from the Public Library and easy of access by both street railway systems.

THE OLD SITE on B Street is being taken over by the Government in connection with its building program. For some months the farmers and the public have waited for Congress and the District Government to provide an adequate space elsewhere.

A FORTUNATE TURN in affairs makes it possible for us to announce that a new and improved FARMERS' PRODUCE MARKET will be opened, TODAY, at Convention Hall.

THE NEW MARKET will ultimately be under shelter; many new service departments will be added; conveniences for the public hitherto not available will be provided and the public will enjoy a great saving in both time and money under our new program of food distribution.

WE WANT TO WELCOME OUR OLD CUSTOMERS in our new location and extend to the general public an invitation to visit and inspect our new plant.

THE MAJORITY OF THE PEOPLE OF WASHINGTON have asked that the farmers move their market closer to the center of population. We are pleased to comply with their request. We respectfully solicit your continued patronage and support.

The Children

By Edith Wharton

A sparkling serial story by one of America's foremost novelists at the gleaming heights of her power.

SYNOPSIS.

Martin Boyne, a civil engineer, who has been kept busy on projects in all parts of the world, is taking an ocean trip. He is looking forward to another fortnight of solitude, when the steward places a chair next to his tagged "Mrs. Cliffe Wheater." Cliffe Wheater was a schoolmate of his at Harvard. His wife was a friend of those days. Boyne is puzzled by the varied types of children in the entourage and further mystified by its leader. He is told by the gray-haired woman called "Scopy" her name is Judith. She is the eldest child of the Wheaters. The eldest boy's name is Terry, and his health is poor. "Scopy" recounts the tangled love affairs of the Wheaters to explain the group for Boyne. Boyne begins to mull over his own affairs, particularly with a Mrs. Sellars. Hitherto, "unattainable," he recalls her husband has died. Terry, the heir-apparent to the Wheater fortune, asks Boyne to intercede on his behalf with his parents to obtain a tutor.

CHAPTER VI (Continued).

"HELL—you do?" her husband laughed incredulously. "'Nother cigar, old chap? These Coronas ain't bad—specially made for me." He loosed the golden sheathings from a cigar and held his lighter to it.

"I know a tutor," Mrs. Wheater repeated. "Exactly the right person, if only we can persuade him to take the job."

"Well—I'll be blowed! Where'd you excavate him?"

She was silent for a moment; then she said: "I've been going to the galleries with him. It's the first time I've ever seen Venice. Fanny Tradeschi got him out from England to tutor her boys, and then she was bored here, and rushed back to Paris, and left him stranded. His name is Ormerod—Gerald Ormerod. It would be the greatest privilege for Terry if he could be persuaded. . . ."

"Oh, I guess I can persuade him all right. I don't believe Fanny remembered to settle with him before she left."

"No, she didn't; but he's awfully proud. You'd better not take that tone with him, Cliffe."

"What; the tone of asking him what his screw is?"

"Shouting like that at the top of your lungs—as if everybody less rich than yourself was deaf," said his wife, with a slight steel edge in her silver voice.

"Hullo! That the size of it? Well, fix it up with him any old way you like. I'm off for a round of the town. . . . Not coming along, Martin? Well, so long. . . . Can't for the life of me see why you've stuck yourself down at that frowsy pension with the children; I'm sure I could have bullied the manager here into giving you a room. . . . Have it your own way, though. And you and Joyce can map out a tour for tomorrow; only no galleries for me, thank you! Look here—d'ye think I'd disturb Chipstone Wheater, Esq., if I was just to poke my head in and take a look at him on my way out? Listen—my shoes don't creak the least bit. . . . Oh, hang it, I don't care, I'm going to, anyway. . . ."

Of the Joyce Mervin of Boyne's youth, the young Joyce Wheater of her early married days, nothing apparently was left in the slim figure leaning over the balcony at Boyne's elbow. Then she had been large, firm and rosy, with a core of artless sensibility: now she seemed to have gone through some process of dematerialization (no doubt there were specialists for this, too) which had left a translucent and imponderable body about a hard little kernel of spirit.

"It's impossible to make Cliffe feel nuances," she murmured to her cigarette after Wheater had gone; then, turning to Boyne: "But now we can have a good talk—just like old times, can't we? She settled down in her armchair and exchanged her measured syllables for a sort of steely volubility which rattled about Boyne's head like a hail of confetti. She was awfully glad to see him, really she was, she declared; he did believe her when she said that, didn't he? He'd always been such a perfect friend, in the silly old days when she herself was just a stupid baby, years younger in experience than Judy was now. . . . What did Martin think of Judy, by the way? Did he appreciate what a miracle the child was? Positively she was older and wiser than any of them; and the only human being who had any influence whatever with Cliffe. . . .

Oh, well: Cliffe . . . yes . . . it was awfully dear and sweet of Martin to say that he was glad she and Cliffe had come together again, and she was glad too, and she was ever so proud of Chip, and she did recognize poor Cliffe's qualities, she always had, even when things were at their worst . . . but, there, it was no use pretending with Martin, it never had been; and there was no denying that Cliffe had got into dreadfully bad hands when she left him . . . utterly demoralized and cowed by that beastly Lacrosse woman . . . and the money pouring out like water. . . . Yes, she, Joyce, had seen it was her duty to take him back; and so she had. Because she still believed in the sanctity of marriage, in spite of everything. She hoped Martin did too? For if you didn't, what was there left to hold society together? But all the same, if one came to feel that by living with a man, even if he was one's husband, one was denying one's ideal: that was awful too, wasn't it? Didn't Martin think it was awful?

Yes, Martin supposed it was; but he rather thought a bunch of jolly children were a pretty good substitute for any old ideal he'd ever met. Mrs. Wheater laughed, with somewhat more of the old resonance, and said she thought so too, and that was what Judy had argued—no, Martin would never know how wonderful Judy had been during the ghastly days when Buondelmonte was dragging her, Joyce, through the mire, literally through the mire! "Why, there were things I couldn't tell even you, Martin——"

Martin felt his gorge rise. "Things I hope that Judy wasn't told, then?"

Mrs. Wheater's shoulder again slipped its light trammels in a careless shrug. "Bless you, you don't have to tell the modern child things! They seem to be born knowing them. Haven't you found that out, you dear old Rip Van Winkle? Why, Judy's like a mother to me, I assure you."

"She's got a pretty big family to mother, hasn't she?" Boyne rejoined, and Mrs. Wheater sighed contentedly: "Oh, but she loves it you know! It's her hobby. Why she tried to be a mother to Zinnia Lacrosse. . . . Fancy a child of Judy's age attempting to keep a movie star straight! She used to give good advice to Buondelmonte. . . . But that nightmare's over now, and we're all together again, and there's only Terry, poor darling, to worry about. I do worry about him, you know, Martin. And isn't it sweet of him to want to be properly educated? For Cliffe, of course, education has always just been college sports and racing-motors. That's one reason why I've missed so much. . . . but I am determined that Terry shall have all the opportunities I haven't had. This tutor I was speaking about, Gerald Ormerod—I wonder if you'd see him for me tomorrow, Martin? It's no use asking Cliffe—he'd just shout and brag and spoil the whole thing. Gerald—I've got to calling him Gerald because Fanny Tradeschi always did—he comes of very good people, you see, and he's almost too sensitive . . . too much of an idealist. . . . I can't tell you what it's been to me, these last weeks, to see Venice through the eyes of some one who really cares for beauty. . . . You'll have a talk with him about Terry, Martin, dear? I'm sure Cliffe would give any salary you advise—and it would be the saving of our poor Terry to be with some one really sensitive and cultivated . . . and Bun, too . . . he might put some sort of reason into Bun, who's beginning to get quite out of hand with Scopy. . . . And, Martin, don't forget, you can fix the salary as high as you like."

NATIONAL.

Next Monday, February 18, the National Theater Players begin their fifth successive season of repertoire with the comedy of marital affairs, "This Thing Called Love," from the pen of Edwin Burke.

With many of the old-line company in the roster, and a new leading lady and leading man—Miss Mary Newton and Wilfred Lytell—the National Theater Players are prepared for one of the longest seasons ever enjoyed by a local repertoire company. They are getting started practically in the midst of the regular theatrical season and hope to run through until the last part of September.

The play chosen as the opening vehicle is fashioned to captivate the fancy of all those who are married or whoever hope to be married. Edwin Burke, the author, was a writer of sure-fire one-act vaudeville sketches. In an experience that covered some twenty years in the theater, he found out how to epitomize comedy situations. In his first full length play, "This Thing Called Love." Mr. Burke has captured about as many funny things as the matrimonial market offers. He has contrasted one of the ordinary marriages with what might be called a companionate marriage, and shows the ludicrous side of both. His play was a sensation in New York and is still on its road tour, playing now in Chicago. The National Theater Players have the honor of being the first to play it as a stock production.

When the curtain goes up next Monday night in the National, such well-known favorites as Mrs. Adelaide Hubbard, Charles Hampden, Helen Wallace and others will be seen, along with these newcomers: Miss Nancy Baker, ingenue; and Freddy Sherman, juvenile.

POLI'S.

"Rose Marie," will be the attraction at Poli's Theater for an engagement of one week, commencing Sunday night, February 17.

Because of the heart interest of the story about the little French-Canadian girl who falls in love with a stalwart young miner falsely accused of murder, and because of the entrancing tunes, dances, sparkling comedy, and beautiful stage effects, "Rose Marie" seems foreordained to become one of the few melodious classics of the American stage.

Virginia Fox makes a perfect Rose Marie and captivates her audience. Playing opposite her in the part of Jim Kenyon, the lover, is Paul Donah, who is one of the finest tenors in musical comedy. Then there are Charles Meakins, who is ideal for the part of Sergt Malone, the dashing, swaggering non-commissioned officer of the Canadian Northwest mounted police. Houston Richards, the comedian, as "Hard-Boiled Herman," and that other funmaker, Peggy Pates, as Lady Jane, proprietress of a backwoods saloon. Mira Niraks, an acrobatic dancer of attractive looks and splendid ability, leads the famous "Totem Pole" dance.

BELASCO.

With Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield as guest stars, Charles Emerson Cook will revive "No, No, Nanette" at the Belasco Theater, beginning Sunday evening, February 17. There will be no advance in the regular stock prices. Mr. Lean and Miss Mayfield will be seen respectively as the philandering Jimmy and the extravagant Lucille—roles in which they scored personal triumphs for seven record-breaking months in Philadelphia, and in which they duplicated their enormous success in other large cities.

Robert Capron, comedian, who is winning new laurels this week in "Queen High," will play the lawyer-friend, Billy—a part in which he won acclaim in various large cities. Frank Gallagher is again cast as Tom, which he played over 300 times in one of the original "No, No, Nanette" touring companies. Beatrice Lee is coming back as Pauline, the comic cook—a role she played on Broadway in the Louise Groody Co. Rose Snowdown will again be Sue which she played in the Southern Touring Company of Nanette for two seasons.

So strong is the cast Mr. Cook has assembled to support the scintillating Mr. Lean and Miss Mayfield that even comparatively small, but vitally important roles will be played by his regular stars. Renee Hamilton will be Flora from Frisco; Thelma Parker will be Betty from Boston, and Gladys Huntington will be Winnie from Washington.

Last, but not least, Virginia Marvin, who made a great hit in the original Savoy production at the Belasco, is coming back to sing and dance Nanette.

STRAND.

Harry Strouse brings his brand new edition of ever popular "Frivolties" to the Strand Theater next week. The cast is headed by Bimbo Davis, outstanding comedian. "Tangara," whose dancing has fairly "burnt up" the mutual circuit, will be seen not only in her individual specialty, but in several appearances during the acts. Others contributing are Fred Neeley, eccentric comedian; Adeline Parks, soubrette; James Hall, straight man; Johnny Cook, juvenile, and Jean Fox, prima donna.

There will also be the usual Thursday night wrestling match.

ROSA PONSELLE, SOPRANO.

Rosa Ponselle, prima donna dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be heard in concert at Poli's Theater next Tuesday afternoon, February 19, at 4:30 o'clock, as the fourth attraction of Mrs. Wilson-Greene's philharmonic course of afternoon concerts. She will be assisted at the piano by Mr. Stuart Ross.

Miss Ponselle's program will open with Verdi's celebrated aria, "Pace, Pace mio dio" from "La Forza del Destino," and will include another Verdi aria, "Ah, Fors E Lui," from "La Traviata." Other songs on her program are by Caccini, Veracini, Wagner, Greig, Sadero, Winter Watts and others.

PLAY TOURNAMENT.

The District of Columbia One-Act Play Tournament, which opened Tuesday night, will be continued tonight, Friday, and Saturday nights of this week, and on February 19, 20 and 23, with finals on February 27. The plays tonight will be staged at East Washington Community Center, and will include "Thank You, Doctor," with the Playmakers of Thomson Center; "Icilon Parle Francais," with the McKinley High Alumni Dramatic Club; "The Lord's Prayer," with the Southeast Community Players, and "For All Time," with the Jabberwock Players, of the Western High Alumni Association.

Tomorrow night's plays, to be given at Columbia Heights Center, include "The Rector," with the Town Players; "The Failure," with the Newcomb Club, of Bethesda; "Wrong Numbers," with the Park View Dramatic Club, and "The Duchess Says Her Prayers," with the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs.

On Saturday night of this week the companies will play at Columbia Heights Center, when the program will present four plays—the Petworth Players, giving "Two Crooks and a Lady;" District of Columbia League of American Penwomen, giving "Strongtower;" Cleveland Park Players, giving "Will o' the Wisp," and the Jewish Community Players, giving "Box and Cox."

WARDMAN PARK.

A dance concert will be given by Evelyn Davis, dancer, and Mary Apple, contralto, on Sunday evening, February 24, at Wardman Park Theater at 8:30. Evelyn Davis is an interpreter of the new German technique of the dance that brought such striking stage pictures into the art of the theater, notably into the exquisite form of this dancing in the Salzburg Festival Theater of Max Reinhart. Evelyn Davis represents in America the work of Eugene von Grona. Her coming recital promises something unique, vital and dramatic in the dance.

Mary Apple will costar in a program of songs of Italy and Russia, in costume. She will also assist Miss Davis in setting the mood for some of the dances.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE BALLAD OF THE BACK-SEAT DRIVER.

(In the more than old-fashioned manner and reprinted by request).
(Copyright, 1929, by the Associated Newspapers).

'Twas at a crowded crossing—
Crowds hastened to the spot
Whence came a cry of anguish
And one loud pistol shot.
Inside an automobile
There lay a woman dead;
Beside it stood the driver
Who with emotion said:

CHORUS.

"I am the lady's husband:
Long years have we been wed.
I loved her very dearly
And shot her through the head.
I p'raps should not have killed her—
It is not right to slay—
But with these back-seat drivers
It is the only way!"

As crowds then swarmed about him
He knelt beside his wife
And said: "My sweet you forced me
To turn and take your life;
You gave too many orders
On each and ev'ry ride."
Then, summoning a copper,
He very softly cried:

CHORUS.

"They took him to the hoosegow
And threw him in a cell.
"If you'd kept still," he muttered,
"You'd be alive and well.
You'd always give directions
To stop or turn or go."
Then calling to the sergeant
He cried: "I'd have you know:"

CHORUS.

All night he lay and muttered:
"I'm very sorry, dear,
But, sweet, you drove me nutty
By shouting in my ear.
When I would take a north road
You'd say: 'The right road's south.'
Then to a chief detective
These words came from his mouth:

CHORUS.

To court he soon was taken,
Where, mopping up a tear,
He sobbed: "She drove me to it
By orders from the rear.
In most confusing traffic
She'd bellow what to do,
And as I told the others
"I also say to you:"

CHORUS.

"She'd tell me when to light up
And when to blow your horn,
And shriek 'your brakes are burning—
I know the bands are worn.'
She'd call me down for coasting
And criticize the way
I'd turn around in traffic——
And so, dear judge, I say:

CHORUS.

"On week-day or on Sunday
She'd tell me where to go,
And bawl me out for speeding
And squwak if I went slow.
She'd criticize the routes that
I'd pick to reach the shore;
She never kept her mouth shut—
And as I said before:"

CHORUS.

The judge and jury listened,
Then rose and set him free.
"Your act was justified," they Said, "We do agree.
We know how much you suffered,
How tortured was your mind
Each time you took her driving,
And this is what we find:

CHORUS.

"You were the lady's husband!
Long years ago you wed.
You loved her very dearly,
And shot her through the head.
You p'raps should not have killed her—
It is not right to slay—
But with these back-seat drivers

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

It seems hardly worth while to lash one's self into any frenzy of anticipation over the announcement from the executive offices of the Fox Films Corporation that Dorothy Burgess, the strikingly competent feminine lead in "In Old Arizona," has been placed under a long-term contract, insuring her future appearance in film plays stamped with the Fox label. That has been done before and nothing happened.

I have in mind particularly the strange case of Marjorie Beebe. Or perhaps it is not strange at all and she has only been on vacation, or something. At any rate, much ballyhoo was smoked up a few months ago over the likely prospects of this lively young woman. Miss Beebe was heralded—and not by any means without reason—as one of the comedy finds of all time in the cinema. She was cast in secondary roles on several occasions with Madge Bellamy as a sort of preparatory course, it was bruited about, for immediate individual stardom. And that was the last any of us ever heard of the probable eventuation in the case of this ebullient and unconventional young comedienne.

Although I shudder at the thought, the same thing might easily happen to Miss Burgess. Then where will your dialect, half-caste—but not half cast—character parts be—or can she play others?

It seems strange that the screen debut of so prominent an artiste should have been so delayed, but I am led to believe that Fannie Brice's appearance in the Warner Brothers' talking picture, "My Man," scheduled for next week at the Metropolitan, will be her first in the picture houses.

While circumstances prevented my attendance at the preview performance given in compliment to an invited audience a few weeks ago, I have seen enough in the advance talking trailer, on view at the Met, to have a pretty definite notion of Miss Brice's capability in the new medium. I fail to perceive wherein the cameras and the microphones have deprived her of any of the effectiveness that has so long and unfallingly been hers on the stage. Miss Brice promises to be very amusing in "My Man," and certainly there has never been any one who can sing the song of that name so well as she does it.

And the title recently manifested quite an influence on her private concerns, too, come to think of it.

Speaking of marriages, as that last line was, it is brought to my knowledge that George Fleming, lieutenant in the Fox Theater's semimilitary floor staff, stepped out quietly about ten days ago and was joined in the holy bonds of matrimony with Miss Winifred Hallaman, an employe of the Washington Loan & Trust Co. I trust "Winifred" is correct, but since the name of the bride was communicated to me only as "Winnie," I can not be too positive about it. I can, however, about the fact that there has been a tremendous amount of congratulatory handshaking around the Fox lately.

Or, as Frank Orth says in his Vitaphone skit, "Meet the Wife," at the Earle this week, when he learns that his pal has just gone off the deep end: "Well, well, so you're married, eh? Conglomerations!"

The articulate screen, it seems, is going to be an inestimable aid in drawing some of silent drama's most diffident—or so it appeared—ingenues out of their modest reticence into the noisy ranks of the regular fellows.

You'd never guess it, but in support of Clark and McCullough in their Movietone musical revuelet, "The Belle of Samoa," at the Fox next week, is none other than that shrinking violet and epitome of maidenly discretion, Lois Moran.

Miss Moran, according to all reports, slithers about in a South Sea costume and puts over a song and exotic dance that may be confidently relied upon to bowl the customers right off their camp stools. No, I don't much believe it either, but I certainly plan to watch!

As long as so much has been inkled about next week's prospective diversions in the temples of the tintypes, the complete roster of bookings might just as well as not be set down or you will have nothing to paste in your hat:

Palace, Greta Garbo and Lewis Stone in "Wild Orchids;" Metropolitan, Fannie Brice in "My Man;" Fox, Victor McLaglen in "Captain Lash;" Columbia, Dolores Del Rio in "The Trail of '98," and Earle, Johnny Mack Brown and Jeanette Loff in "Annapolis."

Nice list.

Cheer up! Except for 39 days, Lent is all over!

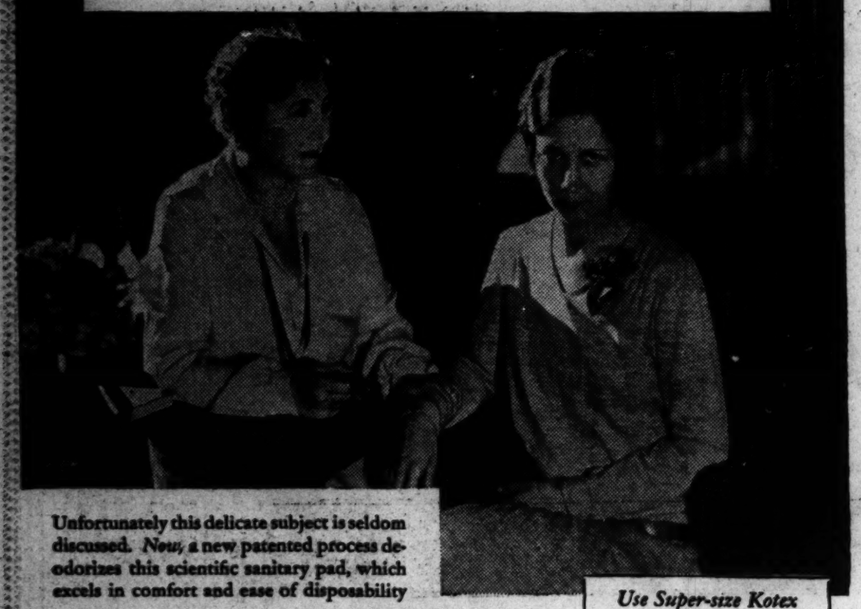
"A delicate subject —but these girls must be told"

—a dean of women says in discussing this phase of modern feminine hygiene



Unfortunately this delicate subject is seldom discussed. Now, a new patented process deodorizes this scientific sanitary pad, which excels in comfort and ease of disposability

EVEN among girls who are very frank with each other, there is a question of daintiness, of fastidious personal care, that is unfortunately seldom mentioned. Yet many women are unconsciously guilty. At certain times they are seriously offensive to others. With realization comes constant worry.

Today these fears are ended. Science has discovered a way to counteract this offense.

*Kotex now completely deodorizes

Kotex has brought a new idea of feminine hygiene to women all over the world. In the past ten years they have learned new comfort, new ease of mind through this scientifically designed sanitary protection.

Now, after years of work, a process has been perfected that completely ends all odors. In Kotex laboratories the one remaining problem in connection with sanitary pads is solved.

Shaped to fit, too

Because corners of the pad are rounded and tapered, it may be worn without evidence under the most clinging gown. There is none of that conspicuous bulkiness so often associated with old-fashioned methods. You can adjust the filler. Cellucotton absorbent wadding takes up 16 times its weight in moisture, 5 times more absorbent than cotton itself. It is easily disposed of, no laundering is necessary. A new process makes it softer than ever before.

Buy a box today... 45c for a box of twelve. On sale at all drug, dry goods and department stores; also through vending cabinets in rest-rooms by West Disinfecting Co.

Use Super-size Kotex
Formerly 90c—Now 65c
Super-size Kotex differs from Regular Kotex only in giving the extra protection of additional layers of Cellucotton absorbent wadding. The advantages in using it in connection with the Regular are thus obvious. Disposable the same way. Doctors and nurses consider it indispensable where extra protection is needed. At the new low price, you can easily afford to buy one box of Super-size to every three of Kotex Regular. Its extra layers of filler mean much in added comfort and security.

*Kotex is the only sanitary pad that deodorizes by patented process. (Patent No. 1,670,587.)

FOOD, FUEL NEEDED AS EUROPE SHIVERS

Governments Calling on One Another for Help to Fight Ravages of Weather.

GULF STREAM IS BLAMED

London, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Europe, which has been congealing for a week under a cold wave of greater intensity than some sections had known for 200 years, began today to feel the full effects of the Arctic visitation. Coal and food have become the crying needs of some countries, while the governments of others were trying to find means of halting threatened shortages in these necessaries of life.

All of Europe, except Spain and the southerly portions of the Italian and Balkan peninsulas, have been affected by the weather. Death has come to whole groups in the Balkan states, influenza has increased in intensity and many communities face semistarvation because of the stoppage of food supplies.

At the other end of the continent, in the far north of the Scandinavian peninsula, temperatures have been above normal. There is, however, the usual amount of winter in those regions.

Gulf Stream Warmer.

Swedish meteorologists, said a report from Stockholm, believe that the unprecedented cold has been caused by higher temperatures in the gulf stream. They have heard that these have been 8 degrees centigrade more than usual and they think this has interrupted the regular atmospheric pressure fields. The result has been high barometer records over central Europe accompanied by constant easterly winds bringing extreme cold.

Even the Scandinavian countries, equipped for fighting the effects of frost, have found their transportation facilities strained by the unprecedented conditions in the Baltic and the straits leading to that sea. Northern German ports are having difficulty in keeping entrance lanes open and fuel has become the need of the north, just as in the less hardened countries of the south.

Ice-Breakers Wanted.

Government's are calling on one another for aid. Austria's envoys made personal appeals to the executives of Poland and Czechoslovakia for coal while Sweden and Germany asked Finland for the loan of ice-breakers with which to fight the frost king's attack on their seaways.

England has had an appreciable cold snap, but has escaped most of the ills that have been visited by the weather upon the continent. The most noticeable effect has been upon sports, especially dog racing and cross-country horse racing events. Several of these contests have been postponed. The National Skating Association, however, is going ahead with an uninterrupted program.

King George's Condition Continues Satisfactory

Bognor, Sussex, England, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—King George was stated to have had another good day at Craigwell House, where his condition continued satisfactory. The weather was bitterly cold, just as in the rest of England, and there was very little sunshine.

Lord Dawson of Penn has not visited the patient for the last few days, but Dr. Frank Howitt and Dr. Robert Woods came down this afternoon and resumed administration of ray therapy, which had been suspended recently. Queen Mary remained in Craigwell House all day, but hoped to pay a visit to London next week.

Marshal Foch Faces Long Uphill Struggle

Paris, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Marshal Foch's condition was satisfactory today, although a long uphill fight still remains.

The marshal again had picked up the improvement which he lost several days ago when he passed a bad night.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Typical business expenses of a mercantile establishment which are deductible in a return of income are amounts paid for advertising, hire of clerks and other employes, rent, light, heat, water, telephone, property insurance and delivery expenses. The expenses of a manufacturing business include labor, raw materials, supplies, repairs, light and heat, power, selling costs, administration and other similar charges.

A professional man, such as a lawyer, doctor, architect, dentist, &c., may deduct the cost of supplies used in his practice, expenses paid in the operation and repair of an automobile used in making professional calls, dues to professional societies, subscriptions to professional journals, office rent, cost of light, fuel, water and telephone used in his office, and the hire of office assistants.

The farmer may deduct all amounts paid in the production, harvesting and marketing of crops, including labor, cost of seed and fertilizer used, cost of minor repairs to farm buildings (other than his dwelling), and small tools used up in the course of a year or two.

Experts on New Radio Commission

Jansky and Batcheller, Named by Coolidge, Are Well-Known Engineers, Whom Board Heretofore Has Felt Need Of.

No longer will the Federal Radio Commission be subjected to the criticism that it does not include among its members strictly technical radio men if C. M. Jansky, professor of radio at the University of Minnesota, and Arthur Batcheller, Federal radio supervisor in New York City, the two new nominees to the commission are confirmed. Prof. Jansky and Mr. Batcheller are among the best known radio engineers of the country. The former's term is to be six years and the latter's three.

Mr. Batcheller, who is 41 years old, is the second of the radio supervisors to be elevated to a commissionership, the other one having been the late Col. John F. Dillon, Federal radio supervisor at San Francisco. He is a rather serious individual with definite opinions and according to one of the officials of the commission, "knows his district better than any living man." Batcheller, tells them the facts as they are and they like it.

Mr. Batcheller was born at Wellesley, Mass. He was instructor for four years in radio and electricity at the Boston School of Telegraphy. Mr. Batcheller was assistant to the electrical engineer in charge of installation and maintenance of railroad electric signal system for the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Railroad for four years. From 1915 to 1916 he was employed as chief electrician for the Eastern Steamship Corporation at Boston, and from 1917 to 1919 he was U. S. radio inspector in charge of the New England district. In 1919 he became associate partner and founder of the Massachusetts Radio Telegraph School. Mr. Batcheller accepted an appointment as radio inspector in charge of the second radio district in 1920, with headquarters in New York.

When Sam Pickard resigned he remarked, having in mind evidently some of those broadcasters who gave him trouble, "I hope my successor is hard boiled and bites their tails off close." Prof. Jansky, however, is soft spoken, is of medium height, heavy build, florid face, wears eyeglasses, and is more of the professional type. He is about 45 years old and was born in Delton, Mich.

Prof. Jansky was graduated from the University of Wisconsin and was in charge of the University of Minnesota broadcasting station. He was a member of all four of the Hoover radio conferences during the administration of the radio law by the Department of Commerce. He is also a member of the Institute of Radio Engineers and the board of directors of the American Radio Relay League.

In renaming the old commissioners, President Coolidge appointed Judge E. O. Sykes for five years, Mr. Lafount for four years, and Judge Robinson for three years.

There is an impression when the Federal Radio Commission reorganizes itself next week that Commissioner Harold A. Lafount, of Utah, may be the next chairman. "At least, there is an impression that he can have the position if he wants it.

Prof. Jansky will take up his new duties at once inasmuch as Mr. Pickard's resignation was effective February 1. However, Mr. Batcheller will not begin until February 23, when the terms of all the commissioners expire.

BRISK SELLING ENDS CONFUSED DEALINGS

Market Displays Concern Over Reserve Board; Most Early Gains Lost.

COPPERS RECEDE LATE

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The stock market was pushed about in confusing fashion by frequent shifts of speculative sentiment today. The market displayed considerable buoyancy at times, but heavy selling in the last few minutes of trading left prices highly irregular.

The failure of the directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, at their special meeting on Monday, to announce any definite action to curtail the use of credit, brought a heavy accumulation of buying orders over the holiday, which carried prices up sharply during the morning. Some unusually bearish commission houses' advices brought considerable selling into the market around midday, but the upward movement was resumed in the afternoon, as call money returned to 6 per cent, having opened at 7½.

Traders displayed uneasiness about the regular Federal Reserve meeting tomorrow. Although brokers' loans are expected to show a substantial reduction, some definite action to restrict credit available for speculation is still expected. Fears are not generally felt over the rediscount rate, as an increase here would nullify the action in London last week. Time money continued firm, and dealers' buying rates for bankers' acceptances were increased one-eighth of 1 per cent, which was interpreted in some quarters as indicating that the reserve bank is tightening credit by lightening its holdings of bills.

Day's News Favorable.

Trade and business news was favorable. Iron Age said production is sustained, following January records in both pig iron and steel output, and prices of rolled steel are gaining in strength. Iron Trade Review said the February Steel-making rate indicates another monthly record and brings within reach the highest daily ingot rate in history.

After the close of the market, directors of Wesson Oil and Snowdrift declared a 100 per cent stock dividend.

Coppers were outstanding in group strength, about ten issues reaching new high levels, but they encountered heavy profit taking at the close. Buying of this group was stimulated by talk in the trade of still higher prices for the red metal, and announcement that January shipments reached a record volume. Anaconda and Kennecott mounted about 3 and 6 points to new peaks, but lost much of their gains. Greene Cananea moved up about 3 points, then fell back 7.

Some Gains Retained.

American and Foreign Power and American Railway Express, mounted about 11 and 6 points to new tops, and retained most of their gains. Johns Manville moved up 8 points, and reacted 11. Radio mounted 8 points, and fell back 10; Wright Aero jumped 11 points and closed practically unchanged.

U. S. Steel sold up to 180, and closed at 178¾, off about a point. Motors were mostly heavy, Chrysler losing nearly 3 points. American Tobacco B, Canadian Pacific, General Electric, Goodyear, and Pere Marquette were among issues losing 3 to 5 points.

The commodity markets were firm, with the notable exception of sugar, refined prices dropping 1-5 of a cent to 4.90 cents a pound, the lowest in nearly 3 years. Cotton improved in expectation of a good consumption port, due tomorrow, but encountered realizing toward the close. Wheat sold up about 3 cents in active buying for Europe, and corn was firm.

The foreign exchanges were irregular. Sterling was somewhat firmed during most of the day, the demand rate again getting above $4.85, but the Canadian dollar fell to 99.70 5-16 cents, the lowest in about five weeks.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—In a sudden rush of wheat today the market ran up fast 3¾c a bushel, outdoing all of this season's previous topmost records. Export business in wheat from North America was unusually large, nearly 1,500,000 bushels, and increased anxiety prevailed regarding widespread unfavorable crop conditions in central Europe and India as well as large sections of domestic winter wheat territory.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong at virtually the day's highest level, showing 2¾c to 3¾c net advance. Corn finished 1¼c to 1¾c up, oats ¾c to 1c gain, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 22c.

In addition to free buying of wheat for immediate shipment to Europe, much of today's purchasing of Chicago wheat future deliveries was credited to transatlantic sources. Reports at hand indicated almost unprecedented adverse weather conditions in Europe, and the stimulating effect of these reports was given added impetus by official and private advices telling of continued ground frost apprehension about domestic winter wheat prospects, especially in parts of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska. Abnormal cold in Europe, however, was the chief incentive for the slampede which ensued to the buying side of the market.

Aside from the optimistic crop reports, much notice was taken of authoritative estimates pointing to huge consumption of wheat the world over and apparently giving promise of wiping out excess supplies much sooner than in general has been expected. It was figured that so far this season Europe alone has taken more than 240,000,000 bushels above the total a year ago, and that non-European countries have absorbed more than 320,000,000 bushels of the corresponding amount last year. Under such circumstances, wheat offerings here today were relatively scarce from the start to finish, and for the most part appeared to be confined to traders who were in a position to realize a profit. Late announcement of 3,000,000 bushels increase of the world's available supply in the last week was practically ignored and so, too, was word that Kansas City had sold 100,000 bushels of wheat today to be moved to Chicago.

Corn, rye and oats moved up in price with wheat. Corn shipping demand also was more active, and France was said to have become a buyer of corn.

Provisions were responsive to strength shown by hog values and to reports of liberal consumption of cotton oil.

BONDS' EARLY GAINS TURNED TO LOSSES

Secondary Rails Alone Show Improvement; Anaconda 7s React From New Top.

FOREIGN LIST IRREGULAR

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The bond market, after an early display of strength, today turned reactionary as selling broke out in the stock market and the early gains were either reduced or turned to losses.

The secondary rails were the only group to show improvement at the end of the day. There was little change in the credit situation, and call money was easier. Trading was fairly active in the speculative issues and sales totaled $10,896,000 compared to $12,081,000 Monday.

Anaconda Copper 7s ran up to a new peak at 209½ in sympathy with strength in the stocks and predictions of further advances in the red metal, but under the afternoon selling wave the issue closed at 205⅞, with a net gain of 1⅞. The 6s eased fractionally. Tennessee Copper & Chemical 6s advanced 2 points.

Declines in raw and refined sugar to the lowest levels in several years carried the sugar bonds down. Cuba cane sugar debenture 8s and convertible 6s each yielded a point, touching new low ground. The cement issues were strong. International Cement 5s advancing 1⅜ and Penn Dixie 6s a point. Alleghany Corporation 5s were firm at 104, but American International 5½s closed fractionally lower.

Utilities closed generally lower, Kings County Electric Light 6s dropping 1½ points to a new low. Utilities Power & Light 5½s sold down 1½ points and North American Edison 5s were soft. International Telephone convertible 4½s, however, closed fractionally higher at 115¼ after touching 117 in the early trading.

Rails were irregular. Atchison issues were strong and St. Paul adjustment 5s finished fractionally higher. Weak spots were Chicago & Northwestern 6½s off 6¾ points; Minneapolis & St. Louis refunding 4s and Nickel Plate 5½s A.

Price trends in the foreign list were irregular. Pirelli 7s advanced a point. Associated Gas & Electric bonds were strong in the curb market in sympathy with the stocks. Western Power 5½s closed 9½ points higher.

United States Government obligations were irregular.

Pitchers and Catchers Start Preliminary Work Monday.

VALEN (BUCKY) O'NEILL, former baseball and football star at the Hilltop and at present a member of the freshman football coaching staff, will coach the Georgetown University varsity baseball team this spring. The appointment was made yesterday by Director of Athletics Lou Little.

O'Neill replaces Larry Kopf, former major league infielder, who handled the Blue and Gray diamond team last year. The new mentor performed at third base, second base and in the outfield during a three-year career as a regular. He graduated last June, but remained in Washington to take a postgraduate course.

A difficult problem will face O'Neill at the outset. He will have to develop an entire new staff of pitchers, not one of the 1928 regulars now being on hand. Pete Burch, Frank Gillespie, Jerry Hughes, Tom Fogarty and Charles Holmes, who carried the hurling burden last spring, have all either graduated or left school.

New Coach Calls Out Battery Candidates Next Monday.

O'Neill will commence work with his charges next Monday afternoon when battery candidates will report for a workout in Ryan Gymnasium. Until the weather becomes less chilly the G. U. diamond preparations will be restricted to lobbing the ball about in the gymnasium.

While he will be handicapped in the pitching department, O'Neill will not suffer for want of capable catchers. Three of the 1928 backstops, who divided the season's work about evenly, will report Monday. They are Tom Donovan, Paul Phelan and Jack Tierney. Tierney may be excused temporarily in order that he may finish out th eboxing campaign. He is a light-heavyweight.

C. U. to Play Loyola In Baltimore Tonight

Catholic University Basketers play their first game of the season away from home tonight when they engage the Loyola College Five in the latter's gymnasium in Baltimore. In a previous meeting here the Orioles won handily.

Loyola has lost but one game this season, Fordham's great quintet having halted the Evergreen boys' seven-game winning streak last week. On the basis of past performances, Catholic will not get back into the win column at Loyola's expense, unless one of those miracles which are not at all impossible in college athletics happens.

As usual of late, Coach Fred Rice will start Bill Reilly and Jim Hanley, forwards; Capt. Tut Amann, center, and Joe Walsh and Jerry Mullaney, guards.

Mrs. Mallory Prepares For Wimbledon Play

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory is not yet ready to sheathe her once irresistible racket, although the United States Lawn Tennis Association last week ranked her lower than the first three for the first time since she reached the heights 14 years ago.

For several weeks the eight-time champion has been working out regularly on the Heights Casino indoor courts in Brooklyn, and about the middle of May she expects to sail for Europe to play for the English championship at Wimbledon, June 24.

G.U. TO START GRID DRILLS MONDAY

Little Issues Call for Linemen; Squad of 50 Expected.

UPWARD of 50 candidates for the 1929 eleven are expected to be working out in spring football practice at Georgetown University before the close of next week. Head Coach Lou Little has ordered all linemen to report at Ryan Gymnasium Monday afternoon and will call out the backs probably on Thursday.

From the outset Little will make a vigilant search for replacements for the losses in the first-string varsity team of 1928 which will be incurred by graduations. Not the least of his prospects will be the large squad of freshmen. The yearlings, who will be varsity eligibles next fall, will strive alongside the varsity holdovers to win the berths which will be vacated by Ralph Duplin and Bobby Dwyer, backs, and Capt. Jerry Carroll, guard, and John Tomaini, end.

Prospective varsity timber in Coach Dudack's 1928 freshmen squad include the following: Ends, Brennan, Leavey, Pozzo and Parlette; tackles, Brickman, Anderson, Pendergast and Dyer; guards, Dubofsky, Gannon, Dallolio, Doherty and Cappola; centers, Trembley, McManus and Bandzul; backs, E. Bozek, Gillis, Lee, Bordeau, Hornyack, Dineen, King, Heffron, Danieu.

Returning members of the varsity squad will be Captain-elect Mooney and Liston, tackles; Provincial, end; Cordovano, Driscoll and Walsh, guards; Wynkoop and Morris, centers; Gardiner, Scalzi, Hannigan, Hudak, Williams, McHugh, J. Bozek and Barabas, backs.

Turner, Peters Meet Tonight on Strand Mat

What promises to be a red-hot wrestling match is booked to follow the regular performance at the Strand Theater tonight when Joe Turner and Cyclone Peters swap holds in best two out of three falls.

Peters came here some time ago as a hooded marvel and downed Turner, but the local wrestler gained the third fall for the decision in their next meeting, unhooding Peters at the same time. The latter claimed that the hood interfered with his work and so Turner gave him tonight's comeback chance.

Almost the Naked Truth

By JAMES S. COLLINS

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Messrs. Farley, Muldoon and Brower, of the New York State Athletic Commission, did a commendable day's work today in upholding the contractural rights of Arthur Bulow, Max Schmeling's German manager, against encroachments by American managers. Lawyers for Bulow and Joe Jacobs, in whose favor Schmeling attempted to drop his German pilot, were "advised" by the commission to "get together and adjust these difficulties," which was a euphemistic way of telling Mr. Jacobs that if he wanted Schmeling he would have to buy him from Herr Bulow. The latter was beginning to believe that he was being given "the works" here and a lot of natives agreed with him. By thus protecting a stranger within our gates the commission did much to enhance its prestige, which has seemed rather wilted lately.

The commission's further dicta that all assignments of interests in a boxer's or manager's earnings must be covered by contracts approved by the commission and that no foreign boxer will be permitted to engage an American manager unless the commission approves the selection were well-meant, but it remains to be seen how they work out.

Parties Likely to Use Commission As Collection Agency.

Outsiders will continue to take their "cuts" out of the earnings of various boxers, with all hands ignoring the rule that such arrangements be filed with the commission. The only disadvantage that is likely to accrue to any party to such an unsanctioned arrangement is inability to use the commission as a collection agency. Then, too, they know that a private contract is a contract in court whether Messrs. Farley, Muldoon and Brower ever heard of it or not. As for the rule requiring a foreigner to engage a manager approved by the commission, it opens wide the door to favoritism on the part of the commission. Only recently one member suggested a certain manager as a sort of receiver in the Schmeling case. The manager he named is cabable and reputable, but no more so than many others who do not happen to be so chummy with the commissioners.

Commission Members Will Eat Even If Schmeling Starves.

Schmeling left the commission chambers in high dudgeon, unable to understand why he is not allowed to discard and select managers at will, irrespective of contracts. His final word was that rather than bow to the commis-

C. U. BOXERS IN DEBUT TONIGHT

Cardinals to Entertain Unbeaten Temple College Team.

COACH TEDDY MITCHELL will trot out his Catholic University Boxers for their first public appearance of 1929 tonight in the Brookland Gymnasium in a match with the unbeaten Temple University Mittmen from Philadelphia. The first bout will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Although he has been hampered this year by a dearth of material, Mitchell has developed about the best ring team in Catholic U. athletic annals. Among the seven Cardinals who will compete tonight is a potential intercollegiate champion, Jack Malevitch, all-around star of the school, who will fight in the heavyweight class.

Malevitch's Bout With Hansen Promises Feature of Card.

Malevitch's bout with Swede Hansen, of Temple, will be the piece de resistance of the program. Hansen last year was runner-up to Galahad Grant, of New York University, intercollegiate heavyweight champion.

Temple is bringing here a crew of hard punchers. Four of its representatives boast of knockout victories in their two previous meets with Manhattan College and Pennsylvania Military Institute.

Admission to Bout by Student Athletic Passbook Only.

Admission to the bouts will be by invitation or student athletic pass book only. The athletic passes are procurable by the public. The book sells for $5 and entitles the owner to admission to all of the Catholic's boxing, swimming and track meets as well as all basketball and baseball games for the remainder of this academic year.

The presence of members of Congress will lend dignity to the occasion. Invitation to be present as honorary judges have been sent to Senator David I. Walsh and Edwin P. Thayer, secretary of the Senate, and Representative Ralph E. Updike.

The program follows:

115 pounds—Ed Cuden (T) vs. John de Pasquale (C).

125 pounds—Hyman Gribbon (T) vs. Harry Di Giacomo (C).

135 pounds—Beadle or Block (T) vs. Mickey Maguire (C).

147 pounds—Ed Kutcher (T) vs. Rocco Blasi (C).

160 pounds—Bernard Murphy (T) vs. Frank Fulam (C).

175 pounds—Joe Brown (T) vs. Ed Campbell (C).

Unlimited—Swede Hansen (T) vs. Jack Malevitch (C).

Bulow Upheld as Manager Of Schmeling by Commission

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—The New York State Athletic Commission laid a heavy hand on the shoulder of Max Schmeling today, deciding that he must be bound by contracts made by his German manager, Arthur Bulow, whom he is seeking to repudiate and by no other.

At the same time the commission passed a brace of rules designed to prevent future controversies of similar nature by curbing the activities of American managers who swarm about visiting heavyweights of promise and checking the custom of assigning "pieces" of fighters to speculators in cauliflowers.

In the specific case of "the German Dempsey," the commission announced that neither Schmeling himself nor Joe Jacobs, whom the fighter wants as his manager and who holds 7 per cent of his contract, will be permitted to make his matches, that power belonging to Bulow alone.

German Must Fight for McMahon Ring Committee Rules.

Under this ruling Schmeling must abide by a contract signed yesterday by Bulow under which the German is to fight for Jess McMahon, former Madison Square Garden matchmaker, at the new Starlight Arena on his return from Germany, probably some time in April.

Seeking to remedy the situation which caused the controversy, the commission ruled first that all contracts between boxers and managers must be placed on file with the commision for

Schmeling Threatens To Idle for 18 Months

New York, Feb. 13 (United Press). Max Schmeling, German heavyweight sensation, today declared he would prefer hanging up his gloves for eighteen months than fight under the direction of Max Bulow, German newspaper man, who accompanied him to this country as his manager.

The contract Bulow holds with the dark-haired title contender will expire at the end of eighteen months and Schmeling's lengthy statement issued today is considered an ultimatum.

In the statement issued today, Schmeling accused Bulow of being incompetent to handle his affairs and stated a number of cases in support of his contention.

He concluded the statement with the threat to retire, but it is considered likely that he will make every effort to have the contract with Bulow voided on his return to Germany He sailed Saturday for Europe on the S. S. Deutschland, accompanied by Jacobs, for a two months' visit.

Dempsey May Pick Miami Referee

To Name Third Man If Managers Disagree Tomorrow.

City Is Preparing for Crowd; Rivals in Long Drills.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 13 (A. P.).—The question of the third man in the ring when Jack Sharkey, the Boston gob, and Young Stribling, pride of Georgia, mix it here February 27, probably will be decided Friday.

This was the gist of an announcement today following a conference between Jack Dempsey, the promoter, representing the Madison Square Garden Corporation; "Pa" Stribling, who manages his son; Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, and members of Miami Beach American Legion Post's athletic committee, sponsors of the bout.

Names of the possible referees acceptable to both fighters will be discussed at the Friday conference which Dempsey will not attend, and if one is not agreed upon, the promoter will then name the man to referee the bout which is the first of a series of heavyweight elimination contests for the selection of a champion to ascend the throne left vacant by Gene Tunney's retirement.

25,000 Visitors Are Expected By Miami Officials.

While the conference regarding a referee was in session, civic officials and the Chamber of Commerce representatives of the great Miami area were in executive session planning to care for the 25,000 or more visitors expected to attend the fight.

Many are expected to remain aboard Pullmans but plans are being made to list every available room for the hundreds who will want such accommodation. Managers of apartment buildings, rooming houses and owners of private homes are being canvassed to arrange for the influx.

Sharkey stepped his road work today to 4½ miles around the Miami Kennel Club's track instead of 3 miles taken heretofore and went through other routine workouts.

Stribling cut his road work down, but added to his other work in preparation for the biggest fight of his career. The Georgian said he believed too much road work would cut his weight too sharply.

Whelan, Injured, Lost To G. U. Relay Team

Dame Fortune continues to sing "I can't give you anything but breaks—all bad" to the Georgetown University Track Team. The old girl's latest frown accompanied the injury to Ray Whelan, of the 1-mile relay team, who fell to the track while running Saturday night in the Millrose meet in New York City. He will be on the sidelines for a week, possibly ten days.

His loss may hurt Georgetown's chances for retaining its 1928 laurels in the Sammy Reid Memorial 1-mile relay race Saturday night in the Crescent A. C games in Brooklyn. New York U., winner over the Hoya Quartet in an earlier meet, and Colgate and Syracuse will give Georgetown opposition in the approaching race. Last year Coach O'Reilly's lads won the Crescent feature event and with it the first Sammy Reid Trophy for permanent possession.

Leary and Byrnes Lost To Georgetown Quintet

Ed Leary and Jack Byrnes, forward and guard, have been lost to the Georgetown University Basket Ball squad for the remainder of the season, due to ineligibility. Both failed in scholastic work recently.

Coach Ripley is pointing his players for the engagement Saturday afternoon with the crack West Virginia University quintet. The Mountaineers are touring this vicinity this week and will wind up here. They have lost only two games this season.

Schaefer Defeats Cochran For World's 18.2 Cue Title

Coast Star Defeated, 400-328, After Gallant Rally.

JAKE SCHAEFER.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Jake Schaefer, Chicago star, beat back the courageous rally of Welker Cochran, former champion, tonight to regain his 18.2 balkline billiard crown in the final match of the international series. Schaefer, tournament victor in 1921 and 1925, won 400 to 328.

The match was a brilliant display of billiards, marked by close defensive play, and Cochran's daring in the closing innings. The Irishman from California, who won the tournament in 1927, fought off the ill-fortune of two fouls within three innings in the midst of fine runs, and came from behind to threaten Schaefer with the score, 339 to 163, against him in the seventh turn.

Almost snowed under by Schaefer's high run of 169 in the sixth inning, Cochran made one difficult shot after another in the eighth and ninth innings, gathering the balls after brilliant shots only to see them slip away from him again.

Cochran Runs Clusters of 82 and 81 In Brilliant Rally.

He managed to run up clusters of 82 and 81 for his high run in three turns and cut Schaefer's lead to 345 to 326. The Chicago ace found his stride again in the eleventh, however, and ran out the match with an unfinished string of 55.

The inning scores:

Schaefer 0 96 2 35 2 169 35 0 6 9 55—499

Cochran 5 2 22 1 74 29 30 82 81 0 2—328

High runs—Schaefer, 169; Cochran, 82.

Averages—Schaefer, 36 4-11; Cochran, 29 9-11.

Schaefer's victory gave him a record of four wins and one defeat in the tournament that opened with a field of six at the Level Club, February 4. Schaefer has held the title five times in all, he won it back in a challenge match from Edouard Horemans, after losing to the Belgian champion in 1925, and defeated Cochran in another challenge match in 1928 following the Californians tournament victory in 1927.

Eric Hageniacher, of Germany, who finished in third place, alone, defeated Schaefer during the week, Cochran's previous defeat was inflicted by Horemans, who tied with Cochran for second place in the standing. Title victory carried with it a cash prize of $2,000 and a one year contract for $6,000 to represent a firm manufacturing billiard tables.

The two American Stars, after distancing four European rivals in over a week of play, stroked carefully, both in top form. Schaefer took advantage of Cochran's daring in the second inning and ran off 96 from the close cluster the Californian left after missing a difficult three-cushion shot.

Schaefer made his ninety-sixth carom in the run with a "jump" shot, rarely seen in title billiards. The cue ball hurdled the first object ball to strike the second. Cochran ran 22 in the third inning.

Carelessly confident, Schaefer clicked off a string of 35 in the fourth inning and then cut loose in the sixth with a run that passed 150, while still in full flight. He made the most difficult and the simplest with the same ease.

Cochran missed a grand opportunity in the fifth inning when he fouled by touching a ball with his coat after a run of 74.

A cluster of 29, in the sixth brought his total to 133. Before Schaefer started his grand march he led 135 to 123.

Schaefer missed a long cross table shot with the same ease that he had made a dozen more difficult shots in the run and the string ended at 169. He led Cochran 304 to 133 at the end of the sixth.

Coast Star Losses Fine Chance To Tie by Fouling.

Cochran lost another fine chance to even matters in the seventh by fouling for the second time after reaching 30 in fine position. This time he touched a ball in motion with his cue. He came back to cluster 82 for his high run in the eighth and trailed Schaefer there 345 to 339.

A crowd of 1,000 cheered Cochran steadily as he rallied gamely, building up his string in the ninth inning to 81 with one bitter shot after another. Schaefer counted only six in the ninth and led 345 to 326.

Both failed to score in the tenth, and after Cochran failed at two in the eleventh, Schaefer ran out the match with an unfinished string of 55.

Third Base Is Weak Spot Of 12 Major League Clubs

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The major league manager is lucky who can say, "I do not have to worry about third base this season."

John McGraw, Burt Shotton, Lan Blackburne and Walter Johnson are the only four managers who will not have to bother about the hot corner. The other twelve managers have a third base problem on their hands.

When you've named Freddy Lindstrom, of the Giants; Pinky Whitney, of the Phillies; Willis Kamm, of the White Sox, and Buddy Myer, of Washington, there are no other full-fledged star third basemen left. Pie Traynor, of the Pirates, of course, would fall in the above group, but he will be shifted to shortstop this season.

Oddly enough, three of the four star third sackers are youngsters. Lindstrom, who is recognized as the best all-round third baseman in the majors, is only 23. Whitney, who broke in with the Phillies last season, is but 22. He has all the indications of developing into one of the game's greatest infielders. He played a remarkable game last season for a cellar club, fielding steadily and driving in 100 runs, ten more than Paul Waner, second batsman in the league, and three less than Hornsby, the league's leading batsman.

Yanks and Macks Hope to Solve Problems by Infield Shifts.

Myer, for whom Washington gave five players to the Red Sox, is 24. Washington already had a fine third baseman in Ossie Bluege, but the shifting of Bluege to shortstop left a gap at third base which Myer is expected to fill.

Kamm, who led the regular third basemen of the American League in fielding last season with an average of .977, has been recognized as a star for several seasons. He went through 74 consecutive games at one time last season without an error. Myer was second with a fielding mark of .969.

The Yankees and Indians will make shifts in an attempt to solve their third-base problems. The world champions will move Mark Koenig over to third and try Lyn Lary, the high-priced Oakland recruit, at shortstop. Roger Peckinpaugh will switch Joe Sewell, who led the American League shortstops last season with an average of .963, to third base and use Jack Tavener, obtained from Detroit in the Uhle deal, or Ray Gardner, from New Orleans, at shortstop.

Reeves May Be Man to Fill Post Left Vacant by Myer.

Connie Mack is undecided whether to use Jimmy Foxx at first or third. If Foxx is used at first, Jimmy Dykes or Sammy Hale will play third. Hale is a good hitter, but an erratic fielder.

The Red Sox, Browns and Tigers will pick their third baseman from several candidates. The departure of Myer left the Red Sox without a third baseman.

Bob Reeves, who played shortstop for the Senators last season, may be shifted to the hot corner. Jerry Standaert, who batted .347 for Memphis, and Bob Barrett, who batted .311 for Buffalo, may be given trials at that bag.

Bucky Harris may make some sort of shift to get the third baseman he wants, but at present Marty McManus and Nolen Richardson, back up again from Fort Worth, will vie for the berth.

The Cardinals will shift Frankie Frisch from second to third, and if the change doesn't work out the berth will rest between Andy High, last year's third baseman, and Fred Haney, formerly with the Tigers.

The Pirates are counting on Jimmy Stroner, regarded as the best player in the Western League last season, to make good at third and justify Traynor's shift to short. Stroner batted .367 and hit 41 home runs last season.

Third base is Joe McCarthy's biggest problem. Clyde Beck, who played the bag last season, may again prove to be the best of a bad lot. Danny Taylor, who played the outfield last season for Memphis and batted .374, and Clarence Blair, who batted .294 for Little Rock, will be given trials at the Cubs' hot corner.

Charley Dressen, Joe Stripp and Rube Lutzke, formerly with the Indians, will battle for third base on the Cincinnati Reds.

Radice Stars In Overtime Thriller

Old Liners Wipe Out Lead by Rally in Second Half.

Goals by McGann and Allen Clinch Game; Start Is Slow.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 13.—Led by the sharpshooting of Julie Radice, Maryland University's Basket Ball Team emerged with a 30 to 27 victory over the Naval Academy in a heart-throbbing, extra-period game this afternoon.

Radice's presence on the floor of Bancroft Hall spelled defeat for the Midshipmen almost single-handed, as he led a wild offensive rush in the waning minutes that wiped out what had seemed to be a commanding lead of the Navy.

Eluding the Navy defense with artful dribbling and peppering the basket from afar, Radice scored five field goals, one of which tied the game in the final minutes when Navy threatened to eke out victory despite the gallant finish of the Old Liners. This goal sent the game into an extra period. Five seconds before the regulation time ended Referee Voith called a foul on "Red" Allen, Navy forward, but with a chance to clinch the victory McGann, of Maryland, missed both tries at the goal.

Radice's Goal Gives Team Lead in Extra Period.

Immediately at start of the overtime play, McGann redeemed himself with a field goal that sent Maryland into the lead and Radice virtually clinched matters with a long toss into the hoop. McGann contributed another foul goal, and, amid a wild demonstration by the fans, "Red" Allen revived Navy's hope with a two-pointer. The Maryland zone defense proved effective, however, checking Navy's scoring, and when "Duke" Allen, new Old Line center, responded with another field goal, the game was decided.

Maryland was forced to make an uphill battle almost from the start. Neither team scored during the first few minutes, but thereafter with "Reds" Allen and Bernet taking the offensive, Navy compiled an 8-to-0 lead.

At this juncture Radice swung into action, aided by two goals by Hemsl, and Maryland outscored the Navy for the remainder of the half, which ended with the Midshipmen leading by a 14-to-11 count.

The teams matched point for point thereafter until the final five minutes of the game when Maryland managed to pull to even terms. Navy was ahead by 2 points, however, when Radice contributed the tying field goal.

OUTSIDER WINS WHILE JOCKEYS ON FAVORITES FIGHT

Our Own Pays 8-1 in Miami Feature

Action on Complaint Against Riders Is Deferred.

Jockey Tom Malley Pilots Home Two Winners.

HIALEAH RACE TRACK, Fla., Feb. 13 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—There has been plenty of rough riding at the Miami Jockey Club meeting, but the climax was reached in the running of the Dixie Highway handicap, at 6 furlongs, the feature of the card this afternoon, when J. C. Mergler, who rode Fleetnig Fire, the odds-on favorite, and G. Zatesio, who rode Rosinante, the second choice, did not confine the use of their whips to the flanks of their mounts. After the race, H. Haymaker, owner of Rosinante, went before the stewards and made a formal complaint and the officials took the matter under advisement.

As always happens, the outsider profited and Our Own, ridden by Kurtsinger, an 8-to-1 shot in the betting, won. He slipped through on the rail at the stretch turn and scored by four lengths from Fleeting Fire, with Rosinante third. The last named had led for a furlong and then Fleeting Fire came up on the rail and the pair raced together to the stretch turn where Fleeting Fire bore out.

Malley, Leading Rider, Pilots Home Two Winners.

Tommy Malley, the leading rider at the meeting, booted two winners in the course of the afternoon, Curveur in the first race and the Greentree Stable's Toss About in the fourth. It was the Greentree Stable's first winner at the meeting. Toss About led all the way, Begin Over finishing second and Oakland third.

John D. Hertz, owner of Reigh Count, characterized as ridiculous and with a malicious origin, the report that Bert Michell, who is training the horse for the Ascot Gold Cup, had been denied a license by the English Jockey Club.

Mr. Hertz said this afternoon that he had received a cablegram from Michell only a day or two ago regarding the colt's engagements in the spring stakes in England and had added that he had received his trainer's license.

Bert Mitchell Training Reigh Count at New Market.

Reigh Count is at New Market in the establishment of Harvey Leader, trainer for A. C. Schwartz, who won the grand national with Jack Horner three years ago, but Michell is handling the horse. Mr. Hertz said that in all of his letters Michell has spoken about the courtesy he has received from the English authorities and trainers.

News of the death of John Walters, for so long the leading commissioner in the club house on the New York tracks, came as a shock to his many friends here. Men in all walks of life who have an interest in racing expressed the opinion that his like never would be seen again on the turf and that racing had lost its best friend since the death of August Belmont.

CURVEUR, under slight restraint in the early stages, closed with a determined rush when called on and won going away. JIM CROW set a fast pace and drew out into a good lead, but stopped suddenly in the final sixteenth. FOCUS, away slowly, gained steadily under hard pressure and ran a better race than chart shows. BLACK GAL saved ground entering stretch, but faltered in final furlong. REFUTATION had no mishaps. WHIZZING CLOUD and ISABELLA could never get up. KATHERINE W was pulled up rounding the turn.

GERMAINE CHAUVELOT displayed keen speed from the start, but was taken back rounding the turn, closed determinedly under weak handling through stretch and wore RAINSTORM down in final strides. RAINSTORM, hustled into the lead, saved ground entering stretch and drew away, but weakened when the final issue came. FORTUNATE MANN gradually improved his position from a slow beginning and was going strongest of all at the finish. STUART'S DRAFT slipped through on the inside the entire trip and had no excuse. AGNES CALL pulled up lame.

LUCENT held his field safe for speed and was never menaced, winning with something to spare. CLAIRE AMOUR made a game effort, but could not improve her position. RUTH GOLD saved ground from the start and raced evenly. MISS MARYLAND, away tardily, was taken wide the entire trip and could never improve her position. BY WAY retired after going a half mile.

TOSSABOUT, running to her best form, drew clear in the first sixteenth, was taken in hand entering stretch, saved ground and held BEGIN OVER safe in final drive. Latter, a forward contender throughout, responded gamely under punishment and shook off OAKLAND through stretch. The latter showed a good turn of speed in the early running, but could not keep pace with the leaders through stretch. WEBSTER moved up fast on the stretch turn, but was taken wide and finished under restraint. JACK CRAIN was not persevered with. GLEE CLUB lacked speed.

OUR OWN moved into contention rapidly down the back stretch and followed the leaders under restraint until the stretch turn, where he slipped through on the inside and, taking command, drew away and won in hand. FLEETING FIRE, used up racing ROSINANTE into defeat, weakened after going a half-mile, but finished well in final drive. ROSINANTE, away fast, displayed good speed, but could not get clear of FLEETING FIRE. Zatesio whipped Mergler over the back and Mergler carried him wide on the turn. APOSTLE closed stoutly. GREY CHIEF could not get up.

ATLA, rated off the early pace, assumed command at his leisure leaving the back stretch and, continuing gamely, held Alleviator safe in the final drive. Latter, running in improved form, raced forwardly entering the stretch, made a game effort, but could not overtake the winner. SOLO moved up stoutly rounding last turn, but weakened through stretch. PRIG, taken behind horses all the way, could never improve his position. BATTLEFIELD had no excuses. FAIR JUSTICE was in trouble repeatedly. RED CURL retired after going five furlongs.

FIRST RACE—

GONZAGA BEATS DEVITT 42-6 TO NEAR PREP TITLE

Galotta Ruled Ineligible for Contest

Devitt Also Loses Services of Clark, Who Becomes Ill.

Mitchell Starts Second Team; Dunn Tops in Scoring.

GONZAGA gained a commanding lead in the Prep School Basket Ball League yesterday, disposing of Devitt Prep by the convincing score of 42 to 6, for its fourth consecutive victory in the circuit. Due to a conflict in schedule, the Emerson-St. John's battle, also listed for yesterday, was postponed.

Devitt was forced to play without the services of Henry Galotta, dependable guard, because that player was found ineligible after being protested by Emerson last week after the latter had lost to Devitt. Galotta was found to be a graduate of Tech High, which made him ineligible for play in the Prep School League.

Despite the absence of Galotta, Devitt played a stubborn game during the first half and held Gonzaga to a 7-to-3 score at the intermission. The second half proved a nightmare, however, for the Daly-coached lads, who just stayed in the game to play it out.

Devitt Five Further Weakened By Illness of Clark.

The fact that Clark, guard, was forced out because of sickness, hurt the team's cause also. Devitt, in all, scored 3 points during the first half and 3 in the second half, which included a basket and foul shot in each instance. Clark registered the basket and foul in the first half while Gleason caged the fielder and Tangora the free shot after the intermission.

Gonzaga, on the other hand, broke through with a bombardment of shots at the rims in the second half after being held in check in the first two quarters. All of the army of players used by Coach Mitchell figured in the scoring, with Kane and Dunn leading, with 6 points each.

Coach Mitchell Starts Reserves In Knute Rockne Style.

Mitchell pulled a "Rockne" at the start of the game by using his reserve team. The Gonzaga regulars were rushed in just before the close of the half and rushed out again after collecting a big lead in the third quarter.

Clark, of Devitt, caged the first of the two baskets of the game for Devitt to open the proceedings, the best part of the entire contest, while Dunn came back with a flip from the side to tie it up, 2 to 2, for Gonzaga. A "snowbird" by Charlie McVean gave Gonzaga a 4 to 2 lead at the end of the first quarter. Bussink's foul made it 5 to 2 for Gonzaga at the resumption of play, while a follow-up shot by the same player made it 7 to 2 for the I Streeters one or two moments later. A foul toss by Clark gave Devitt its third point of the game just before the termination of the first half.

Devitt Team Is Completely Routed In Second Half of Game.

Gleason made it look like a game for Devitt by sinking a shot from the side to start the second half, but Kane, Pyne, and J. Farrell sank baskets in rapid-fire order to pull away for Gonzaga. After Tangora's foul toss for Devitt made it 12 to 6 in favor of Gonzaga, then the bombardment came for the I Streeters. Devitt practically collapsed and just followed the Gonzaga players around until the end.

The game that Emerson protested against Devitt, in which the latter used Galotta last week, will be replayed later in the schedule according to officials of the league. Two games will be played next week, St. John's meeting Devitt and Emerson playing Gonzaga.

sion's ruling on Bulow he would retire from the ring until his contract with Bulow expires on October 9, 1930. This is a dire threat, but it is unlikely to cost Messrs. Farley, Muldoon and Brower any sleep. If Schmeling wishes, he can stay retired for the rest of his life, for all the weight that consideration will have with the commission. Messrs. Farley, Muldoon and Brower, all men of independent means, would go right on eating regularly in such a calamitous eventuality, whereas it is extremely doubtful if Herr Schmeling himself would.

Tattooed Chest of Italian Ace Target for His Opponents.

Ricardo Bertazolla, the Italian giant, who recently arrived here bent on decimating the heavyweight ranks, will offer the boys something to shoot at when he eases his ponderous frame through the ropes. On a chest as expansive as Curtis Field he bears a tattooed likeness of a signora with a pointed chin jutting out just below Ricardo's breastbone. As if that Johnny Evers chin were not inviting enough, beautiful big eyes of the kind that blacken easily offer superb targets. The Italian fighter is so tall that opponents who specialize in wallops to the jaw will concentrate in his case on the fair signora's chin instead of Ricardo's.

New Faces Are Welcomed to Group Of Heavyweight Contenders.

Ernie Schaaf, the 20-year-old Jerseyite, who is shaping up as one of the best of the heavyweight crop, will fill in for Max Schmeling against Con O'Kelly, the Irish entry, in Boston Friday night. If the former sailor gets past O'Kelly, who is a promisin' bye himself, Schaaf will be ripe for a whack at big game in the garden here. Jack Sharkey is the man who believes that Schaaf is the lad the next titleholder will have to reckon with before he can walk away with the crown. The reception accorded Christner and Schmeling proved that the fans welcome new faces in the heavyweight brigade. Let's have a look at the Schaafs, the Babe Hunts and the Les Mariners, who promise to fill the places of the vanishing Riskos and Renaults.

Johnny Dundee From Old School Which Produced Ring Longevity.

Benny Leonard was among the ringsiders who saw the aged Johnny Dundee romp away with a decision over the strong, youthful Lou Moscowitz at the new Lenox Tuesday night. Moscowitz, who recently knocked out Dominick Petrone and gave Al Singer a stiff battle, looked like the man ordained to slip Dundee his long-deferred passage to fistic oblivion. But the ancient Johnny, who was fighting when Lou was still teething, handed his youthful rival a neat shellacking.

Discussing Dundee's ring longevity, Leonard pointed out that he was brought out in the same day and school that produced Jack Brixton, Ted (Kid) Lewis and Battling Levinsky, who lasted long after their early contemporaries had sought fireside chairs and slippers.

Leonard might have added that he, too, is a product of the same day and school. He retired at the height of his powers, but still is in splendid shape and the chances are that he could step into the ring on a month's notice and push Joe Dundee, for instance, off his shaky welterweight throne.

Baseball Fans Mourn Passing Of Ulrich, Good Right-Hander.

Baseball fans will mourn the untimely passing of Dutch Ulrich, star pitcher of the Phillies, who succumbed to a second attack of pneumonia just as he seemed to be recovering from one attack which kept him out of baseball all last season. Ulrich had developed into one of the best right-handers in the circuit when illness laid him low. His death at 29, just as his most fruitful baseball years seemed to lie just before him, recalls other players cut down in their prime.

The list includes such well-known players as Eddie Grant, Giant infielder; Ross Young, Giant outfielder; Austin McHenry, Cardinal outfielder; Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop; Addie Joss, Cleveland pitcher; Chick Stahl, Red Sox outfielder and manager; Allan Storke, Cardinal infielder; Harry Steinfeldt, Cub third baseman; Jake Daubert, Cincinnati first baseman, and Harry Dolan, Brave outfielder. Christy Mathewson, Pat Moran, Frank Chance, Hugh Jennings, Jake Stahl and Bill Donovan were among those connected with the managerial end of the game who met untimely deaths.

CENTRAL FIVE IN VICTORY, 33 TO 11

Silver Spring Unable to Halt Visitors' Passing Attack.

THE Silver Spring High School Five proved no match for the better-drilled Central High Quintet yesterday and fell before the Mount Pleasanters, 33 to 11, in the Silver Spring Armory Gymnasium.

The game gave Coach Coggins a chance to use quite a number of his first and second string men all of whom performed in good fashion. Monk led in the scoring with four baskets and one foul toss for 9 points, while Wood and Cross vied for second scoring honors with 6 points apiece. Central's short, snappy passing attack worked in excellent form yesterday.

Christie Leads Silver Spring Team in Scoring With 5 Points.

Christie, Kreh and Harries were the only Silver Spring scorers, the first named leading with two fielders and a foul toss for 5 points. Kreh registered two baskets for 4 points and Harries two free throws for 2 points.

Central got off to a commanding lead at the outset and led, 15 to 5, by the end of the first half. It more than duplicated its scoring after the intermission as the final figures bring out. Silver Spring was able to garner but four more points to add to its five, in the last two quarters.

YOUNG NAMED AMERICAN U. COACH

Ex-O. Wesleyan Star Succeeds Springston in September.

THE first definite step in its efforts to gain a brighter spot in the collegiate athletic sun was taken by American University yesterday when the formal announcement of the appointment of Walter H. Young, former Ohio Wesleyan football star, to the post of assistant professor of physical education was made by Chancellor Lucius C. Clark.

Young will succeed G. Baillie Springston, director of physical education and coach of the Methodists' football, basketball, baseball and track teams since the opening of the Massachusetts Avenue Heights institution in the fall of 1925. Springston, who asked to be relieved of the post because he wanted to devote more time to private business interests, will finish out the present academic year and Young will take up the duties of the office starting next September.

New Full-Time Coach to Develop Intramural Athletics.

Young will be a full-time coach. He will have the time to devote to intensive intramural physical education, work that Springston could not do. In this intramural activity, the moulding of potential athletic stars begins, and, as proven in the case of other colleges, intramural sports breed greater interest in the varsity teams with a consequent larger turn-out of varsity candidates than there would be without them.

Quantico Marine Five Beats Bolling Field

The return of Ostrander to the lineup signaled a brilliant exhibition by the Quantico Marines Basketers last night when they defeated the Bolling Field Quintet, 33 to 23. Ostrander, with 13 points, was the outstanding player.

The other rule dealt specifically with foreign fighters, declaring that no boxer entering New York State from a foreign country will be permitted to engage the services of a manager without consent and no visiting manager with contracts to manage foreign boxers will be permitted to assign any part of his interest without approval.

At the request of the Pennsylvania commission, Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, was suspended for failure to go through with a recent match in Philadelphia, as were Max Waxman, his manager, and the latter's entire stable of boxers.

Charley Phil Rosenberg, former bantamweight champion, was suspended for fouling recently in a Syracuse fight and Bud Taylor was set down for fouling Al Singer at the Garden Friday night.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Mated."

DEAR Miss McDonald: Just a word or two to these girls who marry for money and those who marry for love. I always worked, had an excellent position and dressed well and always expressed opinion about girls who worked after marriage. I said if the man I married wouldn't support me I would stay single, but I wasn't in love so I didn't know. Then one day I met him, three months later we were engaged and married within a year. We had a wonderful wedding, a nice quiet trip and settled right down to keep house with absolutely no money except our salaries. But we were so happy nothing mattered. We were in love. Then after we were married three months he was taken suddenly ill, an operation followed and of course a great deal of expense, amounting to about $1,000. Now he is well again and we are happy, working hard to pay off the bills. But still we are in love! We have each other. I never had less or was I ever more contented in my life! I have only one dress, where I used to have one dozen, but when I look around our apartment and think of my dear husband, I wouldn't change places with the richest girl in the world and I mean it. Every day I love him more, and though it may sound selfish, we never want anyone else around, stay in nights listening to the radio or playing cards together. And when we cease to be like this, I will know that I have failed in my biggest undertaking. I will feel that half the fault is mine, but way down deep in my heart something tells me, we are not going to fail because our biggest backer is love. So wait all you girls like I did. Wait, and when you feel you can be with him and not care about anything else or anybody else and when you feel that you could work and give your money in, all of it, and not mind, to help pay bills, then go ahead and good luck. I am sure you will never regret it.

I suppose you will think by this letter I have been married about 25 years, but we have had lots of trouble and so feel quite experienced although only married 15 months.

I hope Miss McDonald, you will publish this long letter if you can. I enjoy your column so much and wish you luck and happiness.

Sincerely,
HAPPY HELEN.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE BETTER SELF.

"I am the man you could be if you would!"
As one who wakes from slumber at a sound
I sat up straight and stared the room around
And wondered who had spoken or who could.
And in the shadow one there seemed to be Much like myself who sadly looked at me.

"Why do you waste your days and hours and years Treading the easy path?" he softly asked,
"Scorning the trials with which worth is tasked?
Surely by now to you it plain appears
Who would do good, must struggle to advance,
Luck makes men rich, but none grows fine by chance.

"I am the better man you ought to be.
The kindlier, braver man you could be still
If you but had the courage and the will.
Time was you thought you would resemble me.
But pleasure, like a slow but sure disease
Turned you from labor to a love of ease.

"The dream that lacks all effort stays a dream!
So I, your better self, am still a shade,
Waiting the deeds by which I shall be made;
Waiting from you my life-blood's pulsing stream.
I'm still the man you could be if you cared.
The better man you would be if you dared!"

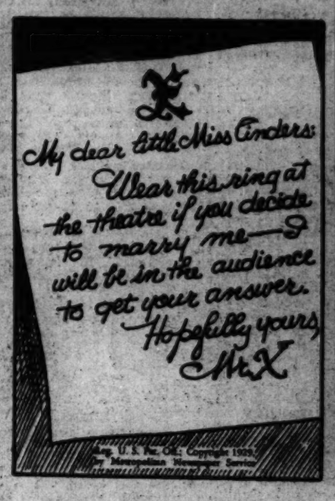
FAVORITE? DON'T BE SILLY!

ELLA CINDERS—The Shining Symbol

I HAVEN'T DONE ANYTHING — YOU HAVE THE WRONG ADDRESS — I HOPE!
WE CAME TO DELIVER A VALUABLE DIAMOND RING TO YOU! A MR. X SENT IT AND A NOTE GOES WITH IT!



My dear Little Miss Cinders:
Wear this ring at the theatre if you decide to marry me — I will be in the audience to get your answer.
Hopefully yours,
Mr. X

OGEEGOSH! HOW BEAUTIFUL! IT TAKES WILL-POWER TO REFUSE A DIAMOND LIKE THIS, AND I CAN FEEL MY WILL-POWER BECOMING FLEXIBLE!

FEDERAL BANKERS' ADVISERS TO MEET

Council Is Expected to Discuss Speculation Outlook Here Today.

STOCKS' PRICES STRONG

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

With all eyes focused on the Federal Reserve Board for any possible amplification of the statement which last week precipitated a decline in stock prices from which they have not yet fully recovered, widespread interest attaches today to a meeting of the Federal Advisory Council which will be held at 10:30 o'clock at the Mayflower Hotel.

As the council was created for the purpose of giving the Federal Reserve Board the benefit of the advice of men outside the active operations of the system and twelve such men, representative of all Federal Reserve districts, are gathered in Washington today for the first quarterly meeting of the council it is only reasonable to assume that the board's policy regarding use of reserve funds for speculative investment will be the uppermost question under discussion.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock the board members will dine with the council in the presidential suite of the Mayflower Hotel, and tomorrow the two groups will meet in joint session.

No official work was forthcoming last night concerning likely action of the board on the Heflin resolution asking that body to suggest legislation which might curb the movement of reserve credit into speculative channels, or its reaction to the Shipstead resolution inquiring into the board's relationship with financial institutions of foreign nations. And, as all meetings of the council and of the board are strictly executive, only in the event of some public pronouncement will any word of their deliberations reach outer circles.

Despite the shafts of critics who have disparaged the importance of the council, the advisory body is empowered under the law to make oral or written representations concerning matters within the jurisdiction of the board. It may confer directly with the board and make recommendations on discount rates, rediscount business, note issues, reserve conditions in the various districts, the purchase or sale of gold or securities by the reserve banks, and the general affairs of the Federal Reserve System.

John Poole, president of the Federal-American National Bank, who was appointed a member of the council to succeed Col. J. F. Bruton, president of the First National Bank of Wilson, N. C., will attend his first meeting of the body this morning. There are two other new members in town, William C. Poulter, president of the Guaranty Trust Co., of New York, who succeeds J. S. Alexander, and J. P. Butler, jr., president of the Canal Bank & Trust Co., who succeeds P. D. Houston.

Other members of the Federal advisory council who are here for today's meeting are Arthur M. Heard, of Manchester, N. Y.; L. L. Rue, of Philadelphia; Harris Creech, of Cleveland, Ohio; Frank O. Wetmore, of Chicago; Walter W. Smith, of St. Louis; Theodore Wold, of Minneapolis; P. W. Goebel, of Kansas City; B. A. McKinney, of Dallas, Tex., and L. F. Lipman, of San Francisco.

Lanston to Acquire New Plant.

The Lanston Monotype Machine Co. announces the making of a contract providing for the acquisition of the patents, trade names, designs, patterns, tools and machinery and matrix-making equipment of the Thompson Type Machine Co., of Chicago. The purchase includes all master and commercial matrices and all work in process, but none of the cash or receivables and none of the contracts or liabilities of the Thompson Co.

Charles B. Slaughter, president of the Thompson Co., has announced to all users of Thompson machines that they are assured a continuance through the monotype company of mechanical service and Thompson matrices, machine parts and supplies. President Harvey D. Best, of the Monotype Co., states that the entire Thompson plant will be removed from Chicago to the monotype factory in Philadelphia, and that the manufacture and sale of Thompson machines will be continued.

Lanston Monotype stock is popular on the Washington Stock Exchange, where it last sold at 128. J. Thilman Hendrick, partner of W. B. Hibbs & Co., is chairman of the monotype board, and George W. White, president of the National Metropolitan Bank, is a director.

Local stocks opened strong yesterday following Tuesday's holiday on the Washington Stock Exchange. Trading was heaviest in weeks. Among the issues netting gains for the day was Bank of Bethesda, which moved up 7 points, to 85; Washington Loan & Trust Co., which advanced 4 points, to 527; Merchants Transfer & Storage common, which sold at 128, and Potomac Electric 6 per cent preferred, at 114. Other issues to move up fractionally were Potomac Electric 5½ per cent preferred, 109½; Washington Railway & Electric preferred, 99¾; Merchants Transfer & Storage preferred, 109¼.

Freedom from aviation restrictions is one of the features of a new $1,000-limit nonmedical policy form announced by William Montgomery, president of the Acacia Mutual Life Association. Briefly analyzed, the policy requires no medical examination; it is incontestable from date of issue; it requires no death claim papers; it is free from restrictions regarding suicide and aviation; it is a whole life policy paid up at age of 75; it is participating; it has cash surrender and loan values; and it is a sight draft for $1,000.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Unusually high margin requirements, which average around a 35 per cent minimum in most of the leading commission houses, are believed to have forestalled any extensive "distress selling" in the recent reaction caused by adverse credit developments. In the old days when 10 to 20 per cent margins were common, a warning, such as the Federal Reserve Board issued the other day, would have resulted in the closing out of thousands of weakened speculative accounts, and possibly some casualties among the smaller brokerage houses. In the break early this month relatively few margin calls were sent out, and the large majority of these were speedily complied with.

Darby Petroleum Corporation's production from eleven gas wells in Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas has increased to between 10,000,000 and 12,000,000 cubic feet a day, compared with 1,000,000 cubic feet in January, 1928. Present production is said to be about 7 per cent of total capacity.

Tabulation of reports from trust companies in banks in all parts of the country establishes that more than $1,000,000,000 in life insurance now is protected by trust agreements, Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Co., announced today. The reports indicate that approximately $700,000,000, in insurance policies was placed in trust last year.

The following information has been furnished by Mr. A. D. Geoghegan, President of the Company:

Wesson Oil & Snowdrift Co., Inc., owns all the capital stocks (except directors' qualifying shares) of The Southern Cotton Oil Company, Southport Mill, Limited, and Sco Tank Line, Inc. These companies, comprising the largest completely integrated unit in the cotton oil industry, and refining annually approximately 16% of all the cottonseed oil produced in the United States, are engaged in the manufacture and distribution of a wide variety of products, including "Wesson Oil," "Snowdrift" shortening, "Scoco" shortening, and "MFB." A large bulk oil business is done with manufacturers of mayonnaise, margarine, soaps and kindred products, and there has been developed an extensive utilization of cottonseed oil by-products, such as cottonseed cake and meal, used extensively as cattle feed; soap stock and Beta fat, used by the manufacturers of soap and lubricants; pitch, used in the manufacture of paint, linoleum and roofing; and cotton linters, used in the production of rayon.

The thorough utilization of the raw material results in a balanced production and a diversified market for the products which are sold to a majority of the important grocery jobbers in the United States, as well as such nationally known and widely diversified firms as: Ward Baking Co., National Biscuit Co., The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co., Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Colgate & Co., The Procter & Gamble Co., Gold Dust Corporation, and the Standard Oil Companies of New York, New Jersey and Indiana. "Wesson Oil" and "Snowdrift" shortening alone are now being sold in approximately 200,000 retail stores throughout the United States.

For the three years and three months ended August 31, 1928, the consolidated net income of the Company and its constituent companies, available for dividends, after allowing for the saving of interest charges through the present financing, has averaged $3,168,620, equivalent to approximately $7.92 per share of Convertible Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding. For the fiscal year ended August 31, 1928, such net income amounted to $3,529,153, equivalent to approximately $8.82 per share of Convertible Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding. After deducting annual dividend requirements on the Convertible Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding, the balance of net income, so calculated, for the fiscal year ended August 31, 1928, is equivalent to approximately $3.21 per share of the 600,000 shares of Common Stock to be presently outstanding.

On the basis of the pro forma consolidated balance sheet of the Company and its constituent companies, prepared from the consolidated balance sheet as of November 30, 1928, adjusted to give effect to the present financing and transactions incidental thereto, the net tangible assets, after deducting all liabilities and reserves, amount to $39,040,197, equivalent to more than $97 per share of Convertible Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding. Net current assets alone amount to $28,197,366, equivalent to more than $70 per share of Convertible Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding.

The proceeds of this issue of Convertible Preferred Stock will be applied to the redemption on June 1, 1929, of the entire issue of $7 Cumulative Preferred Stock of the Company, of which 142,114 shares are at present outstanding, and to providing additional working capital.

Application will be made to list this Convertible Preferred Stock on the New York Stock Exchange. Voting Trust Certificates for the Common Stock are listed on the New York Stock Exchange and application will be made to list the additional Voting Trust Certificates for the Common Stock which will be issued as a stock dividend.

We offer this Stock, if, as, and when issued and received by us, subject to the approval of all legal proceedings by our counsel, Messrs. Shearman and Sterling, of New York, and Messrs. Monroe and Lemann, of New Orleans, and by Messrs. Dufour, Rosen and Kammer, of New Orleans. The accounts of the company and its constituent companies have been audited by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse and Co. for the three years and three months ended August 31, 1928. It is expected that delivery will be made on or about March 1, 1929, in the form of temporary stock certificates.

Price $72.50 Per Share

Subject to confirmation and prior sale we are prepared to accept existing $7 Cumulative Preferred Stock of the Company in exchange for new Convertible Preferred Stock on the basis of three shares of new Convertible Preferred Stock and $2.50 in cash for each two shares of existing $7 Cumulative Preferred Stock.

VAGRANCY MEASURE SCORED BY CITIZENS' ADVISORY COUNCIL

SUFFRAGE QUESTION BRINGS HOT DEBATE

Members Urge Larger Fund From Congress to Pay District Expenses.

Disenfranchised Washington, represented in the Citizens Advisory Council, last night rose to protest in no uncertain terms what it thought of proposals of half suffrage for the District and the vagrancy law which was proposed by the Police Department and is being seriously urged for enactment to become effective before the inauguration period.

The two were hooked together by council members in their debate as being symbolic of the condition in which the people of the city now find themselves.

William A. Roberts described the proposed new vagrancy law, which was drafted by the Police Department, sent to the Commissioners by Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, and approved by the Commissioners because six alleged pickpockets could not be convicted of vagrancy, as "the most rank piece of legislation ever seen in the history of the District."

Danger to Visitors Seen.

"Tens of thousands of visitors who may come to Washington during the inauguration period may be thrown into jail under the provisions of this proposed vagrancy law and they could be tucked into jail without a hearing," Roberts declared.

Roberts proposed that the council condemn the law proposed by the police department and the council was willing to agree to condemn it, but it wanted to express its condemnation in stronger language than Roberts proposed.

"I'm for such a resolution, provided it is not enough," Charles I. Stengle said.

"We are so violently opposed to this measure that I think we should do more than merely say that we are opposed to it and should cite definite reasons for our determined opposition," Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the council, said.

The upshot was that the council expressed its disapproval of the measure and directed Roberts to prepare a report citing its objections in detail. This is to be submitted at the council meeting next week.

Suffrage Is Mentioned.

Councilman Stengle brought the issue of representation and suffrage before the council in a denunciation of the McLeod bill providing for the appointment of a congressional delegate from the District by the Commissioners.

"Why," Stengle said derisively, "this measure classifies us below Porto Rico, the Hawaiian Islands or any other of the insular possessions of the United States. It puts us at the very end of the list.

"If Congress really wants to give us civic rights it should begin at the ballot box with local self government. Let us have a city council with authority to legislate on local matters. If Congress is interested in our election rights let it give us something more than make a mere gesture. Let it give us something more than a mere figurehead who can sit up there and talk and look pretty, but can't vote or do anything real."

Stengle's speech apparently struck fire from other council members for there was a spirited discussion in the course of which the former Brooklyn Congressman found occasion to suggest that under an elective system of government for the District "we would be able to find out something about surpluses and know whether Mrs. Blalock has the keys to the Police Department or not."

Surplus May Be Erased.

Measures now before Congress which have the approval of the District Commissioners and civic bodies and apparently the approval of a number of members of the House and Senate, Stengle said, will wipe out the existing surplus of District funds, if enacted, and "will mean an increase in the present tax rate."

Stengle's declaration was made in the course of a report as the council member who is chairman of the Federation of Citizens' Associations committee on fiscal relations. He declared that there was a strong disposition not to increase the Federal contribution above $9,000,000 a year, despite the fact that Congress constantly was enacting and proposing to enact legislation which would materially decrease the available taxable property from which the District Government must draw its revenue.

"There is no escaping the conclusion, after a study of all the facts, that the Federal contribution, if you want to call it contribution, should be increased materially," Stengle said.

Some Measures Approved.

The council approved the bill providing for $2,000,000 for extension of the public library service; the Capper bill excluding civic organizations from the provisions of the workmen's compensation bill; the building of a new trash incinerator for the District; and declared against the carrying of signs or similar inveighing against the religion of anyone.

Roberts was authorized to represent the council before congressional committees in connection with amending the District public utilities law so as to permit the payment of salaries adequate to engage experts in a supervisory capacity.

Dr. Havenner was somewhat caustic in his comment on the inability of the commission to get approval of the Personnel Classification Board of adequate salaries for needed men in past months and Roberts was somewhat more caustic, declaring that John W. Childress, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, had completely distorted the situation in the minds of congressional committee after "groveling around before them" trying to explain. Harrison W. Brand, jr., vice chairman of the commission, didn't improve the situation, Roberts said, although he approved of what Brand had said, inferring that Brand had had a hard job.

The council approved the idea.

Twenty visiting Rotarians among whom was the Rev. George H. McNeil, chaplain of Wesley Chapel, London, introduced themselves at the request of Arthur K. May, who presided in the absence of President George M. Whitwell, who was ill. Police Department Issues Regulations for Inaugural Fine of $100 or 60 Days in Jail Penalty for Violation of Emergency Rules; Many Objectionable Items Eliminated by Order.

Regulations designed to rule out the independent operators and bring, in so far as possible, control of revenue-producing activities incident to the inauguration of President-elect Herbert Hoover next March 4 under the control of the inaugural committee were approved yesterday by the District Commissioners.

The regulations were drafted by the Police Department after many consultations with the inaugural committee and were designed to eliminate many of the things which have come to be considered a part of happy, Mardi Gras occasions.

The new regulations are to go into effect on February 25 and are to continue in effect until March 11. They provide a fine of $100 or not more than 60 days in jail for violation of any section. Under them the chief of police is authorized to close streets and avenues and issue licenses for various activities at his discretion for fees of $25 per person, except those authorized to sell souvenir programs and medals by the inaugural committee. Those persons would pay nothing, but would be given a card authorizing them to do business.

One of the sections of the regulations provides that licenses issued to independent persons who have paid their $25 fee "may be immediately revoked and taken up by any member of the Metropolitan Police Force upon demand where the licensee is found violating any provision of the law or of these regulations."

Placing of boxes, chairs, stools or similar objects along the sidewalks is prohibited; seats in windows or on balconies from which to view the inaugural ceremonies or parade is prohibited except under approval of the District building inspector; posters may not be distributed, nor may these or other advertising matter be pasted or tacked on stands or lamp posts; all persons must stay benind ropes which may be stretched by the police or be subject to the $100 fine or 60 days in jail.

Confetti, ticklers, toy revolvers advertising vehicles, lights, noise-making devices and similar things are prohibited. Persons renting rooms must keep a register signed in ink and be subject to inspection and sanitary requirements.

Inasmuch as badges and similar devices are to be sold by the inaugural committee it was not possible to exclude independent sellers and the Police Department and the committee achieved their object in the regulations by requiring a license fee of $25 from the independents, who must have a card and supply the police with a photograph made within five days before the license is issued.

Maj. Hesse and his assistants also wanted to require them to submit to finger printing by the police, but the Commissioners balked at going quite so far.

Food and drink stands may be placed between the building line and curbstone only on approval of the police precinct commanders on payment of $1 fee and they must be subject to various regulations.

The regulations set aside as an emergency congested zone an area beginning at Sixth street and Missouri avenue northwest, thence to Louisiana avenue, to Fifth street to G to Fifteenth to H to Seventeenth to New York avenue, back up Seventeenth to Pennsylvania avenue to Fifteenth to B street northwest to Sixth street and Missouri avenue.

This temporary congested zone designation will be in effect from Midnight March 3, to midnight March 4.

No parking will be permitted in this zone in that time, except public vehicles and commercial vehicles. All will be excluded from Pennsylvania avenue during the inaugural parade, and there will be supplemental regulations issued by Hesse governing that feature.

No vehicle will be permitted to make a turn in a street between intersections during the 24 hours specified.

No parking will be allowed on the following streets during the same 24 hours:

M northwest, Pennsylvania avenue to Thirty-sixth; Pennsylvania avenue southeast, from west end of bridge to Second street; B southeast, Second to First; First, B southeast to B northeast; East Capitol, First to Second; Maryland avenue, First to Second; B, Maryland avenue northeast to First street northwest; First B southwest to Indiana avenue northwest; Fourteenth street, Water southwest to Thomas circle northwest; Nineteenth, New York avenue to K; Pennsylvania, Nineteenth northwest to Washington circle; E northwest, Fourteenth to Fifteenth.

A penalty of $100 fine or not more than 60 days in jail in lieu thereof is provided for violation of these parking regulations, which may be extended and made effective on the posting of printed notices along streets needed for formation of parade units designated by the grand marshal of the parade.

POLICEMAN SPURNS MEDICAL AID AFTER MOTORCYCLE SPILL

R. S. Bryant Walks Out of Emergency Hospital, Refusing Help.

RIDING WITH FRIEND WHEN AUTO WAS HIT

Patrolman Refuses to Tell Address of Man With Whom He Rode.

Policeman Robert S. Bryant, of 1308 I street northwest, attached to the Second Precinct, yesterday afternoon walked out of Emergency Hospital without treatment after telling hospital authorities he was a "laborer" and asking for examination of possible injuries received when he was thrown to the pavement from a motorcycle sidecar yesterday afternoon at L street and Vermont avenue northwest, according to hospital authorities.

Bryant was riding with J. M. York, whose address police could not learn and which Bryant declared he did not know, when their motorcycle collided with the automobile of Dr. Benjamin F. Weems, a physician, of 1745 K street northwest. York was operating the motorcycle, Bryant said.

Operator Disappears.

York left the scene of the accident while Dr. Weems was examining Bryant, who was thrown to the pavement on his stomach, Dr. Weems said. When the physician finished and looked up York was gone and the motorcycle had been removed.

York attempted to stop the motorcycle when he observed the physician's automobile, but was unable to do so, Dr. Weems said. Dr. Weems speeded up his machine and almost avoided the collision. The motorcycle struck the axle of the automobile and overturned. Damage to both vehicles was slight.

Explanation Refused.

Bryant declined to explain his disappearance from the Emergency Hospital, saying that he was uninjured and his private doctor, whose name he refused to divulge, had treated him. York, whom he has known before, visited him some time after the accident. Bryant refused to tell when he saw York again, or York's address or place of employment and occupation.

The motorcycle was reported by police as owned by the Washington Cycle Co., 912 Ninth street northwest. Bryant declared he does not know who owned it. York was taking Bryant to Nineteenth and B streets northwest when the accident ocurred, Bryant said.

Bryant was to have reported for duty at the Second Precinct last night at 12 o'clock, but was given leave of absence for one day of his annual 30-day leave period, and was marked up on the precinct board as "on leave."

Joseph Andrew Rupard, of 1831 Olive street northeast, pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of 40 gallons of liquor yesterday when arraigned before Judge John P. McMahon, in Police Court. He denied he was guilty of charges of manufacturing and possession of an unlicensed still.

Rupard was arrested in a raid on the Olive street address Tuesday night by Patrolmen R. B. Carroll, S. H. Miles and C. H. Water, of the Eleventh Precinct. The case was continued until today so that police might bring additional witnesses in an effort to determine how long the alleged manufacture of liquor had been conducted at the premises. Police said a 15-gallon still and 100 gallons of mash were seized.

Cupid Quits Work As Lent Starts

Only Three Marriage Licenses Issued; Record for Ash Wednesday.

The first day of the 40-day Lenten season, Ash Wednesday, was observed yesterday at Catholic and Episcopal churches in the city and made itself felt in at least one other direction.

Col. William A. Kroll, in charge of the Marriage License Bureau, reported that he had issued only three licenses during the day. He added that the number of licenses issued during Lent is always below the average, but that yesterday was the "slowest" Ash Wednesday he had ever experienced.

In Catholic churches of the city the beginning of the 40-day period, which will end with Easter, was observed by the time-honored custom of placing ashes on the foreheads of worshipers. It is from this practice that the day gets its name.

Man Visiting Ill Fiancee In Hospital Held as Thief

Trapped into visiting his friend, Mrs. Leslie Yowell, of 103 Second street northwest, who lies ill in Emergency Hospital, awaiting an operation today for appendicitis, Edwin F. Biggs, 20 years old, was arrested yesterday by detectives.

As Biggs greeted Mrs. Yowell and started to tell her how sorry he was, Headquarters Detective Hubert Brodie arrested him on a warrant charging him with stealing wrist watches from Mrs. Yowell and her roommate, Miss Myrtle Deaton. He is said by police to have admitted taking the watches January 27, last, when he called at the young women's rooms during their absence.

Shortly after his arrest Detective Brodie said that he had Biggs identified as the youth who just before Christmas stole approximately $200 in cash from the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.'s store, at 521 Eighth street southeast, where he was employed at the time. Biggs likewise admits the latter charge, Brodie said.

The young man was booked on a technical charge of investigation, pending efforts of the police to connect him with other thefts. Biggs gave his address as 515 Thirteenth street southeast, and said that he had no occupation. He is being held at the First Precinct station.

According to Brodie, Biggs was unaware that he was suspected by his fiancee when he called at the hospital yesterday, but that the warrant was issued some time ago, and that Mrs. Yowell notified the detective yesterday of Biggs' intended visit as she had previously agreed to do.
